San Rafael Has Until Friday To Adopt Proposal

By NELS JOHNSON

The San Rafael City Council, racing to adopt a city general plan by next Friday — the deadline set by state law — all but dropped out of the race last night.

Councilmen admitted it appears unlikely they will approve a plan before the state deadline despite a warning from City Mgr. William J. Bielser that the consequences might be "serious."

The council asked City Atty. Fred C. Robbins to prepare a legal opinion on the consequences of allowing review of the plan to slip past the deadline.

Robbins' opinion will be presented at the council's Monday meeting.

The council also set 8 p.m. Sept. 23 in city hall for a meeting with municipal economic consultants to discuss various proposals for a cost analysis of the general plan.

Last night's meeting, the third in a final round of airings of the document, lacked the controversy that marked early evolution of the plan. The session was attended by 28 residents.

The council routinely approved the third chapter, or "environmental hazards" section of the plan, and began preliminary review of the housing chapter of the document. The council said that discussion of the housing chapter will continue as part of regular council business at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

Much of last night's three-hour session centered around a proposal in the environmental hazards chapter to divided the city into various "risk zones" — based on the probability of earthquake damage, landslides, settlement, and other hazards in various areas. The plan requires developers to prepare site analyses of parcels according to the level of risk.

A review board composed of outside engineering and planning experts would be charged with settling squabbles between the city and developers over how much risk is involved in a parcel and how extensive an analysis should be required.

The issue is sensitive since development proposed in a high- risk zone would require intensive and thus more costly analysis.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen

$50,000 DEBT

Festival Folds After 13 Years

By BARBARA HOSMER

After 13 seasons the Marin Shakespeare Festival has played its final scene.

Plagued by debts of more than $50,000, the festival board dissolved last week and will file for bankruptcy in the next several days, according to Joan Lisetor of San Rafael, the organization's president.

Most of its planned winter season of plays will be presented by the College of Marin drama department and financed by the college.

The Shakespeare Festival has had money troubles for years. It incurred especially heavy debts last year when it moved its summer season to the San Francisco Palace of Fine Arts for what proved to be a financially disastrous run.

There was no choice but to fold, Mrs. Lisetor said.

"The decision was made by directors after a long and discouraging attempt to raise funds for the upcoming season. The deficit was too great a handicap in raising new funds

BEHAVIORIAL STUDY

A New Hope For The Abalone

By PAT ANGLE

Forget all the old jokes about abalone races. Out in Bolinas a group of those mollusks are hard at work learning how to get from here to there. They are part of a unique experiement which biologists hope may mean a brighter future for their species.

About a hundred of the shellfish are being trained to manuever through a simple maze conditioned to find their way to their favorite foods or away from threatening predators.

The study now under way in a specially-constructed tank at the College of Marin's marine biology station could open up a whole new world for behaviorial scientists.

"To my knowledge, it's the first time a behavioral study has been done with invertebrates," said Dr. Gordon Chan, college biologist who conceived the marine maze.

"Most people think these things are kind of dumb, but there's a lot of intelligence associated with their survival."

For the past two years the red abalone — a type found only off the California coast from Baja to the Oregon border — have been making decisions on whether to go right or left through the Y-shaped maze.

It's hardly an exciting spectator sport, since it takes the shellfish about five minutes or so to make the trip of several feet. But Dr. Chan and his colleagues are pretty enthused all the same.

Already Chan and his assistant, Jose Aubert, a student at San Francisco State University, have learned some new facts about abalones. They now know, for example, which kinds of kelp (seaweed) the creatures like best and which appeal least to them.

And they hope that the knowledge gained from the maze studies someday will help to make it possible to establish abalone farms in the ocean.

There are millions of red abalone in California waters, but they are caught in a desperate race to reproduce faster than man and other sea animals can hunt them down.

Each year commercial and sports fishermen haul in an estimated three to five million, according to Chan.

"Unless we can start growing abalone in farms, I'm afraid their days are numbered," he said. "It will be a real crime if, in the year 2000, we and our children are sitting around talking about the good old days when we could find abalones in the waters off this coast."

Private interests have started some abalone growing area along the Pacific in a very expensive attempt to be the first to produce a pan-sized abalone (about five inches across) which will mature in three or four years, Chan said.

Even though the few commercial farms are very secretive about their operations, the grapevine says that most are "losing their shirts" at the ventures, according to at least one marine biologist.

Apparently no one knows enough about abalones, their habits and lifestyles to make the difficult farming possible and it is in this area that Chan and Aubert hope to contribute.

The more the would-be aqua farmer knows about his "crop," the more likely his efforts will be successful, they believe. So every little bit of knowledge helps. For example, "Abalones are nocturnal feeders and, if there is a plentiful food supply available, will stay in the same spot their whole lives," Chan said. "But we have found that when food is scarce, they will forage during the day and move long distances to find it."

The abalone studies may have even more far-reaching effects. Chan hopes, for example, that growing the creatures in farms may solve some of the problems of the abalones' major predators — the sea otter.

Currently the playful little animals are protected by the Federal Mammal Protection Act and cannot be touched as they roam and frolic up and down the coast.

But the diminishing number of abalones, coupled with their increased popularity with diners and fishermen, may end the otters' freedom.

Chan said the state Department of Fish and Game is asking the Department of the Interior to remove the otters from the Act's protection. The state department would like to see the otters confined to a certain area around Monterey Bay so they will not eat abalones in other areas, he added.

If the department of Fish and Game gets its way, otters found outside the designated area would be captured and returned there or sold to zoos and marine worlds, according to the biologist.

"I believe animals should be

San Rafael Accident Claims Second Life

A San Rafael traffic accident that killed a 15-year-old honor student Sept. 5 claimed the life of another San Rafael teen-ager yesterday.

Richard Alfonso, 16, injured when the pickup truck in which he was riding overturned, died yesterday in a local hospital.

Sharon Fay Guthrie, 15, another passenger in the truck was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital shortly after the crash on South San Pedro Road.

The pair, and two other teenagers who received minor injuries, were riding in the bed of a pickup truck driven by 16-year-old Steven Ichelson of San Rafael when the vehicle skidded into the road's center divider and overturned.

Ichelson was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall on suspicion of manslaughter and felony drunken driving following the accident.

Alfonso was the 15th person to die in a traffic accident this year in Marin, compared to 24 traffic deaths to date last year.

Alfonso, a native of California, moved with his family to San Rafael two years ago. He was a student at San Rafael High School.

He is survived by his father, Richard Alfonso, and his mother, Georgianna Russell; his stepfather, Jack Russell; a brother, Bruce Alfonso, and two sisters, Cheryl and Alicia Alfonso, all of San Rafael.

A Mass of the Christian Burial will be held at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Rabid Bat Found In Mill Valley

A rabid bat was found in Mill Valley last month, and county health officials say it is the first case of rabies in the Mill Valley area since 1928.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, public health officer, said the animal was discovered Sept. 6, hanging from the underside of a deck at a home on Marlin Avenue.

She said the Marin County Health Laboratory reported Thursday that tests on the bat's brain proved positive for the disease.

Dr. Albrecht cautioned residents against touching wild animals, especially bats, skunks, foxes, raccoons bobcats and badgers.

There was no human contact with the bat, she said, adding that a pet dog and cat that might have come into contact with the bat are under observation.

In the rest of Marin, 15 rabid animals have been reported since Jan. 1, according to health officials.

Nixon Pardon Upsets Rodino

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — President Ford short-circuited the American judicial system by pardoning former President Richard M. Nixon, Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., said last night.

Rodino

Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee impeachment hearing against Nixon, said Ford's decisionto grant the pardon disturbed him.

"I am troubled by his action, his explanation and by his short-circuiting of the regular legal procedures and by his seeming lack of confidence in our judicial system," Rodino said.

Speaking to a Democratic fund-raising dinner, Rodino said Ford's action will be "judged by the American people."

"It is entirely appropriate that this decision be subject to public scrutiny," Rodino said. "I think his action should be measured by whether he acted in a way that fostered confidence in our system of criminal justice and in our rule of law."

Rodino said it would do no good to continue the impeachment process in the House, saying Nixon has "effectively removed himself."

Fugitive Captured

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops combed the County Armagh border today after soldiers captured one of the outlawed Irish Republican Army fugitives who blasted their way out of an Irish Republic jail last month.

The search concentrated around the border village of Crossmaglen. Martin McCallister, 20, was wounded and captured after a fierce gunbattle with a British Army patrol Friday.

Authorities said McCallister, who is the first of the fugitives captured, had the reputation as one of the Irish Republican Army's most deadly snipers.

Slap At Tanaka

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka made a brief appearance before the Mexican congress and received a sharp rebuke for his country's position on maritime territorial limits.

"Japan feels that its own oceans are not enough and it has to send its factory ships and fishing fleet to other waters," Mexican Sen. Aurora Ruvalcaba said at the joint session of the Congress last night.

"I am sure you understand our problem, because of your intelligence as an economist and a legislator," Ruvalcaba told Tanaka.

Relations Cool

BELGRADE (UPI) — Relations between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia have cooled after a bitter President Tito smashed the first organized attempt to set up an opposition, pro-Soviet Communist Party in the country in a quarter-century.

Sources said yesterday the Soviets twice denied any involvement with a group of 27 pro-Russian Communists standing trial on charges of attempting to overthrow Tito's regime.

But the Yugoslav government was now awaiting the findings of the secret trial before deciding what final attitude to take, sources said.

Unrest At Hue

SAIGON (UPI) — Political unrest plagued the former imperial city of Hue today and Communist gunners attacked government outposts guarding the crucial Highway 1 in the area, field reports said today.

Communist saboteurs also attacked several important highways in South Vietnam, temporarily interrupting all traffic, the reports said.

Transition

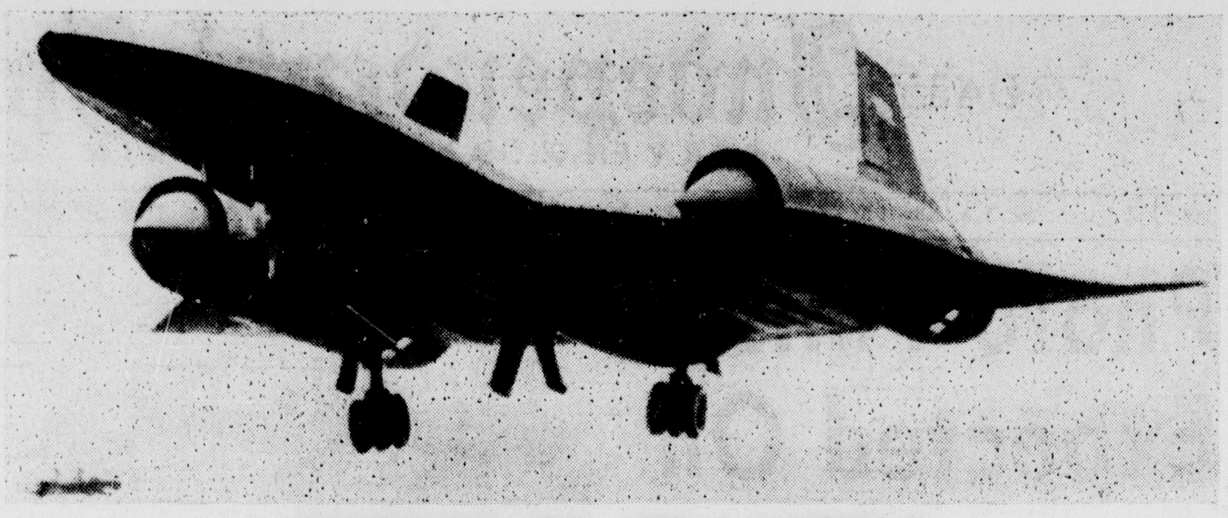

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI) — Portugal began setting up a transition government in Mozambique today by turning most police and military duties over to black freedom fighters in the racially torn colony.

Another Fuel Price Hike Probable

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gasoline and fuel oil prices likely will rise again as a result of a decision by the major exporting nations to increase royalties talks of the 12-member Organizaation of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Jamshid Amouzega, Iran's chief delegate in Vienna, said OPEC had agreed to freeze the price of crude oil at $11.65 a barrel but to take a bigger share of company profits by increasing the royalty payment —in effect a tax —from 14.5 per cent to an unspecified level.

At the same time, one economist said, the increased royalities would add millions of dollars to the treasuries of the oil-rich nations of the Middle East and the Persian gulf.

The decision to raise the royalities paid by the oil companies to producing nations was made in Vienna at the oil price

He said importing nations should make certain the increase is absorbed by the petroleum companies out of their profits and not passed on to the world's consumers. He said the major companies had excess profits that could be cut.

But U.S. oil executives doubted the higher cost would be absorbed and predicted it ultimately would be passed on to the consumer in the form od higher prices for gasoline, fuel oil and other oil-based products.

"If the cost of oil to us is increased, it would either reduce our earnings, which already have been decreased, or it would have to result in an increase in the price of oil," said an official of a major U.S. company who asked not to be identified.

He said the higher costs would be "difficult not to pass on."

John Lichtblau, an economist with the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, also doubted that oil companies would be willing to absorb the increase.

"If the companies are forced to absorb it, it would limit their ability to free themselves from Arab oil by cutting into their money for development and building new refineries," he said.

(The Chase Manhattan Bank reported this week that profits of the 30 largest oil companies soared 93 per cent in the first half of 1974. The bank said the high level was needed to encourage more oil development.)

Haldeman Reportedly Made A Pardon Pitch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just before he resigned, former President Richard M. Nixon rejected pleas from H.R. Haldeman that he pardon all Watergate defendants and possibly grant amnesty to Vietnam war resisters, according to administration sources.

They said Haldeman's lawyers even sent Nixon draft language to include in his resignation speech, declaring that Gerald R. Ford should be allowed to take office facing a "clean slate."

Highly placed sources said yesterday Haldeman's lawyers sent the proposals to the White House in writing Aug. 8 —just hours before Nixon announced his intention to resign. They said Nixon "was advised by his lawyers" not to go along.

"There were no deals made, no commitments, no promises when Richard Nixon left office, either implicity or explicitly," one administration source told UPI. "He considered only two options —to resign or to fight."

Sources said then-Vice President Ford knew nothing of the Haldeman pleas for general pardons at the time. It was unclear when he did learn of them.

Sources said Haldeman had called the White House the day before, Aug. 7, asking for pardon. They said Nixon denied it that night, but the next day White House lawyer James D. St. Clair called Haldeman's attorneys and asked if they had anything in writing.

A package then was delivered to the White House containing the written proposals, sources said.

One highly placed source said that while Nixon had no intention of granting any amnesty as Haldeman requested, St. Clair felt "any citizen has the right to make a plea for himself."

Haldeman and five other former White House or Nixon campaign officials are to go on trial Oct. 1 on charges of conspiring to cover up Watergate.

Butz Sees Food Price Stability

CHICAGO (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz yesterday predicted that food prices will soon become stop increasing.

"The great bulk of food price increases are behind us," he told a news conference at the Agriculture and Food Conference on Inflation.

Butz — in Chicago for a two day meeting of 90 food industry representatives who will send four delegates to President Ford's summit meeting on inflation Sept. 27-28 — said he foresees more stability in food prices "than in any other sector of the economy."

He said he hoped delegates from the conference would carry to the summit conference recommendations for a balaced budget, an open market for farmers and sufficient supplies of fuel and fertilizer for farmers.

Nixon's Leg Ailment Worsens

SAN CLEMENTE, (UPI) — Richard Nixon's leg ailment has worsened and he is suffering from "severe physical strain and fatigue," his doctors said yesterday. The ex-president refused to go into a hospital and stayed at his oceanside estate, Casa Pacifica.

The first new medical information on Nixon's phlebitis condition was released yesterday by Dr. Walter Tkach, Nixon's personal physician, who flew here from Washington.

"There is a new veinous clot in the former President's upper left leg," Tkach said in a statement.

"The leg is swollen and painful. The clot from the earlier phlebitis, which is still present, causes the former President periodic pain."

Nixon returned to his tightly guarded compound with Mrs. Nixon late Thursday after a five-day stay at the equally secluded Palm Desert estate of Walter Annenberg, U.S. ambassador to Great Britain.

Sources said Nixon remained uncomfortable and restless, but the new inflamation in his leg was reported slightly improved.

Tkach was joined in his medical examination of Nixon by Dr. John Lundgren, a Long Beach, Calif., internist, who examined the former President in Palm Springs Tuesday.

"I have found the former President to be suffering from severe physical strain and physical fatigue," Tkach said. "But he is mentally alert and has been working in his office or at home each day."

The physician said "serious consideration" had been given to putting Nixon in a hospital, but it was ruled out "based on former President Nixon's wishes."

He said Nixon will continue to receive medication and will be under doctors' care with a weekly evaluation of his condition made by both Lundgren and Tkach.

Nixon's physical and emotional well being was believed to have played a major part in President Ford's decision to grant Nixon immunity from any possible prosecution.

First hand information about the former President has been nearly impossible to obtain from inside his tightly guarded compound overlooking the Pacific.

The only recent reports have come from his two sons-in-law, David Eisenhower and Edward Cox, who gave a number of interviews, and Nixon's doctors.

Former White House press secretary Ron Ziegler has refused to issue any statements.

Nixon's arrival back at Casa Pacifica was confirmed by Ann Greer, Ziegler's secretary. She said Ziegler has not issued any statements because he was a "transition officer," not a press officer.

Bus Service Tied To $70,000

The Golden Gate Bridge District will halt bus service for some 600 Marin high school students next month unless Marin County or school officials come up with $70,000.

That's the amount bridge district officials want to help defray the expense of transporting the students to school.

District directors voted unanimously yesterday to stop the busing Oct. 4 unless the funds are forthcoming.

The matter will come before the Marin County Transit District board at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday at Civic Center.

Marin supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni and Gary T. Giacomini have proposed that the county transit district board reverse an earlier decision not to pay the bridge district the $70,000. They will need support from two fellow transit board members to get their plan approved.

Arrigoni, also a bridge director, assured his fellow colleagues on the span board that the dispute will be settled by the county transit board by agreeing to pay the bill. The transit board previously claimed it could not afford the payment, but turned out to have a surplus of $218,000 this fiscal year.

Arrigoni pointedly noted that the Tamalpais High School District, which gets most of the bus service, has a reserve this year of $623,000. The high school district also has claimed cannot afford to pick up the 0,000 tab.

Bridge district officials have asserted that both federal and state law bars them from using district funds for the bus service.

Golden Gate Bridge District directors also:

NOVATO — Certified as complete the final environmental impact report on the Novato bus facility, and approved a staff proposal to clean and shape Rush Creek alongside the property just north of downtown.

FERRY — Approved a $61,865 change order for the three new ferryboats under construction in San Diego. The changes include nine items ranging from installation of meters to detect possible electrolytic action on the hulls to substitution of fabric for naugahyde on lounge seat cushion edges.

SAUSALITO — Ratified the finance-auditing committee's recommendation that the $1.5 million set aside for the Sausalito ferry terminal be shifted to funds for the Larkspur terminal. The board voted last month to halt all plans for the Sausalito terminal because of community opposition to it.

HANDICAPPED — Received without comment a demand from an attorney for the San Rafael chapter of the Indoor Sports Club that the district give $1,000 to each handicapped person unable to drive himself or get aboard district buses. The money would be used to hire private transportation.

SAFETY — Received a staff report that the National Safety Council will give the district a fleet safety award for outstanding operation of its bus system.

BIKES — Received staff report that work will be completed this month on a bicycle path under the south approach span to improve access to the west sidewalk. The present route includes a long flight of steps and a tunnel.

PATRONS — Reported that the Sausalito ferry carried 142,329 passengers during August, up from 139,743 the same month last year.

Mayors Plan To Lobby On Economy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. Conference of Mayors plans a forceful lobbying effort with President Ford before the Sept. 23 economic summit to push for a $1 billion transit subsidy program.

A group of 18 mayors, members of the Legislative action Committee of the conference, met here yesterday to map the program.

"We have made it easy to travel to and from our cities, but federal policies make it difficult for our citizens to travel within our cities," said Mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse, N.Y.

The mayors plan to recruit business and labor representatives to lobby in Washington later this month.

New York Mayor Abraham Beam, who has been charged with forming the business-labor group, said a top national figure would be named to head the committee.

"Increases in subway fares would be an inflationary move at this time," Beam said. "Now is the time to get groups of people which would be hurt by it to descend upon Washington."

Beam said his effort would focus on national business interests. Businessmen will have to increase salaries to meet cost of living clauses once fares go up, he said.

New York City would be able to hold to its 35 cent subway fare at least to the end of the year, Beam said. "I hope a federal subsidy will be available after that."

Even small and medium cities have mass transit problems, Portland, Ore., Mayor Neil Goldschmidt, said. Cities like Los Angeles, Boston, New York and Chicago "have been taking a bum rap" because they have led the fight for operating subsidies, Goldschmidt said.

High-Ranking Greek Hits Occupation

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Greek Foreign Minsister George Mavros denounced the occupation of Cyprus by Turkish troops only hours after Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders agreed to release sick and wounded prisoners of the bitter island war beginning Monday.

"No one can deny the fact that Cyprus, an independent, nonaligned and unarmed member of the United Nations, became the victim of an aggressive invasion, and it is now under occupation by another country," Mavros said yesterday.

Mavros, who just returned from nine days of talks in Paris, Bonn and Brussels, said he will present Greece's proposals for peace on the embattled Mediterranean island to the U.N. General Assembly next week.

Greece supports the withdrawal of the Turkish army from the island and the return of a constitutional government in which the Turkish community, 18 per cent of the 700,000 persons on Cyprus, will enjoy special self-governing rights.

Earlier, President Glafkos Clerides and Vice President Rauf Denktash, respective leaders of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities, agreed to begin a limited prisoner exchange Monday.

It was not known if the two leaders made any progress on a general release of prisoners but a government spokesman said they discussed the political future of the island at great length.

"They explored informally the views of both sides on the broader political issues and in particular the prerequisites that could open the way to negotiations on the island's political future," the spokesman said.

Mavros said Cyprus itself would plead for a peace settlement before the General Assembly. But he was quick to add Greece will be strongly behind the island state.

The Cyprus government also slapped a travel ban on the island's residents to prevent them from leaving the country. Government sources said the ban was necessary to prevent a mass flight from the island and a loss of foreign exchange.

The Migration Department said oly 8,500 persons left Cyprus last month to live abroad. But government sources said in the past few days thousands more have applied daily to travel agencies and passport offices to leave the country.

The exodus, spokesmen said, was in apparent fear of a renewed Turkish attack.

Kennedy Says Nixon's Pardon At 'Wrong Time'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., rapped President Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon, saying it was "the wrong time, the wrong place and the wrong person."

Kennedy was in Southern California yesterday to give an address at a convention of the International Brotherhood of Painters and Allied Trades Union and to campaign for Democratic candidates in the state.

Today, he was to campaign for other Democrats in Northern California.

"I don't the country should have to stand for it," Kennedy told 1,500 delegates at the convention, referring to Ford's controversial pardon of Nixon for any crimes that may have been committed while in office.

"It's the wrong time, the wrong place and the wrong person to receive a preindictment and pre-conviction pardon and has led many Americans to believe that it was the culmination of the Watergate coverup," Kennedy said.

In response to a question at a news conference after the speech, Kennedy said he did not believe there was any sort of deal between the President and Nixon, but that the pardon was "ill-timed and ill-conceived."

He referred to the incident in Boston several days ago when he was heckled while backing a court order requiring busing to achieve racial balance in schools, saying, "I had an extremely difficult time expecting those people to obey the law when there appeared to be a different standard for our President."

Kennedy said he did not think the pardon would seriously affect the "honeymoon" between the President and Congress.

He said the nation was going through a period of reconciliation and that the President should be given a reasonable amount of time to solve the problems of the economy.

He said run-away inflation has been a result of fundamental mismanagement.

Puccini Opera Opens Season In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Opera opened its 52nd season last night with a production of Puccini's "Manon Lescaut."

The usual glittering firstnight audience of formally dressed men and full-skirted women was on hand although observers noted that the women's fashions were more muted in color and simple in cut than at previous openings.

The opera starred Leontyne Price, returning to the stage where she made her debut 17 years before. She has since inaugurated five other of her major roles on the same stage.

To mark the 50th anniversary of Puccini's death, a new production of the opera, designed and directed by Pietro Zuffi.

Giorgio Merighi flew in from La Scala in Milan to sing the lead tenor role.

Ford Has Session On Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford set aside nagging domestic problems of Watergate and the economy today and met for two hours with his National Security council to disucss next week's resumption of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with Russia.

The President also met with Stanley Resor, chief U.S.- negotiator for mutual and balanced force reductions in Europe,, and took time to welcome the one millionth visitor to the White House this year.

A U.S. negotiating team leaves Monday for Geneva where the American SALT position will be discussed with the Soviet negotiators.

Previous arms control agreements have left various doors open to both sides for developing new weapons and modernizing old ones.

Ford indicated in an Aug. 28 news conference that he planned to reconcile differences between State Department and Pentagon positions on the direction which SALT should take.

Ford took time out to personally welcome Patti Albers, 9, of Baltimore, Md., who became the one millionth visitor to the executive mansion this year. She was accompanied by her sisters, Terry, 19, and Kelly, 7.

Ford told a group of Republican gubernatorial candidates yesterday that he had not yet revealed all the reasons for his decision to pardon Nixon on Watergate.

Following a meeting in the oval office, Tennessee Governor Winfield Dunn said Ford told the group "he might be able to explain, in not too distant future," about the pardon issue.

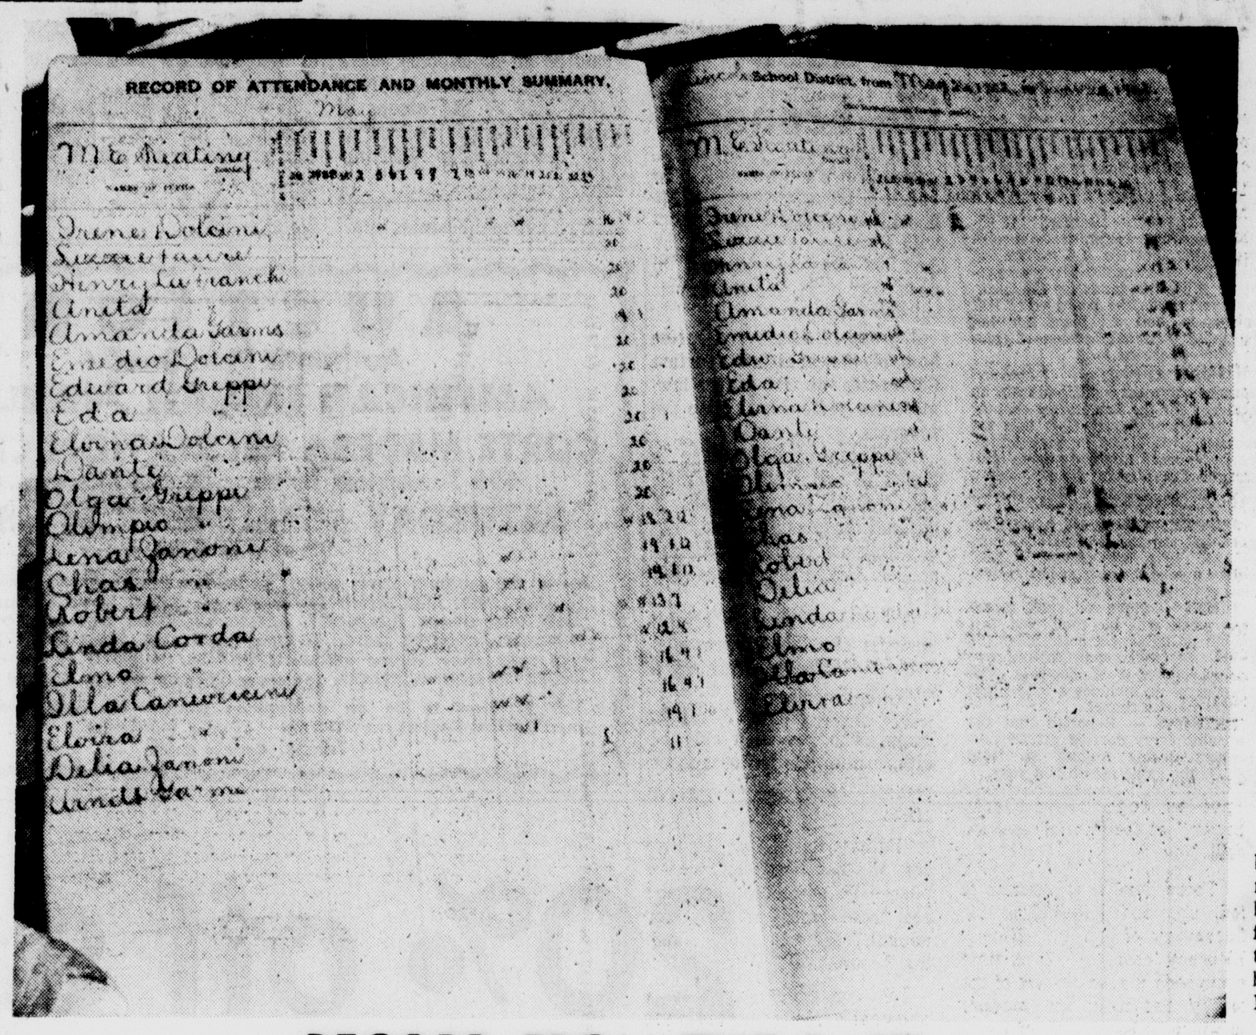

Dunn said Ford did not elaborate on his remarks, but others indicated that Ford said that he was "privy to some information that he might make public but also might never make public."

Ford and his advisers apparently realize that they have lost ground in promising an administration that would be candid and honest to the public.

Deputy Press Secretary John W. Hushen told reporters yesterday they could expect a presidential news conference next week — perhaps Monday or Tuesday.

The White House appeared to be aware that the public was looking for more of an explanation than Ford gave after his surprise unconditional pardon granted Nixon last Sunday.

Ford's chief political adviser, Dean Burch, referred to still secret information that he said Ford might reveal soon.

RECORD FROM THE PAST

This 1902-vintage attendance record was found at the one-room Lincoln School on the Hicks Valley Road this week as workmen prepared to rebuild the foundations of the 102-year-old building. The teacher listed at the top of each page is believed to be Margaret Elizabeth Keating, late aunt of retired Marin Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating of San Rafael. Judge Keating told the I-J that Miss Keating later married John W. Ford. She died in 1951 at the age of 80 after teaching at many Marin schools, he said.

because contributors and foundations did not want to contribute to pay back debts," she explained.

The college had offered the festival a home this year for a winter season of three plays, but the festival was unable to come up with the $18,000 needed for the productions by the July 31 deadline set by the college.

"The board of trustees and drama department of the college have been patient during the fund-raising this year but the festival was just unable to meet its commitment," Mrs. Lisetor said.

She added that the organization doesn't even have any assets left to be divided among creditors. An attempt was made to sell remaining costumes and the few usable props by the festival, but they were estimated to be of no value, Mrs. Lisetor said.

The festival was founded in 1961 by John and Ann Brebner.

At first, it played its summer seasons at the Marin Art and Garden Center amphitheater in Ross, then later moved to Forest Meadows amphitheater at Dominican College in San Rafael.

In 1973, Dominican, which had its own plans for Forest Meadows, declined to renew the festival's lease and it was forced to move elsewhere.

Money had been a problem almost from the beginning and by 1971, the festival was 10 years old and owed $25,000. Vandalism and arson to festival equipment that year added to the deficit.

The festival presented four plays at the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco. There labor costs, mixed reviews and sparse audiences made the venture a financial disaster and the festival was forced to close early.

In heavy debt, the festival board attempted to raise funds through subscriptions and fund-raising events in Marin this spring and summer, according to Mrs. Lisetor, but had little success.

"You can't put on quality theater if creditors are threatening," she said.

So the board rang down the curtain.

"There are still many in Marin who are interested in the goals of the festival and it is hoped that the ideals for quality theater in a festival setting can be realized in Marin's future," the president said.

Japanese Guerrillas Win Comrade Demand

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Three "Japanese Red Army" guerrillas holding the French ambassador and eight other weary hostages under death threat today won the release of a comrade jailed in France and a pledge of safe passage out of Holland.

After a night of grueling negotiations, the government announced a KLM Royal Dutch Airlines crew had volunteered to fly all four extremists to freedom.

A last-minute hitch developed when the government demanded the gunmen lay down their weapons before fleeing and disclose their destination. The guerrillas apparently balked.

Scores of police ringed the modern glass-and-concrete French embassy building where the three "Japanese Red Army" commandos Friday seized ambassador Count Jacques Senard, 54, and eight other persons.

Police set up riot fences around the besieged embassy and sharpshooters crouched between parked cars.

French authorities bowed to a guerrilla ultimatum early Saturday and released Red Army member Yutaka Furaya from Paris' Sante prison, where he had been jailed on charges of entering France with forged passports and counterfeit money.

Furaya, 25, was flown to Amsterdam's international airport, 35 miles from the Hague. Police kept Furaya handcuffed in a yellow airport car during the long negotiations.

A government spokesman said the bargaining had been crippled by poor communications with the embassy. Two Japanese diplomats finally shouted instructions to the guerrillas over megaphones.

The gunmen, armed with three pistols and a hand grenade, held their captives in the ambassador's office on the top floor of the five-story building.

During the takeover of the embassy, one gunman wounded two police officers —one of them a woman —in a brief gunbattle.

The guerrillas today demanded medical supplies to treat diabetes. The drugs were delivered to the front door of the building by a police inspector, but it was not known for whom the medicine was intended.

The gunmen identified themselves in manifestos dropped from embassy windows as members of the Japanese Red Army, a radical group responsible for the May 31, 1972, Lod airport massacre in Israel and other terrorism throughout the world.

A police spokesman said it was not known whether all three guerrillas were Japanese. He said one of them may be an Arab.

Dutch Premier Joop den Uyl led the government negotiators attempting to win freedom for the French ambassador, a telephone operator, a secretary, two embassy messengers, an embassy caretaker, a French oil company executive and his two companions.

Egyptian Ambassador Galal Ezzat Abdel joined den Uyl in the justice ministry building and offered to let the guerrillas use his embassy for the exchange of captives.

PLAN

said a review board appointed by the council may be ineffective since experts themselves might differ on a development. And he warned the procedure may be costly.

"Science is not exact. There's nobody in the world who can tell you if a development will be safe or not" in terms of environmental risks, said Jensen, adding that a developer would be required to spend large sums on preliminary analysis with no assurance his development would be later approved by the city.

Jensen was persuaded by colleagues, however, that the data required of developers under the procedure is needed by the city to determine merits of varying proposals. Councilmen said the procedure would not have a major fiscal impact since it mainly would apply only to large developments that supply such information anyway.

Brief discussion of the housing chapter of the plan focused on the familiar complaint of San Pedro peninsula residents that the plan provides opportunities for low and moderate-income people to move into the city.

"We don't think the city has an obligation to provide opportunities for low and moderate-income people from outside the area to move in," said Donald Edmondo, spokesman for the East San Rafael Council, a group representing homeowners associations on the peninsula.

Edmondo balked at the plan's provision that the city "maintain as a minimum" the current ratio of low and moderate-income housing in San Rafael, and urged that the policy be clarified.

Councilman Jack G. Nixon said Edmondo's worries may be unnecessary. "Your worries may be irrelevant since, as many developers have told me 'We're through in San Rafael We've done it all.' "

Another Prison Inmate Stabbed

A San Quentin inmate was reported in satisfactory condition at the prison hospital today after being stabbed three times in the back yesterday.

Upchurch is serving a sentence for an assault in Alamda County.

Prison officials said they have no suspects in the attack.

Hearings Slated On General Plan

The Novato Planning Commission will hold public hearings on revisions to the Novato General Plan at 8 p.m. Monday and Thursday at the Novato Community House.

One of the proposed changes would make the open space element reflect an open space plan recommended by the Citizens Open Space Committee.

Fund For Center Will Be Studied

The Novato City Council will consider establishing a fund for a civic center when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House.

City Mgr. Phillip J. Brown reported recently that the city could set aside about $1 million for the land and building in the next three years. Construction conceivably could start in 1977-78, Brown said.

The council will receive a letter from the Novato Federated Women's Club calling for a hearing to discuss whether a new civic center is necessary.

5-Year Old Is Listed As Critical

A 5-year-old Novato girl was reported in critical condition today with injuries suffered yesterday when she was hit by a car.

A Marin General Hospital spokesman said that Kelly Weller sustained a fractured skull, broken leg, broken ankle, broken collarbone and multiple abrasions.

Novato Police said the little girl ran in front of a car driven by Ferdinand A. Piglowski, 37, also of Novato.

The accident occurred in at about 6:30 p.m. in front of her home at 244 San Carlos Way.

Dentist Booked Following Probe Of Prescriptions

A Mill Valley dentist was arrested yesterday on suspicion of issuing prescriptions for amphetamines and other drugs for uses unrelated to his work, Mill Valley police reported.

Booked into Marin County Jail and released on $7,500 bail was Dr. John Howard Hottinger, 31, of 154 Harvard Avenue. He is to appear Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said Hottinger was arrested following an investigation by Mill Valley police, the state Department of Consumer Affairs and the state Board of Dental Examiners.

Hottinger had issued prescriptions for amphetamines, valium, birth control pills and other drugs outside his field, according to police.

A genuine "bay window."

They're just plain enormous! From one to four bedrooms in size, and from $43,000 to over $70,000 in price.

And with the heated swimming pool, tennis court and clubhouse, the homes at Shelter Bay are really worth a second glance. The speedy five mile commute to the Golden Gate Bridge is just another bonus.

Come see for yourself.

THE HONEY POT

Elizabeth Jordan, 12, scrapes part of the honeycomb in the wall of her home in Des Plaines, Ill., after her family won the battle against some 20,000 bees which had constructed a monstrous honeycomb six feet high and three feet wide. The Jordans moved into the house four years ago, but believed the bees lived in the wall for 15 years or more. Insect spray was used to chase the bees, whose entrance was a hole under the outside rafter. On hand for yesterday's inspection were Cathern Jordan, 10, and a friend, Amy Stoneburner, 10. A Slight Setback For Dollar

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The dollar dropped slightly in value yesterday on most international currency markets.

The dollar increased slightly in value in London and Zurich but dropped a bit elsewhere.

In London the dollar closed at 2.3125 pounds compared to Thursday's 2.3150. In Zurich the dollar closed at 3.0090 Swiss francs against Thursday's 3.0047.

The dollar dropped in Frankfurt to 2.6640 marks from Thursday's 2.6650 marks, in Paris to 4.8200 francs from Thursday's 4.824, in Brussels to 38.85 Belgian francs from 38.90, in Milan to 622.25, 843 from 662, in Tokyo to 300 yen from 301, in Austria to 18.75 schillings from 18.80.

Haig Leaving?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House is expected to announce soon that former Army general Alexander M. Haig will leave his job as President Ford's chief of staff to return to active duty as the Commander of all U.S. troops in Europe, the Washington Post reported today.

Gubernatorial Race Is Heating Up

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Republican Houston I. Flournoy today pressed his attack on Democratic gubernatorial nominee Edmund G. Brown Jr., blaming him for "foulups and mishaps" in the Secretary of State's office.

Browns campaign denied the charges and in turn accused Flournoy of trying to "divert" attention from the way the Republican nominee operated his office as State Controller.

Flournoy assailed his frontruning opponent in a speech to about 850 Republicans last night during the fall convention of the GOP State Central Committee at the Disneyland Hotel.

"Some people say this is not too good of a year for Republicans," Flournoy said. "The people of this state are a lot smarter than they are given credit for."

He voiced "confidence" that with Republican help he would "put an end to this Gerry Brown" at the general election polls Nov. 5.

"There have been a series of foul ups and mishaps in the Secretary of State's office," Flournoy charged. "It is time everybody is made aware of the sloppy and inefficient manner in which he has run his office."

He accused Brown of filing a "frivolous" lawsuit to seek to block construction of the proposed $1.4 million new governor's mansion in Carmichael.

The suit was thrown out despite Brown's insistance that construction would damage an Indian burial site.

Flournoy charged additionally that the campaign finance reporting forms produced by the secretary of state's office were drafted "so poorly that absolutely nobody can make sense of them."

A Brown spokesman said the Legislature set forth "exactly how the forms were to appear."

The convention delegates also were implored by Mrs. Ronald Reagan, wife of retiring two-term governor to "please, please" elect Republicans to office.

"I'd hate to see come November all that has been accomplished go down the drain and see these eight years go for naught," she told the applauding Republicans.

The convention provided a showcase for the statewide GOP ticket although some delegates and candidates seemed preoccupied with the potentially adverse effects on their races of President Ford's controversial pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon.

"I don't think it is good politically," state Republican Chairman Gordon Luce said of the presidential pardon.

At a news conference Luce said Ford should go on national television and explain to the people the reasons for and the timing of the pardon.

He said Ford's action had a dampening effect on the enthusiasm of "some" Republican volunteer workers but voiced confidence it would be only temporary.

"I think most people favor the pardon, it is just when and how it is done," Luce said. "I would think President Ford could tell adequately to the American public some very good reasons why."

Woman Indicted On Evil Spirit Swindle

OAKLAND (UPI) — An Oakland woman has been indicted on charges she swindled two women out of $89,500 by promising to rid them of evil spirits and left them penniless.

One of the women, whose husband was dying and whose mother was sick, even sold her home to get money, authorities said.

Charged with two counts of grand theft in the indictment, returned Thursday night, was Sonia Maria Williams, 26.

Alameda County Dep. Dist. Atty. Richard Hove sand Mrs. Williams allegedly won the confidence of her two victims by doing a trick with a piece of white thread. She had each of the women, who visited her separately, tie three knots in the thread, and when she rubbed it between her palms the knots disappeared.

Then, Hove said, she asked for money to conduct seances to rid the women of the evil spirits.

Police asked that the names of the victims, 55 and 57 years old, not be used because they were under doctor's care.

The 57-year-old victim paid Mrs. Williams $73,000 in hopes that driving away the evil spirits would save her dying husband and cure her ailing mother, Hove said. She sold her house for $40,000, gave Mrs. Williams another $23,000 from two bank accounts and $10,000 in jewelry.

The 55-year-old victim paid $13,000, Hove said, but her seances were cut short when Mrs. Williams disappeared.

At the seances, Hove said, Mrs. Williams asked each woman to bring a tomato, egg and banana in succession. She would smash each item and inside would be a lock of hair, a serpent or a snake, he said, which Mrs. Williams told them would release the evil spirits.

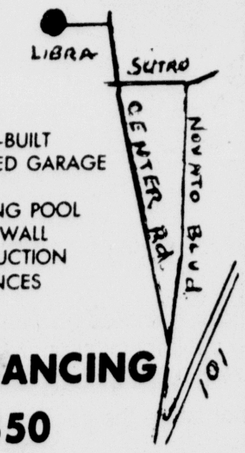

Mrs. Williams' husband, Bill Adams, 30, also was held on a police complaint for receiving the jewelry given her by the first victim.

Your new dream house may be storing a legal nightmare.

Unrecorded liens, hidden assessments, or zoning ordinances you don't even know about have created costly headaches for thousands. Worst of all, part of your home may not even be on your land. Now there's a way to protect yourself.

"What do you mean the carport is on my neighbor's land?"

The horrified homeowner who's confronted with this news moves quickly from anger and disbelief to a feeling of helplessness.

And it isn't just a feeling. Escrow has closed. The house belongs to him. There's no recourse to the former owner. The problem is his and his alone.

Legal costs run high. Costs of removing part of your structure run even higher. Once you're hit by this nightmare, there's no easy answer.

A survey would have revealed this problem. But surveys may run several hundred dollars. And even a survey doesn't reveal some of these other potential problems:

For example, if a previous owner didn't pay for work or materials on your home, there may be an unrecorded lien on your house for this work. And a lien foreclosure court action could cost you your property.

Again, there are local ordinances that may require your home to be set back a certain distance from the boundaries; or to conform to a stated height. If you were unaware that your house didn't conform to these rules when you bought it, compliance could cost you a bundle.

Until now, no standard title insurance policy offered such protection.

Now, Title Insurance and Trust, California's largest title insurance firm, has changed its standard title insurance policy for homeowners to include important new kinds of protection.

The new policy is called T.I. PLUS. It doesn't take anything away from the protection you've always received from standard title insurance. But it adds substantial protection against these painful problems:

Lack of access from your property to a legally established public street.

Unrecorded liens for labor or materials.

Enforced removal of your house or other improvements (excluding perimeter fences and plantings) due to (a) encroachment onto adjoining land, (b) encroachment onto recorded easements or unrecorded subsurface easements, (c) violations of covenants, conditions or restrictions, or zoning ordinances, and (d) the exercise of a holder of reserved mineral rights to come upon your land.

In addition, T.I. PLUS is the first standard title insurance policy that offers you substantial inflation protection.

Most homes increase in value every year due to inflation. And a title policy issued today may not offer you adequate protection five years from now.

T.I. PLUS automatically increases the maximum amount of coverage each year by an amount established by the U.S. Department of Commerce Construction Cost Index. And you get these automatic increases up to an additional 50% of the original face value of the policy.

If you're going to buy a home, you owe it to your peace of mind to get the full story. And you can do that in one of three ways:

1.) Ask your Realtor about T.I. PLUS. Remember, it's available only from Title Insurance and Trust.

2.) Call your local office of Title Insurance and Trust Company.

3.) Go to your phone and dial 800/252-0311 for a recorded message that gives you further details. T.I. PLUS

Ethiopia Said In Calm State

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — Ethiopia appears to be reacting calmly to the military regime's ouster of Emperor Haile Selassie, diminishing fears of a rural uprising to restore the "Lion of Judah" to his throne, diplomats said today.

The "Ethiopia First" military movement led by American-educated war hero Lt. Gen. Aman Michael Andom, 50, appeared to be in firm control. Most shops, offices and factories were open for business as usual.

The new military rulers warned against demonstrations Friday but troops stationed at vital points in Addis Ababa relaxed and chatted with passersby. The tanks were decorated with garlands of flowers.

A 7:30 p.m. curfew clamped on the nation Wednesday night on the eve of Selassie's downfall was pushed back to 9 p.m. The airport reopened for international flights.

Armed forces leaders who had whittled down Selassie's powers over seven months went to his palace Thursday and arrested him, ending his 58-year rule as regent, king and emperor.

Selassie was whisked away in the back seat of a blue Volkswagen and army officers said he had been taken "into protective safety for his own good."

The armed forces movement that engineered the coup gave no indication of its plans for Selassie, nor did it disclose his whereabouts. He was believed to be held at an air force base in Debre Zeit, 30 miles south of the capital.

The new government said it planned social reforms to bring equality to the people of this feudal land.

They said the emperor, hero of the resistance against the invading armies of Italian dictator Benito Mussolini in 1936, had deposited billions of dollars in personal accounts in foreign banks and made no effective attempt to relieve the effect of a drought which reportedly has taken the lives of 100,000 Ethiopians.

Military leaders offered the throne to Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, 57, who has lived in luxury in Geneva since an abortive coup against his father in 1960.

The prince, partly paralyzed from a stroke last year, discussed with his son, Prince Zera Yacob, a 21-year-old Oxford student, the military's offer to make him a figurehead king but no decision was report

Cigarette Smoking Still High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are smoking almost as much as they did just before the Surgeon General linked cigarette smoking to cancer 10 years ago, the Agriculture Department says.

Department economists estimated in a Tobacco Situation Summary that the Americans 18 and older will smoke an average of 4,270 cigarettes, or 213.5 packs this year.

That is within 2 per cent of the record of 217.3 packs per capita set in 1963, the year before the Surgeon General's report.

The per capita figure is calculated by measuring total cigarette sales against the total adult population, including both smokers and nonsmokers. The figure fell to 209.7 packs in 1964 and to a low of 199.3 in 1970.

Since then it has been rising steadily. The estimate for 1974 was 113 cigarettes, or 5.7 packs, above last year.

Department experts made no forecast for 1975, but they noted that cigarette production is rising.

"Population and per capita consumption are increasing (and) cigarette prices have increased only moderately in comparison with the inflationary spiral the rest of the economy is experiencing," the report said.

Israeli Minister Says Ford Plans Continued Military Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin says he and President Ford have agreed on the importance of the search for peace and on continued substantial military aid for Israel.

Winding up four days of Washington talks yesterday during which he had met with the President three times, Rabin also said he believes Israel should pursue peace negotiatons with one Arab country at a time rather than simultaneously.

He told a news conference that the Ford administration has agreed to continue substantial military assistance to his country, but he declined to spell out the details.

It appeared likely that the President has been unable to pledge greatly increased amounts of aid for Israel until Congress restores sizeable cuts tentatively made in the still-pending foreign aid authorization.

"We have reached an understanding on the need to continue the search for peace in the Middle East, and on an ongoing military relationship in a concrete way with concrete results," Rabin told reporters before leaving for New York.

He would not be pinned down on what course Middle East diplomacy will take now that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has concluded consultations with high-level representatives from Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

Kissinger has been trying to determine whether the next step should be negotiations between Israel and Egypt, or Israel and Jordan, or between Israel and the two Arab countries at once.

"The best way is to negotiate on a bilateral basis," Rabin said. "Any attempts at multilateral negotiations have proved to be a complete failure.

"Just (military) withdrawal is not going to be an issue in the next phase," he continued. "The focus of the next phase is going to be the movement towards peace. I believe the next phase should include a statement of non-belligerency."

U.S. officials said Kissinger plans to continue Middle East negotiations at the U.N. General Assembly at the end of September.

Kissinger then plans a trip to Cairo for talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, and subsequent visits to Amman, Damascus and Jerusalem.

Proposed Ordinance Poses Wildlife Sanctuary Threat

A new ordinance which could seriously curtail educational activities at the Marin Humane Society's new Ignacio Wildlife Sanctuary will be considered Monday by the county planning commission.

The ordinance, imposing more restrictive aircraft safety zones at the end of the Hamilton Air Force Base runway, calls for a 3,000-square-foot "clear zone" and several other restrictive zones reaching northward toward the heart of Novato.

The proposed ordinance would limit development from virtually none in the "clear zone" to four homes per acre in the restricted zones most distant from the air base.

About two thirds of thesanctuary lies in the "clear zone," which is listed under the ordinance as an agricultural area. The ordinance would limit human activity to two persons per acre in the "clear zone."

According to planning officials, this would rule out use of a major portion of the sanctuary for school nature study trips.

The sanctuary, set up last year, is to be a rehabilitation area for wild animals prior to their release back to the wilds. It also is planned as a nature study area.

The Air Force claims its studies show that most airplane accidents occur during take off und landing and have requested more restrictive zoning near the end of the runway.

allowed to live as free as human beings," Chan said. "But the problem is that Fish and Game is supported by hunters and sportsmen since its whole budget comes from fees for hunting and fishing licenses. So the department tends to cater to those who buy the licenses.

"It's up to all of us to convince them to spent the hundreds of thousands of dollars they'd use to trap otters to find ways to propagate abalone," Chan said. "And they also could reduce the abalone fishing season, which now runs for most of the year, and cut the limit for fisherman from five abalone to three."

As a biologist and avid marine photographer, Chan is convinced that all of us humands need to change our attitudes toward the other creatures with whom we share the earth.

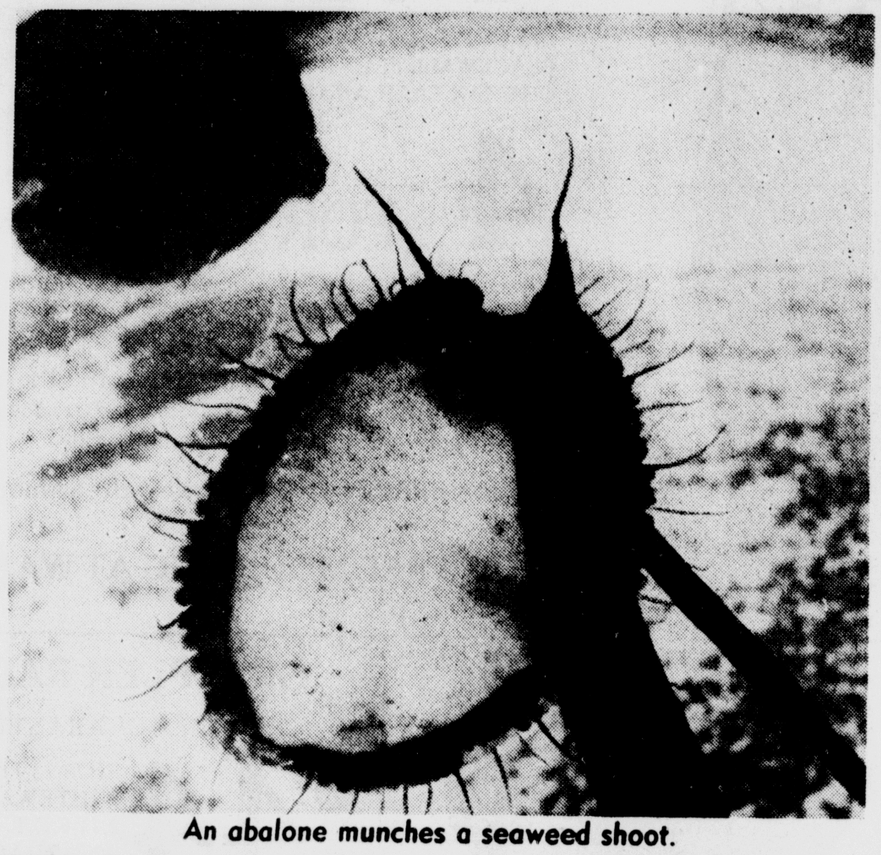

"We have always viewed God as a God of human beings, but I don't think our God is that small. I believe He is also concerned about all the creatures he has made, even the little ones. I think they too have the right to survive and flourish."

Dr. Gordon Chan holds the abalones' favorite food.

Warning Out On Certain Eye Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration yesterday warned purchasers of an eye drop preparation, Prefrin-Z, that some boxes contain the wrong medicine.

The FDA said about 100 Prefrin-Z boxes were accidentally filled with bottles containing Opthetic, described as "a potent eye drop product used by physicians as an anesthetic." It said Opthetic can, in rare cases, cause "serious allergic reactions resulting in severe eye damage."

Fan Appreciation Days Are Coming Up

Both the Oakland A's and the San Francisco Giants have announced fan appreciation days. Oaklands' will be Sept. 28. This is a Saturday game against the Chicago White Sox,. All seats will be sold at half price.

I'm sure that a giveaway or a drawing of some kind will be included, but no specific information has been given. Because this promotion is run like everything else in the organization (at Charlie Finley's whim), it will be interesting to see what transpires.

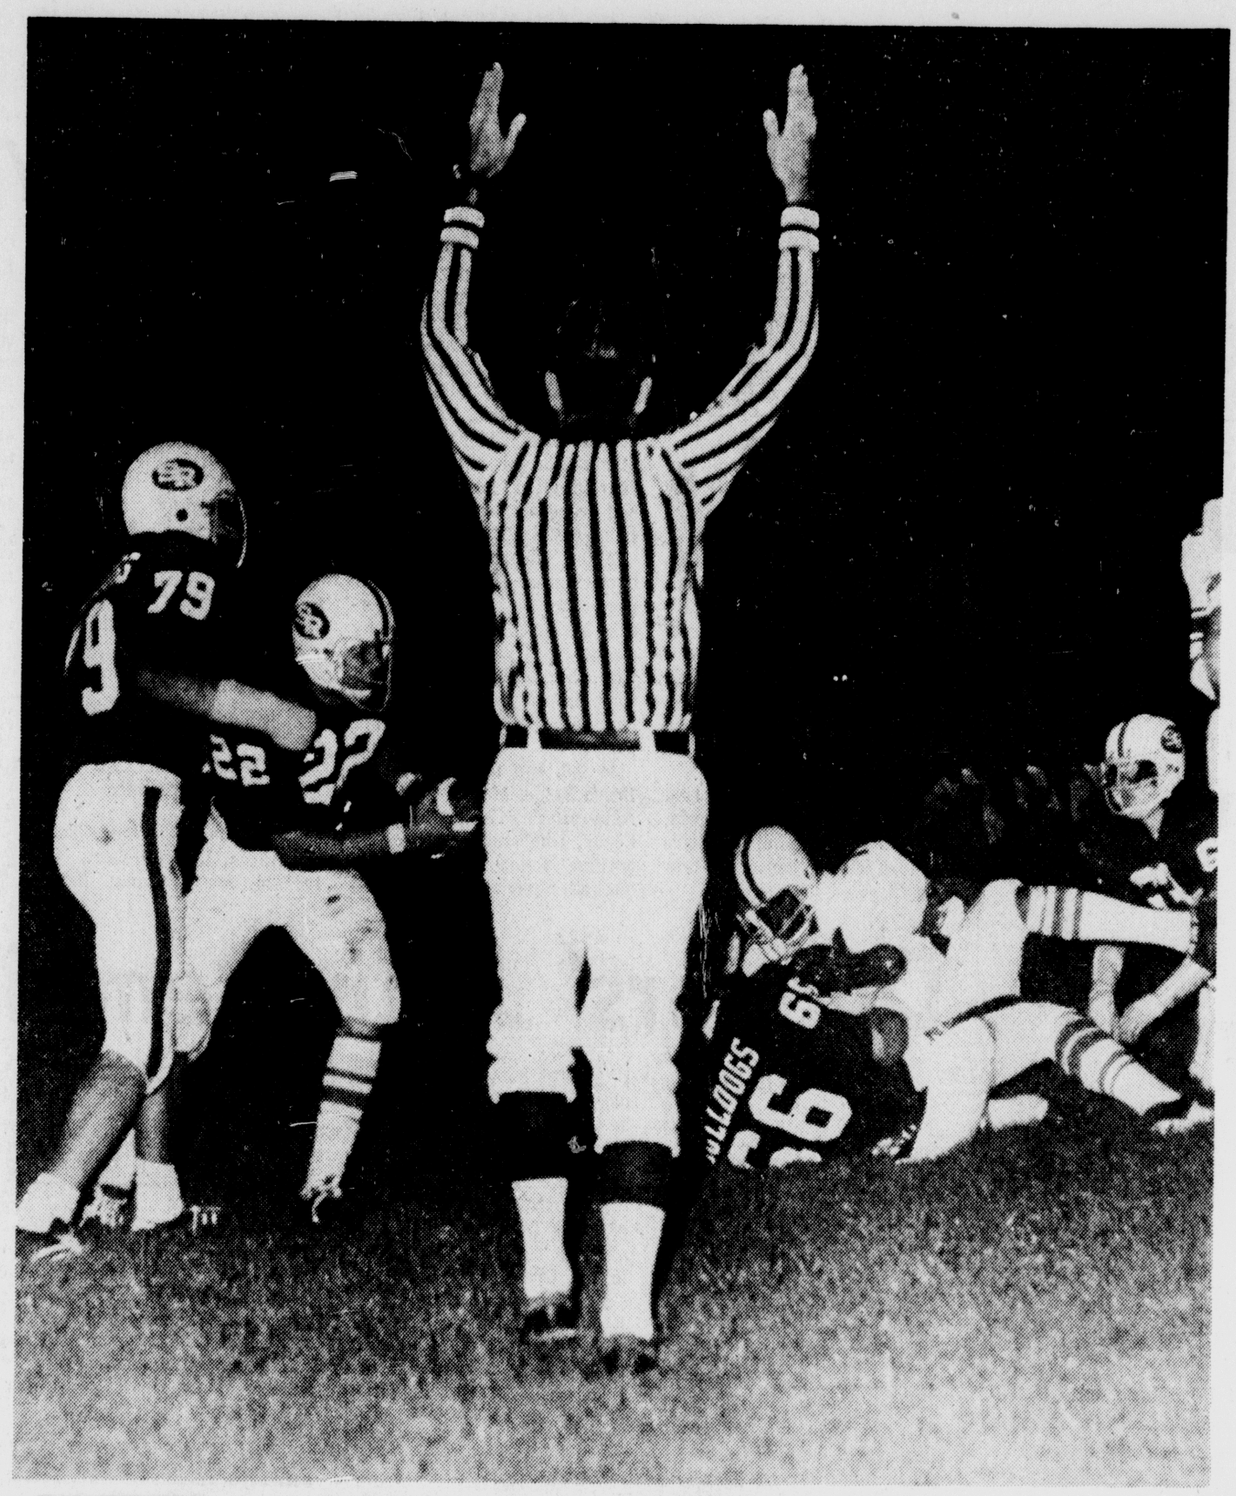

The Giants, on the other hand, have for the 17th consecutive year planned to give away five 1975 automobiles. The date will be Sunday, Sept. 22. The opponent will be the Cincinnati Reds. As in the past, the first winner will have all five cars from which to choose, the second winner will have a choice of the remaining four and so on. The choices include a Chevrolet Malibu, Buick Skylark, Ford Torino, Pontiac Ventura and Plymouth Duster. This has always been a great promotion. In light of the small crowds at Candlestick, chances of winning should be better than in years past. Bring a friend to drive your old car home for you.

Notes: After Oakland's doubleheader win Monday, Angel Mangual spent 10 minutes huddled with Alvin Dark. Angel feels he should be playing more. Dark's only quote was "Thats what I like about him. He wants to play."

The Kansas City Royals ran the bases that day as though Nack Sennett was managing the ball club. In the second inning, behind 3-0, Amos Otis was caught stealing, by the pitcher. In the ninth inning, behind 7-0, Fred Patek was thrown out attempting to steal Alvin Dark made the observation that "John McGraw must be turning over in his grave."

The races for individual honors are as interesting as the pennant contests. Of the most valuable player, the Cy Yount the rookie of the year, guards only Greg Gross of Houston seems a cinch winner. He should be the National League's top rookie. Mike Narshall should win the Cy Young in the N.L. but will be pushed by Andy Messersmith, Jack Billingham and Lynn McGlothen. The National League MVP could be John Bench (for the third time), Mike Schmidt Jim Wynn, Steve Garvey or one of about six other equally qualified candidates. The manager of the year in the National should be Danny Murtaugh.

In the American League, the contest for individual honors is even tougher to pick. The rookie of the year should be Mike Hargrove with competition from Claudell Washington. The manager of the year will be Billy Martin, Darrell Johnson or Bill Virdon. The Cy Young winner will probably be Catfish Hunter or Ferguson Jenkins, though Luis Tiaint and Gaylord Perry must be considered. The MVP could go to any of four A's (Bando, Rudi, Campaneris or Jackson). If those four divide votes, look for Jeff Burroughs.

TOUCHDOWN — San Rafael High School halfback Rick Wright (22), looked back at the hole he had come through while the referee signaled touchdown as the Bulldogs scored for the second time last night against visiting Vallejo. Mike Kinsella (79) and Tom Orr (66) led the way for Wright.

Top Defense At San Rafael

Vallejo Stymied In Grid Opener, 13-0

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The 1974 version of the San Rafael High School football team comes equipped with an overwhelming defense.

The Bulldogs used it last night to great advantage in a 13-0 season-opening victory over Vallejo at San Rafael. Once on a fumble recovery and once on a blocked punt, they got the ball deep in Apache territory, and halfback Rick Wright each time plunged for a touchdown.

The victory, viewed by a sparse but lively crowd of around 1,000, avenged a 1973 pre-season loss to Vallejo. It also served notice that San Rafael will be a contender in the Marin County Athletic League this year.

Defensive lineman Mike Kinsella and linebackers Wright, Mike McGrath and Jeff Thornton only a Sophomore, swarmed all over the traditionally strong Apaches and rendered useless the deft ball handling of quarterback Mark Thomas.

Vallejo was able to construct just one sustained drive, reaching to the San Rafael 15 yard line arly in the fourth quarter. But the Bulldogs thwarted it by allowing only two yards in four plays, and the Apaches were finished.

"It's hard to single anyone out," San Rafael coach Bob Muster said afterward. "They had four shots at us down there and came up empty. "I'd say Kinsella played a heck of a game."

So did McGrath. In addition to being quarterback Dave Steele's favorite receiver in the game (three catches for 60 yards), he gave the Bulldogs their first big break by recovering a Vallejo fumble on the Apache two midway through the second quarter. Wright dove in to score on the next play.

The Bulldogs got their insurance touchdown early in the third quarter, after a bad snap from center and the subsequent blocked punt gave them the ball on the Vallejo 32. A 12-yard run

Martin Doesn't Think Oakland Is Worried

A's Lead Down To 5 Games

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rangers creeped within five games of the world champion Oakland A's in the American League West last night, but Ranger manager Billy Martin doesn't think the A's are sweating it yet.

"I don't think a team in the lead really sweats it until it gets down to two games," Martin said after Ferguson Jenkins took his 23rd victory of the year 3-1 in a duel with Jim (Catfish) Hunter.

"Oakland has been through it all before," Martin said. "But our guys have confidence. We beat a helluva pitcher."

Lenny Randle's two-run double and Jeff Burroughs' sacrifice fly gave Jenkins the support he needed as Hunter suffered his 11th loss against 23 wins.

Jenkins fell behind 1-0 in the third inning on Reggie Jackson's sacrafice fly but was in complete control thereafter and scattered seven hits coupled with 10 strikeouts.

BIG PLAY — Rangers' second baseman Lenny Randle slid into third base with a triple to drive in two runs during the third inning last night at Arlington, Tex. Oakland A's third baseman 'Sal Bando attempted a late tag. Randle's blow keyed the Rangers' 3-1 win.

(UPI Telephoto)

Talk got around o the Cy Young Award for the most outstanding pitcher — an award Jenkins won in the National League whn he was with Chicago.

"Of course, you hope your man gets it, but it's between Hunter and Fergie," Martin said.

It was Jenkins' fifth victory in as any outings against Oakland.

Jackson of the A's said again "I don't see how the man lost 11 games the way he pitches. He's something."

Jenkins, who has won 14 of his last 16 decisions, said "if I win it the Cy Young award again it would be fine. . . it's quite an honor."

The 30-year-old Jenkins won 20 games six times in the National League. Texas obtained him in an off season trade from the Cubs.

It was the seventh consecutive victory for Jenkins and snapped a streak of seven straignt wins for Hunter, who had pitched two back-to-back shutouts going into the contest.

BUT ENCINAL WINS

Redwood Plays Good 2nd Half

ALAMEDA — Redwood High School controlled the football most of the second half of their season-opening game yesterday, but by that time the damage was done and the Giants lost to Encinal, 22-0.

"We got our socks blown off in the first half," Redwood coach Phil Roark said this morning. "We learned a lot of football yesterday."

Encinal scored twice in the first quarter, on a 25-yard run by Ray Craus and a 14-yard pass from Dan Chaix to Don Lee. Mike Harrison ran five yards in the second quarter to complete the scoring.

"We definitely were not satisfied," said Encinal coach George Read. "We looked good in the first half, but the second half was all Redwood."

"We had some good defensive players in the second half," said Roark. He named linebackers Dave Hoffmire and Mike Robinson, and end Rip Hunter. On offense, Roark was pleased with halfbacks Jamie Waste and Curt Biebel and tackle John Balatti.

"We're going to try and work on offense next week," said Roark. "We've got to score."

Raiders In Reasonably Good Health

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders will be in reasonably good health when they open their season Monday night at Buffalo.

They reported yesterday that running back Harold Hart, the 11th round draft pick who sparkled in exhibition play, might miss the game with a pulled hamstring while defensive back Nemiah Wilson may not be recovered fully from a sprained ankle.

But wide receivers Mike Siani and Morris Bradshaw and linebacker Dan Conners all have shaken off pre-season injuries and should be ready to go.

The Raiders have lost their last four opening games but also have won four and tied one in Monday night encounters.

Their schedule following the game will be a tough one. They'll fly back right after the contest and arrive in Oakland 4:30 a.m. Pacific time. Then they'll start that evening working out for the Sept. 22 home opener against archrival Kansas City.

American League Drawing Monday For Playoffs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American League will hold a drawing 11 a.m. Monday here to establish the procedures and orders of playoffs, if necessary in the East Division.

Clubs Invited to participate in the drawing are the new York Yankees, the Boston Red Sox, the Baltimore Orioles and the Cleveland Indians.

In addition, American League president Lee MacPhail announced today the lifting of the League's mandatory 1 a.m. curfew for five games that might affect the race or delay a decision on a key game between contenders.

Those games are Detroit at Boston and Balitmore at New York on Sept. 19; Boston at New York and Detroit at Baltimore on Sept. 25; and New York at Milwaukee on Oct. 2.

One Year Makes Big Difference For Bryant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — What a difference a year has made for pitcher Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants.

A year ago he was on his way to winning 24 games, the best mark in the National League.

After losing 5-4 to the Houston Astros last night, Bryant now has a 3-15 record.

"Everything that went right for me last year is going wrong this year," Bryant said. "Last year the breaks were with me."

The Astros beat Bryant on a two-run ninth inning single by Cesar Cedeno with two outs and runners on second and third.

Manager Wes Westrum of the Giants said he never considered an intentional walk to Cedeno.

"He's been in a slump and Bryant had gotten him out. The next batter, Bob Watson, is the guy who kills us."

Bryant said he didn't want to walk Cedeno either.

"I would rather pitch to him than Watson. I made a good pitch. It was outside and he hit it on the end of the bat."

The ball was just out of the reach of third baseman Steve Ontiveros.

Bryant said he thinks he is pitching better this year than he did in 1973.

"But you would never know it from my record," he said.

Skip Jutze led off with a bunt single and pinch-hitter Ray Busse hit a hard grounder to first baseman Dave Kingman. The ball bounced off his glove but Bryant didn't cover the base.

"I thought about it but figured Kingman was close enough to make the play himself," Bryant said.

Busse was safe on the error and both runners moved up on a sacrifice. Bryant got Roger Metzger on a pop up for the second out but Cedeno then singled.

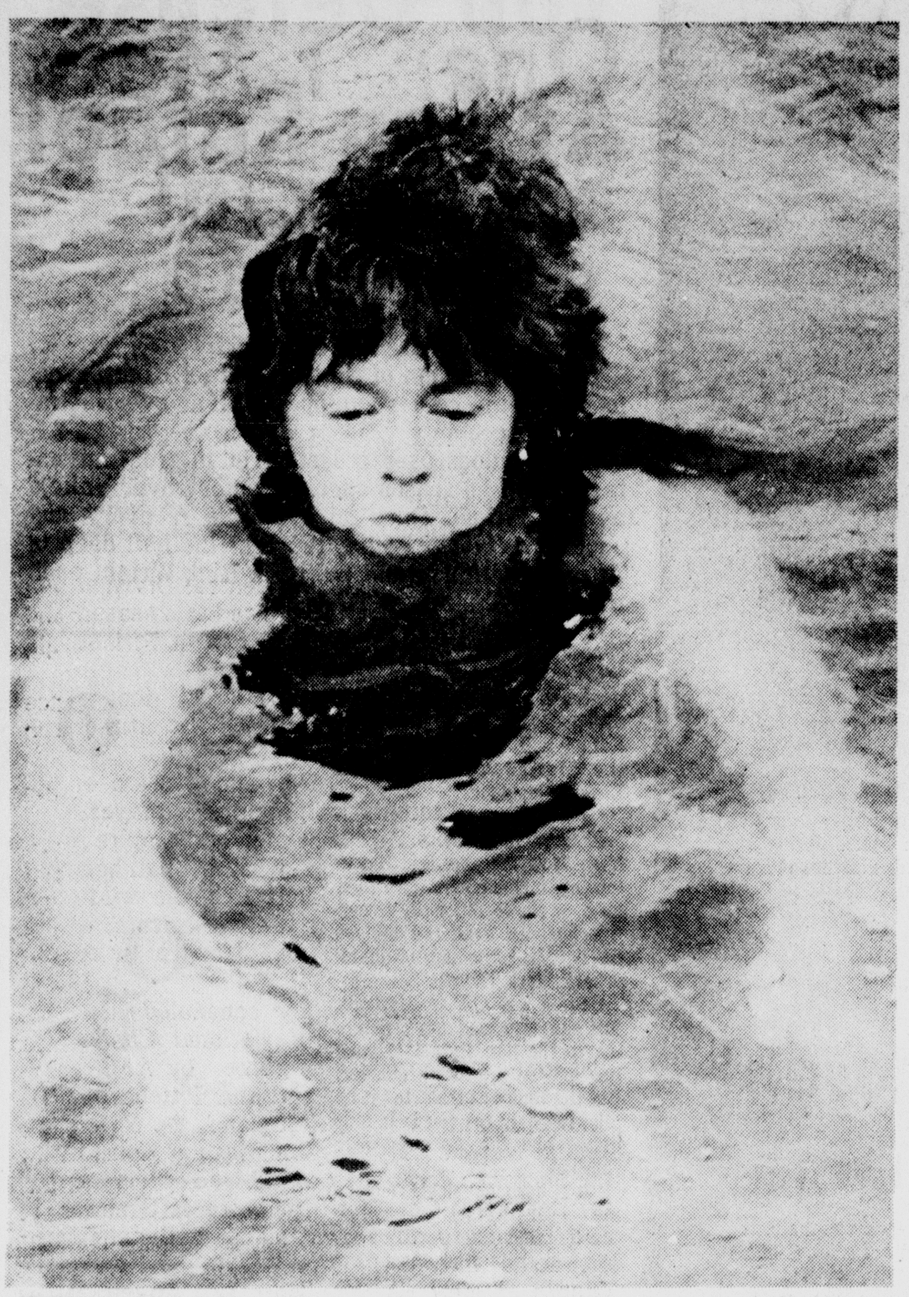

The Giants had taken the lead with three runs off starter James Rodney Richard in the third. Richard got a run for the Astros with the first homer of his major league career.

The teams play again today with Larry Dierker (9-9) pitching for Houston against rookie John Montefusco (2-0).

WORLD OPEN GOLF

Miller Guns For Seventh Win

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — Johnny Miller, gunning for his seventh season win, takes a one-stroke lead into today's third round of the $300,000 World Open Golf Championship.

"This round was an exceptional one, but I might hit a 78 on the next time around; I don't know," he said after turning in an eight-under-par 63 yesterday that missed the course record by one stroke.

Miller's 63 was 10 strokes better than his first round, played on Pinehurst's 6,885-yard No. 4 course, and gave him a 36-hole total of 136.

Next in line was veteran Frank Beard, who carded a one-under 70 yesterday to go with his 67 in the first round for a five-under-par 137 total.

At 138 were this year's U.S. Open Champion, Hale Irwin, and David Graham, a native Australian who joined the tour in 1972.

Three strokes off Miller's pace, at three-under-par 139, were Jack Nicklaus, after a second round 71, Mike Hill after a 67, Gene Littler after a 70, first round leader Bob Murphy after a fat 74 to follow his 67 and two of the PGA's few blacks, Lee Elder and Nate Starks, who joined the tour last year. Both Elder and Starks had even par 71s following first round 68s.

Miller, Beard, Irwin, Graham, Starks, Elder and Littler played the No. 2 course yesterday. Nicklaus, Hill and Murphy played No. 4 yesterday. Today, with the field trimmed from some 180 players to 77, all will play No. 2. Both courses are par 71.

At 140, two under par, were Bruce Devlin after a 68, Buddy Allin after a 70 and Charles Coody, who stumbled from an opening round 68 to 72. At oneunder-par 141 were Lee Trevino, Dave Stockton, Tommy Aaron, Lionel Hebert, Don Iverson, South African Bobby Cole, Jim Dent, Bob Stanton, Ed Sneed and Lou Graham.

JOHNNY MILLER
Tourney leader

Hubert Green, J.C. Snead and Billy Casper were among a cluster at even-par 142, while veterans Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, and Sam Snead joined young standouts Ben Crenshaw and Lanny Wadkins in missing the cut. Napa's Ron Cerrudo made the cut with his 75-71—146.

Miller, the tour's hottest golfer this year with six wins in only 18 outings, leads all players in money winnings this season with more than $250,000. He stands to gain $60,000 should he win the World Open.

He said yesterday's 63 was "similar" to the 63 at Oakmont last year that won the U.S. Open for him.

"This course intimidates you," Miller said. "If you miss a fairway, you know you'll make bogey. It's very rewarding to shoot 63 on this course with the rough as high as it is. "Every hole you come to, you know you have to do this and that. You have to think more."

Miller, who would have tied the course record had he made a nine-foot putt on the 18th hole, said "pars are golden on this course."

Miller predicted the winning score tomorrow wouldn't be much under par, perhaps three strokes.

Ironically, the round came on a day when it was revealed he had been fined $1,000 by Tournament Players Division Commissioner Deane Beman for pulling out of the Tournament Players Championship at Atlanta after 16 holes of the second round.

"It won't happen again, period," said Miller of the incident. "I was very, very, tired—physically and mentally —at the time. I didn't really think about what I was doing."

Dodgers' John Remains Sidelined

Combined AP & UPI

LOS ANGELES — Tommy John is probably lost to the Los Angeles Dodgers for the remainder of the season, the veteran left-hander confirmed yesterday.

Sidelined since July 17, John has been out with a ruptured ligament in his left elbow.

"I'm to the point now that I want to pitch but if I can't pitch to the ballclub's advantage, I want to go ahead and get the surgery done," he said. "This isn't August anymore. I have to think about the time I'll need to get in shape for next year."

John has a 13-3 record and a 2.58 earned run average.

"I'm a loyalist. I really wanted to play for the Oilers," he said from his home.

Maxwell was traded by Oakland to Houston this year. He was demoted from free safety to second team strong safety this week.

MARSHALL'S ANNE FROST

Nurse-Musician Plans To Swim Tomales Bay

By RON LENT

What does a nurse-musician do for a diversion?

Swim in Tomales Bay. Anne Frost of Marshall will present her second annual Bay Swim from Bleu Baie to Pelican Point next Saturday at 10 a.m.

To solicit some swim company, the 42-year-old took out an ad in a Marin County weekly newspaper. Why the ad? "I did it last year alone, but I thought it would be more fun this year to make a party out of it. So I took out an ad."

Alas, her printed announcement received no response as of Thursday. Yet, Anne is not discouraged.

"I'm going to go ahead and swim it anyway." She will meet her scheduled challenge providing the wave and wind conditions cooperate.

"If it gets too windy or the waves are too rough, it will be postponed until the next day.

Admittedly, Anne Frost is not an athlete. "I'm a musician and a nurse." She is a nurse at Canyon Manor Hospital in Novato. Additionally, she plays the guitar, cello and fiddle with Eel Grass, a wet bluegrass band.

Besides being a musician and nurse, Anne is impulsive. "I woke up one morning (last September), and thought it would be fun to swim across the (Tomales) bay. I didn't know if I could make it, because I hadn't trained and I smoked two packs a day."

Despite her uncertainty, she swam the mile of cold, rugged water accompanied by a friend, Marina Beebe, who was paddling along in a canoe.

"She came along in case I couldn't make it. I made it all right, but I was so cold that I couldn't walk for an hour."

Anne swam it in 90 minutes and thought so much of it that she decided to do it again this year. "If I can't do it," she continued, "it will be because I got too old."

The Woods Hole, Mass. native never swam competitively before. "I just dog-paddled around." But that's all changed for Frost. While Anne's event may never achieve the status of the English Channel swim, certainly it ranks as the top endurance event on Tomales Bay.

Saints-49ers Game Seems Insignificant

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans meets San Francisco tomorrow in what shapes up as the start of a battle for the cellar of the National Football Conference Western Division.

Both teams finished 1973 with identical 5-9 records.

The teams split last year, with San Francisco takingthe first encounter 40-0 and the Saints winning the second 16-10. Their series stands at 6-3-1 in favor of the 49ers.

Injuries plague both teams going into tomorrow's 11 a.m. PDT encounter, with starting 49er quarterback Steve Spurrier sidelined with a shoulder injury and both Saints starting offensive tackles nursing sprained ankles.

The Saints will start rookie Phil La Porta and second-year squadman Paul Fersen in place of tackles Dave Thompson and Don Morrison.

San Francisco will start Joe Reed in Spurrier's place.

"Reed is an awfully strong passer and looks to have great speed," said Saints defensive line coach Bob Cummings.

The loss may be more severe for the Saints, who had shown signs of developing a running game for the first time since Tony Baker and Andy Livingston combined to produce a ground game in 1969, the only other year the Saints won as many as five games.

KEN DICKERSON

Serious Injury Will Not Stop Dolphins' Rookie

MIAMI (AP) — Ken Dickerson dreamed two months ago of being another Don Nottingham, a last-round draft choice who made it in the National Football League. He dreams now only of being Ken Dickerson again.

The rookie defensive back of the Miami Dolphins was temporarily paralyzed from the neck down on Aug. 10 when he tried a tackle in an exhibition game with New Orleans.

Although he may be released from a hospital this weekend, he faces months of therapy to regain his strenght and use of his hands.

The 5-foot-9, 182-pounder from Tuskeegee Institute in Alabama, the last player chosen in this year's NFL draft, doesn't recall injucng his neck. He only remembers waking up in the hospital and discovering his paralysis.

"For three days to a week, I pushed the panic button. I kept thinking, 'Am I going to be paralyzed the rest of my life.'

"But everybody kept telling me it was going to take time, just time. . ."

Ten days after the injury, Dickerson was asked to sit up in bed.

"I didn't know if I could do it. . . but I not only sat up, I stood up," he said. "That's when I knew I could beat this thing. I never was so happy to stand up."

He still walks with a shuffle and can't hold his neck straight. His weight is down to 156 pounds and he has no feeling in his fingers, except his thumbs. He can lift only six and one-half pounds.

Dickerson, whose parents are dead, said three nurses who have cared for him around the clock have been "my legs, my arms, sometimes my mind. They have kept me from losing faith.

Although the club plans to release him once their medical obligation ends, Dickerson is not ready to give up on football.

"There's no use quitting now," he said. "Football has been good to me. This is the first injury I've had. I still think I can play.

"But if somehow I don't, I want to coach. Taking football away from me completely would ruin my life."

by Wright and a 19-yard pass from Steele to Jim Sherman advanced San Rafael to the six-yard line. Three plays later, Wright punched through from one yard to score.

While Steele was having a highly successful night passing, with seven for 15 and 95 yards, the Bulldogs completely stymied his counterpart Thomas. He failed to complete a pass and had one intercepted by Thornton in the third quarter.

Vallejo's offense was confined to the running of Dan Webb and Ron Austin, who got 56 and 20 yards. Steele, with his roll out, pitch-out style, was the game's leading gainer with 67 yards.

Concepcion Beats Dodgers; Orioles-Indians Delayed

Reds' Star Praised By Anderson

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Sparky Anderson was determined not to start any controversies.

"All I'll say is (David) Concepcion is the best shortstop in baseball," the usually talkative Reds' manager said, limiting his post-game remarks yesterday to that and "no comments" on the pennant race.

Concepcion's three-run homer in the eighth inning carried Cincinnati to a 6-3 victory over the Dodgers in the opener of the final series of the year between the teams, cutting Los Angeles' lead in the National League West to 2 ½ games.

Concepcion also set up another run in the fourth by walking and stealing second and third before scoring on an infield out.

"I feel I've become a real major league hitter," Concepcion said.

He's made believers of the Dodgers.

In last weekend's three-game series between the Dodgers and Reds, Concepcion had a three-run homer in Cincinnati's only victory, a 7-5 decision. His game-winning homer yesterday was his 12th, equalling his four-year career total prior to this season. And with 70 runs batted in this year, Concepcion leads major league shortstops.

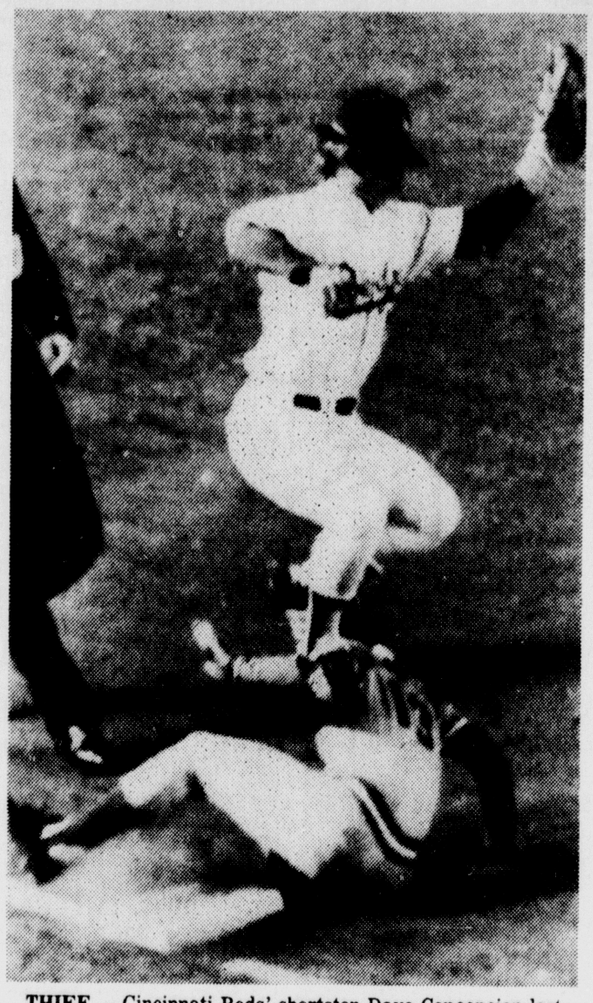

Concepcion had turned a tight 3-2 Reds' lead into a more comfortable 6-2 margin by slamming a Charley Hough knuckleball into the Dodger bullpen.

The Reds' victory was their only their fifth in 16 games with Los Angeles this season but extended Cincinnati's winning streak to five consecutive games while snapping the Dodgers' win skein at five.

Tony Perez also homered for the Reds while Ron Cey had a solo shot for the Dodgers.

The NL East race also tightened as Bake McBride did his thing.

McBride, who provided the winning run in St. Louis' 25-inning marathon victory over the Mets earlier this week, singled home the winning run in the 17th inning as the Cardinals pulled to within a half-game of division-leading Pittsburgh with a 7-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

THIEF — Cincinnati Reds' shortstop Dave Concepcion last night stole third base as Los Angeles Dodgers' third baseman Ron Cey jumped high to take the throw from catcher Joe Ferguson. Concepcion subsequently scored on a bloop single by Cesar Geronimo. (UPI Telephoto)

Cardinals 7, Phills 3

The Cardinals used consecutive singles by Ted Simmons, Keith Hernandez and McBride to break a 2-2 tie in the 17th inning of a game also delayed by rain for one hour and 41 minutes.

Expos 3, Pirates 2

Braves 9, Padres0

Mike Lum drove in five runs, four with a first-inning grand slam homer, and Buzz Capra shut out the Padres on six hits for his 14th victory and his fifth shutout.

Mets 6-3, Cubs 0-4

Rookie Ron Dunn homered to lead off the 11th inning of the nightcap for a Cubs' victory after Tom Seaver had earned his 11th victory and fifth shutout with a four-hitter in the opener.

Game Is Postponed By Curfew

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The American League's Eastern Division race is literally in a state of suspension today pending the resumption of last night's second game of a doubleheader between the Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians.

The New York Yankees lead the division by 1 ½ games over the Boston Red Sox but the Orioles need only three putouts to move into a virtual tie with the Red Sox and can gain further ground should they beat the Indians in their scheduled single game tonight.

The three-way race went into its suspended state last night when:

—Ben Oglivie's three-run homer paced the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 victory over the Yankees.

—Rico Petrocelli's four runs batted in led the Red Sox to an 8-5 win over the Milwaukee Brewers.

—The Orioles beat the Indians 3-2 in their first game and led 8-6 after eight innings in the second game which was suspended because of the AL curfew.

The Orioles will have the pressure on them when they take the field because they already will know what their principal rivals have done—the Boston at Milwaukee and New York at Detroit games being day games.

Texas beat Oakland 3-1, Chicago swept California 8-0, and 3-1 and Minnesota topped Kansas City 6-5 in other AL games.

Homers by Paul Blair and Boog Powell paced the Orioles to their victory in the first game as Mike Cuellar raised his record to 19-10 with a sixhitter. The Orioles took a 5-4 lead with three runs in the sixth inning of the second game, fell behind 6-5 in the seventh, tied the score in the bottom of the inning and went ahead 8-6 on run-scoring singles by Al Bumbry and Rich Coggins in the eighth.

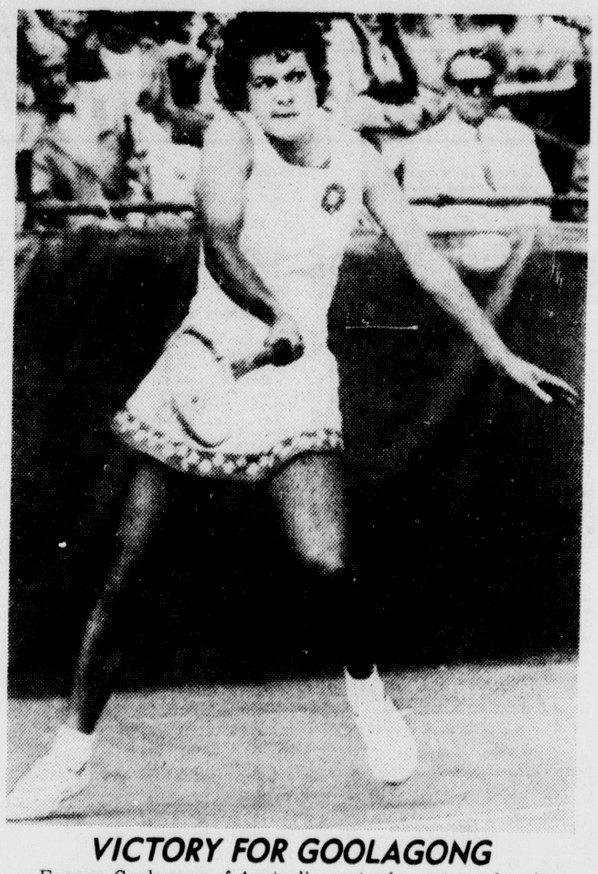

At that point, rain held up the game for two hours and seven minutes, pushing it past the 1 a.m. AL curfew.

White Sox 8-3, Angels 0-1

Jim Kaat pitched a fourhitter for his 17th win and the 26th shutout of his career as the White Sox pounded out 17 hits to win the first game. Bart Johnson and Terry Forster then combined in a seven-hitter to complete the sweep.

Twins 6, Royals 5

Rod Carew's third homer of the year in the 10th inning lifted the Twins over the Royals and gave rookie reliever Tom Johnson his second win in 10 days. Doug Bird, who served up the homer to Carew, dropped his fifth decision.

VICTORY FOR GOOLAGONG

Evonne Goolagong of Australia yesterday returned a shot to Janet Newberry of the United States during a singles match at the Bonne Bell Cup tennis matches in Cleveland. Goolagong won, 6-2, 6-2, to give Australia a 2-0 lead in the best of five series. (UPI Telephoto)

FRED WILLIAMSON

ABC Apparently Cuts 'Hammer'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Hammer" has apparently gotten the ax.

Fred "The Hammer" Williamson has been fired from his job as a commentator on ABC's Monday night pro football telecasts, industry sources said yesterday.

Williamson, on location in nearby San Pedro filming "The Rookies," could not be reached for comment.

In an interview with the St. Petersburg Times last week, Williamson said: "It's obvious to everyone that there are problems, but the fault is not mine.

"It's Howard Cosell's. He's avoided me on three games we've done. . . just let my lines die," Williamson said.

The usually garrulous Cosell was also unavailable for comment.

St. Petersburg Times Sports Editor Hubert Mizel first revealed the dismissal in a copyrighted story for today's editions.

Williamson has been with the network about two months.

Opener May Be Crucial

Bengals, Browns Meet For Supremacy Of Ohio

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

It may only be the first game of the season but tomorrow's Battle of Ohio between the Cincinnati Bengals and the Cleveland Browns is already falling into the crucial category.

The American Conference Central Division will be one of the most hotly contested this season and the Browns and Bengals, along with Pittsburgh, should be in a three-way dogfight.

Bengal Coach Paul Brown knows it's a biggie but he doesn't intend pumping up his players.

"Our players are mature men and they're more impressed with what you say rather than how you say it," Brown said. "There'll be no wild-eyed haranguing. We'll discuss the game from, well I hate to use the word, but from a scientific viewpoint.

Tomorrow's opening day scheduled has five American Conference, six National Conference and one interconference game. In AFC play, besides Cincinnati-Cleveland and Pittsburgh-Baltimore, Miami is at New England, the New York Jets at Kansas City and San Diego at Houston. In the National Football League, Dallas is at Atlanta, Detroit at Chicago, Minnesota at Green Bay, San Francisco at New Orleans, Philadelphia at St. Louis and Washington plays the New York Giants at New Haven, Conn. Los Angeles is at Denver in the interconference game while in the Monday night opener, Oakland is at Buffalo.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Peter Richert will be sidelined for the rest of the season after surgery next week for a blood clot of his left arm, the club disclosed yesterday.

Richert will be admitted to Thomas Jefferson Hospital here next Tuesday and will be operated on Thursday.

Garcia Stops Foe

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Chile's Renato Garcia, the world's 10th ranked middleweight, stopped Jimmy Caffey of Youngstown, Ohio, in 2:50 of the third round of their scheduled 10-rounder last night at the Coliseum.

'Two More In '74' Is Courageous Goal

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — A hastily-printed bumper sticker here said today: "Two more in 74."

That's all the U.S. defender Courageous needs to wipe out the challenging Australian Southern Cross in this 23rd contest for the America's Cup, a yachting trophy which the United States won 123 years ago and has defended successfully ever since.

In this current series the Americans have won the first two races, staged Tuesday and Thursday, and they had hoped to match up again yesterday against the Southern Cross on the 24.3-mile course on Rhode Island's Sound.

But a heavy fog moved in and forced cancellation of the third race. The forecast for today was for winds up to 20 knots or more and the haze was expected to lift.

Jim Hardy, the 41-year-old of the Australian challenger, said that yesterday's fog "really became pea soup" shortly after the boats got out on the course.

"There were some patches of fog earlier," he said. "Then it really became pea soup. It cleared up a bit, but it was really thick at the time they called off the race."

Pleas Of Insanity To Murders

WILLOWS (UPI) — Woodcutter John W. Card, 26, quietly pleaded innocent by reason of insanity yesterday to three counts of murder and five counts of kidnaping in Glen of kidnaping in Glenn County Superior Court.

Card is charged with the bailing wire strangulation and shooting deaths of a prominent veterinarian, the man's wife and daughter. He is also charged with kidnaping a widow and her two teen-age children and taking them on a wild, three-state flight from authorities.

The 6-foot-2, 240-pound professional woodcutter stood before Judge Clyde Larimer and softly repeated "not guilty by reason of insanity" to each of the eight counts.

He is accused of murdering Clayton B. Griffiths, 53, and his daughter Lisa Anne, 13, in their home on June 27. He is also charged with killing Griffiths' wife, Nancy, 54, in a Butte County field the next day after allegedly forcing her to withdraw $5,000 from a bank.

Judge Larimer ordered three doctors to give Card a psychiatric examination and appointed an investigator to help prepare his defense. He also ruled that Card would not have to remain shackled in the court room.

Card is also charged with kidnaping Kay Skillen and her two children, Deborah and Wesley, in their pickup truck camper. He allegedly took them through Nevada and Utah before releasing them unharmed near Williams.

Authorities arrested Card at a July 4 celebration in Truckee.

His next court appearance is scheduled for Oct. 11 at which time his court-appointed attorney, Stanley Sedor, is expeced to request that the trial be moved out of Glenn County.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Saturday, Sept. 14, the 257th day of 1974 with 108 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Margaret Sanger, American pioneer leader in the birth control movement, was born Sept. 14, 1883.

On this day in history:

In 1847, Mexico City was occupied by the United States Army.

In 1901, President William McKinley died from wounds inflicted by an assassin eight days earlier.

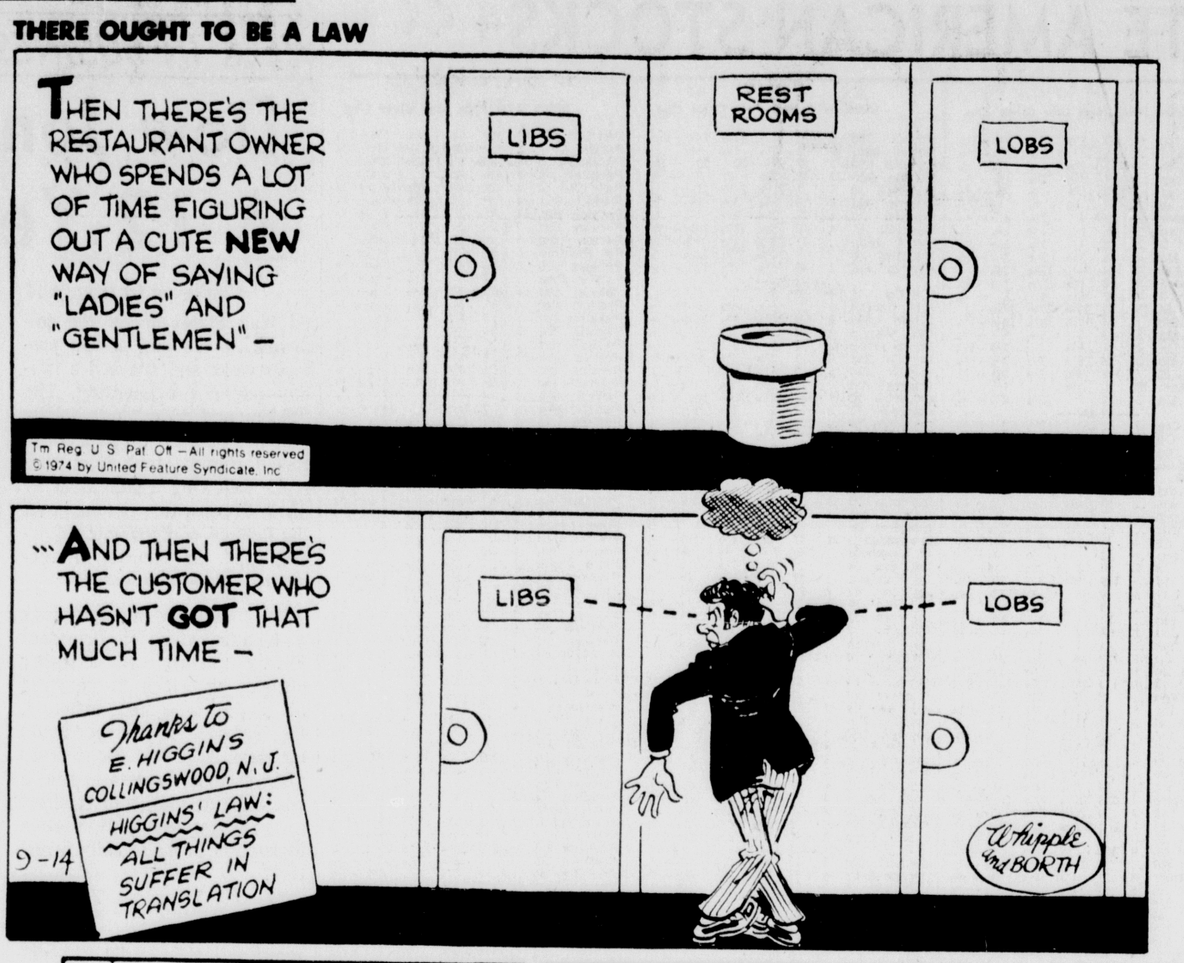

In 1963, the first quintuplets in U.S. history to survive were born in Aberdeen, S.D., to Mrs. Andrew Fischer.

In 1972, the Senate approved a Soviet-American agreement limiting strategic missile launchers.

A thought for the day: British prime minister and author, Benjamin Disraeli, said, "Every woman should marry . . . and no man."

Don't Block Your Suit In Defense Of No-Trump Action

It's easy for the declarer to handle a long suit without blocking it since he can see exactly what he has in the suit in both hands. The defenders may have more trouble with this sort of problem.

LOW FROM DUMMY

West opened the jack of spades, and declarer played low from the dummy. South planned to take the ace of spades as late as possible in the hope that the ace of diamonds was held by the player with the short spades.

East couldn't afford to play the queen of spades at the first trick for fear that South had the king and would then win three spade tricks. West therefore won the first trick with the jack of spades.

West now made the mistake of continuing with a low spade, and declarer played low once more from the dummy. East won with the queen and had to shift to a different suit. This gave declarer time to knock out the ace of diamonds, allowing him to make his contract with an overtrick.

READ SITUATION

West should easily read the situation when his jack of spades holds the first trick. Obviously, East has the queen of spades, since otherwise South would win the first trick.

West must lead the king of spades at the second trick to avoid blocking the suit. If East's queen is a doubleton, this play is needed. If East started with three spades, he can play the queen on West's king, and the suit will be unblocked.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one no-trump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K J 10 7 5
♥ - 9 6 2
♦ - A 5
♣ - 8 6 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades or two no-trump.

The important thing is to make a strong effort to reach game. If you bid only two spades, your partner is expected to pass, and a probable game will be missed.

Board Seeking More Protection

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District directors want to know if the district can contract with the Marin County sheriff's office for additional police protection, according to secretary Jerry Kapler.

The area now is served by one sheriff's deputy, but he has a wide area to cover and district directors on Thursday voted to explore the possibility of having an additional officer for the area, perhaps on a part-time basis, Mrs. Kapler said.

About 20 persons at the board meeting said they would be willing to pay for the added service, she reported.

Two Churches Win Approval

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments has approved construction of two new churches in Petaluma.

By granting use permits and determining Thursday that the structures would not adversely affect the environment, the board cleared the way for the First Assembly of God Church to build on an 8,000 square foot structure on a 10-acre lot at 2875 Old Adobe Road. The First Southern Baptist Church was authorized to build at 1301 Ely Road.

Plans for the Baptist facility are not yet complete, a spokesman told the board.

A Filmmaking Career Launched From Questioning Writing Ability

By DAVID STERRITT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Closeup: A 36-year-old ex-actor named Paul Mazursky, worried that his work as a Danny Kaye gagwriter isn't "art," wakes up one morning and decides that what he really wanted to do is to direct movies.

Long shot: A Couple of years later, clamorous crowds line up to see "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice" — a wry, sophisticated, controversial "serious comedy" that's also the zingiest box-office hit around. Filmmaker Mazursky seems well on his way to household-word-land.

Medium shot: Five years and three films thereafter, Mazursky leans intently over a cracked-crab lunch and explains his views on fame, fortune and things in general.

"Life," he intones, "is the biggest joke ever invented. It's also the saddest tragedy ever invented. It's also the most boring thing ever invented . . . It's a mystery."

Mazursky's remarks echo the main character of his latest movie, "Harry and Tonto." It's about an aging man, played by Art Carney, who travels across the United States in search of nothing in particular except experience, friendship, and a new awareness of that many-sided "mystery." Looking from "Bob and Carol" to "Harry and Tonto," one senses that Mazursky's "serious comedy" has become a lot more serious.

But then, this former gagwriter and stand-up comedian is a serious man. Don't take that too literally — he's as bright-eyed and quick-witted a filmmaker as I've met. And he has an exquisite sense of the absurd, which leaps forward whenever talk turns to movie ratings or filmmaking finances.

Yet his sense of humor never outbalances his sense of intellect, of cultural commitment. His conversation can zip from Gutenburg to "I Love Lucy" within a few seconds; his speech is peppered with allusions to Dickens, Matisse, "The Gulag Archipelago." Oh, he's a funny man, on-screen and off. But his laughter is of a very thoughtful kind.

In fact, Mazursky's artful conversation sometimes makes you wonder whether you're talking with a filmmaker at all. Surely this word-wise artist is a closet novelist, one muses, or perhaps a secret English professor.

Though the past few years of his life have been devoted to directing, acting, producing and screenwriting, he has the literary man's habit of releating everything to the world of books.

PAUL MAZURSKY
Close-up of director

It's an odd filmmaker who worries that people don't read enough these days — most complain that folks don't see enough movies — but that's Mazursky for you. "If I mention 'Martin Chuzzlewit' to the average college student today," he laments, with yet another Dickens reference, "they think he's an underground filmmaker."

Why then, is this literate movieman so ardently involved in the semiliterate movie world — currently inking his way through another filmscript, rather than a novel or other bookish project? Partly because he qyestions his own ability as a writer.

"I think I'm a very good screenplay writer," he remarks, "but that's doing mostly dialogue. The descriptive part isn't there, I just need that inside my own head."

But the reasons go deeper than that. In Mazursky's view, our age has been turned upside down by a "media revolution" that has "changed the way people digest information."

The jist of his argument goes like this: Art is packaged too easily, too neatly, too slickly in our audio-visual era.

The result is "dehumanization" in life and in art. Television and cinema have changed the face of art as profoundly as Gutenburg's printing press did. And many of the effects have been negative.

"My daughter, he continues, "spends one hour a day watching 'I Love Lucy.' All I can do is make sure she's also surrounded by the meaningful things . . . and hope that they'll have an impact, too."

Years ago, Mazursky was a dedicated film buff, spending long hours in front of any movie he could find. Today, not surprisingly, he sees few pictures.

"I don't like most movies," he reports. "In fact, I hold most films in contempt. I'm more interested in some individual films" — by such directors as Fellini, Bunuel, Bergman — "that in the movie business . . . Yet I'm grateful to the business for supporting me, and I think it should be grateful for the interesting films I've made."

"Harry and Tonto" reflects a deliberate reaction against "most films." According to the director, its low key and quiet tone were carefully planned.

"Today audiences are used to melodrama," he feels. "Today's pictures are made largely to zap people . . . But life is not like that."

For Mazursky, "the best art comes from the guy who maintains his primitive instinct — and combines that with sophisticated technique." He aims at this goal continually, involving himself totally and flexibly in every aspect of his films (including, with "Harry," the advertising and selling angles).

The filmmaker feels that his films so far — including "Blume in Love" and "Alex in Wonderland" — have had "a conscious altering effect on audiences," and hopes his forthcoming works will prove likewise meaningful. Yet he's not a man for pomposity or preachiness. "I'm 43 years old," he reflects, "and I still consider myself a kid . . . I just don't want to be bored. Or boring . . ."

JUST A 'LARK'

Profile Of Average Streaker During Last Spring's Romp

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — A study conducted at the University of South Carolina reveals the average participant in last spring's streaking fad was, in addition to being nude, a tall Protestant male weighing 170 pounds with a "B" grade average.

Robert V. Heckel, USC psychology professor who conducted the study, said in an interview yesterday most streakers did it as "a lark" and are not planning to make it a habit. "I found them to be kind of a healthy bunch of kids," he said.

"I really didn't see any nuts." Heckel interviewed 85 students, 74 of them males and 11 females who participated in nude runs on the university campus last spring. He said a couple of the streakers were in one of his classes and they put him in contact with other persons who had participated.

"Immediately after the first episode of streaking a lot of people came out with why they thought people were streakers but no one bothered to ask the streakers," he said.

The study shows that, while most streakers were Protestants, there were a significantly greater number of Catholic streakers than the percentage of Catholics on the USC campus.

The average male streaker dated regularly, came from a town with a population less than 50,000 and a family where the father is a business or professional man and the mother is a housewife.

Female streakers interviewed tended to be small, 5-foot-3 and 117 pounds. The study showed that the females were less "externally controlled than the average USC coed."

Heckel said male streakers felt more external controls than did most other males and that, perhaps, streaking for them was an attempt to break away from control by others.

"Very few of the persons I talked to were ashamed of streaking," he said.

Drive Opens For Funds To Fight Dam

Leaders of the Warm Springs Dam Legal Task Force and Marin Alternative members have launched a campaign to raise $15,000 to repay debts from the lengthy battle to block the Sonoma County dam.

Marin and Sonoma residents opposing the completion of the Army Engineers project may send donations to the Warm Springs Legal Fund, Post Office Box 6181, Santa Rosa 95406, according to Gail Jonas of Healdsburg, co-chairman of the ad hoc group.

Mrs. Jonas said the group, which fears great population growth if additional water is supplied Marin and Sonoma, must pay by Sept. 30 the expenses incurred in obtaining an injunction against the project in Washington, D.C., and other activities.

Rabbi Will Lead Rites

Rabbi Aron Horowitz of Toronto, Canada, will conduct services for Congregation B'nai Israel in Petaluma during the Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur high holidays.

Horowitz has been educational and youth director of Beth Jacob Congregation in Toronto and is a former consultant and supervisor for the United Synagogue Day School there.

During the past year he has been principal of the B'nai Jeshulum Hebrew School in Toronto.

The Editor's Notebook

Your Editor Dreams A Ridiculous Dream

I had this ridiculous dream the other night.

It seemed I was in some other country (though I have no idea which one) and had been there quite awhile. It was very isolated. I didn't know what was going on in the U.S.A.

Along came a fellow who said he was an American. I was highly pleased to see him, of course, hopeful for some news from back home.

"HOW ARE THINGS now in the U.S.?" I asked.

"Well, they're starting to put people in jail again," he replied, "but it has been great for some of us."

I was puzzled."What do you mean? Had they quit jailing people for crimes? I know when I was there, a lot of criminals were getting off through legal hocus-pocus, but had they quit altogether?"

"Oh no," said the visitor from the U.S., "they hadn't quit putting them in — not entirely. They just let us all out."

"Us?"

MY VISITOR laughed. "I see you don't know what's been going on," he said, "so I'd better tell you all about it.

"You see, we had this president who got in a lot of trouble and was about to be impeached. A bunch of his boys had been tapping people's telephones, misusing campaign funds, hiring burglars — oh, a lot of stuff.And some of them were caught and indicted. Several had gone to jail.

"So, to keep from being impeached, the president resigned, and the fellow he'd appointed vice president became president."

"THE FELLOW he'd appointed? Don't they elect the president and vice president anymore?"

"Oh, I forgot to mention — the vice president had resigned earlier, after he was charged with income tax evasion and accused of taking kick-backs from government contractors. And before that, the states had amended the constitution so that if a vice president resigned, the president could appoint a new one."

"Oh, yes, I remember that amendment," I said, with a kind of sinking feeling.

"Well, to get on with the story: A few weeks after the appointed vice president became president, he pardoned the president who had resigned. Since the president hadn't been charged with anything, he didn't pardon him for any particular crime. He pardoned him for any crime he might have done during a certain period of time — which, of course, was the period he'd been president.

"THERE WAS a lot of outcry. The president's boys who had gone to prison or been indicted demanded pardons, too. So the appointed president pardoned them. Then other people in jail started hollering for pardons. They claimed a precedent had been set, and what was fair for one was fair for all.

"It got to snowballing. First the appointed president emptied the federal prisons. Then governors — Republicans, especially; some of the Democratic governors hung tough — began issuing blanket pardons. And, to follow the precedent, the pardons all specified not just one crime but any crime a fellow might have committed during a stated period.

"It was great for the courts — cleaned up their backlog of criminal cases in a hurry.

"It was great for me, too. You see, I was serving a term for embezzlement. I had got to playing the races, and had juggled the books of the company where I was comptroller to hide the fact I was knocking off quite a bit to bet on the ponies.

"BUT WHAT nobody knew was that I hadn't stopped at juggling the books. At one time — not long before they caught me for the funny figure business — I had been really pressed by the Mafia crowd that ran the horse race book. And to raise a quick 10 G's to pay them off, I had broken into a subsidiary of the company I worked for at a time when I knew there was a big cash payroll there.

"Well, they had a guard on the payroll vault, and I had to kill him. Then I blew the vault and got the money. I got clean away. But of course I was worried plenty.

"So when the pardon came along that specified I was forgiven any crime I had committed between such-and-such dates, I was mighty relieved — because the robbery and murder were between those dates.

"Going to prison took the Mafia heat off me, too. They figured I was broke. So when I got out I had some money, and that's why I'm traveling here now.

"I TELL YOU, that business of pardoning everybody was the greatest thing that ever happened in the U.S. But a lot of old stiffnecks raised hell about it, and I don't think they'll ever do it again."

I woke up then, sweating. I haven't been able to figure out what made me have such a ridiculous dream. It must have been something I ate.

Petaluman Complains About The Police

Review boards and commissions are the result of concerted efforts of a very few brave individuals who are tired of having their heads poked in the sand. The time for official house-cleaning is before the need for investigation is apparent, and this does not mean harassment of citizens.

A peace officer's first duty is to maintain the peace and he is not doing it when he takes extended coffee breaks while on duty at Denman Flats. I know this has been brought to the attention of the chief by others, but there are those on the force who are above any rule or request. When an officer breaks the law and your only recourse is to have a fellow officer investigate it, you have an odious situation.

There are many tired commuters who have jobs more dangerous than the the officers of this city. Merely getting to and from work is one of them. The dangerous occupation theory places the police a long way from the top. More police, shorter hours, higher salaries and the ability to take an intelligence test does not make good peace officers. Kids on the police force eventually have children of their own before they realize they were wrong for years. . .

'Brickbat Award' For Highway Planners

If I had to nominate a person or persons for worst planning of the year, it would have to be the people in charge of planning our highway projects in Marin County.

Consider the following: At peak commuter time in the morning, they close off one lane on U.S. 101 North in the Corte Madera-Greenbrae area. Perhaps they do not realize that some commuters do not work in San Francisco and have to get to San Rafael and points north at that time.

After having lived in this county for some eight years, I can pretty well predict that throughout July and August, Stinson Beach is fogged in for most of the time — and early in September, there are some lovely days with sunshine and warm days which are ideal for the beach. Naturally, as soon as the fine weather starts, the highway to Stinson is closed for one month for repairs. Why in the thundering hell don't they do this work in July and August, where a 50-year record shows the coast to be "socked in with fog" and tourists and natives could care less about going there?

All in all, I nominate those responsible for the brickbat award of the year.

They All Had Good Proposals To Make To New President

WASHINGTON — President Ford has been putting his new White House staff together. We have heard about the people who have been hired for his administration, but we haven't heard anything about those who, for one reason or another, didn't get jobs.

Here are some of the people and what they said to President Ford which gave him pause about hiring them.

"NOW, MR. PRESIDENT, I think the first thing you should do is to install a recording system in the Oval Office. In that way you can tape the conversations of everyone who comes in your office."

"NEXT!"

"Mr. President, it's not too early to think about your election in 1976. I have a plan for your approval here. What I would like to do is set up a committee for your election which would be in complete charge of raising funds and directing your campaign so you wouldn't have to be bothered with the details. We would call this group the Committee to Elect the . . ."

"NEXT!"

"All right, Gerry, being president is fine, but you have to think about your future after you're out of office. Your best bet, as I see it, is to invest in real estate. Now what I will do is talk to a few rich friends of mine and we'll buy you some land and then we'll get the government to fix it up and . . ."

"NEXT!"

"MR. PRESIDENT, there is no reason why you shouldn't take advantage of the tax laws just like everybody else. Now if I were on the payroll, I would see that you got every last possible deduction you were entitled to. First, we'd work out something for your papers from the time you were House minority leader. I think, staying within the law, you wouldn't have to pay more than $800 a year.Of course, I'd need your power of attorney and . . ."

"NEXT!"

"You ask me what I can do for you, Mr. President? I'll tell you what I can do for you. There are a lot of people in this country out to get you. What I would do, if you gave me the job, would be to set up some sort of clearinghouse where we could keep a list of your enemies. Everyone on the White House staff could contribute names to the list, and then I would turn the names over to the Internal Revenue Service and ask them to audit them and . . ."

NEXT!"

"Your biggest worry, Mr. President, is leaks in the White House. What you need is your own special group which would prevent our secrets from getting out. Now the important thing is that since this group could be involved in some illegal activity, such as breaking and entering, wiretapping and forging papers, you would have to keep it from everyone, including the FBI . . ."

"NEXT!"

"Howard Hughes asked me to give you this letter of recommendation . . ."

"NEXT!"

"SIR, IF I MIGHT be so bold, the most important person a president needs is a Jesuit priest. There are times when you have to defend yourself over an action that could be considered by some as morally wrong. What better person to have in your corner than a humble man of the cloth who could . . ."

"NEXT!"

"Mr. President, I believe the first thing we have to do to bring the country together is grant a full pardon to Nixon. This would heal the wounds and put the bad dream of Watergate behind us."

"Hmmnnn. When can you start?"

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

President Ford is eager to bring inflation to its knees, right there with the rest of us.

In time we're certain to have some deflation, if only in things like people's interest in the views of David Eisenhower.

Admiral Rickover insists that the Navy's ships are in the worst shape of his entire career of complaining about them.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH

Bailing Out Pan-American Hardly Way To Curb Inflation

Pan American Airways has come to Washington hat in hand asking for a straight government subsidy of $10.1 million a month retroactive to April. It bases its case for government aid on the claim that it is a symbol of America's "international prestige" and that its forced liquidation would cost 32,500 jobs.

The question before the house is whether the taxpayers of the United States should dig into their pockets to keep one particular airline flying for the reasons cited above.

The fact that Pan Am is asking for help tends to confirm some of the anxieties expressed three years ago when Lockheed came to Washington for similar help. At that time it was contended by opponents that aiding an American corporation in trouble would set a precedent which others would be quick to follow.

At that time Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said:

"What the bill really says is that the federal government will not permit big business firms to fail. Such a program can destroy our free enterprise system. At the very least it will have a profound and far-reaching effect on our economy."

Well, the senator was indulging in a bit of rhetoric there. Real, simon pure, free enterprise in the United States ended with the first protective tariff act. Putting government credit behind Lockheed had ample precedent dating far back in American history.

The building of the railroads was funded by giving them every other quarter section of land along their rights of way. American government has always been tenderhearted and permissive toward business.

Methods of aiding business in general, or particularly favored enterprises, include tariffs, import restrictions and regulations, support prices for such commodities as butter (which Senator Proxmire favors), depletion allowances, government contracts, rate regulations, concealed subsidies, and easy credit through government agencies and banks.

Concern for the derelicts of the business community existed long before the idea of federal concern for human derelicts. So it is doubtful that a subsidy to Pan Am would set any alarming new precedent.

There is something to be said for having subsidy out in the open. It would help, among other things, to acquaint the American people with the true nature of their economic system, which is already far away from the Old Adam Smith concept of a free market economy.

It might also help to point the way whereby many prices could be brought down by de-rigging the many devices by which federal action supports and encourages high and ever higher prices.

A whiff of real, unrestrained competition blowing through the American economy just might be what is needed to break the inflation habit before it gets completely out of control.

Is such real competition politically possible? Sadly, it probably isn't, although there is likely to be as close a vote in Congress on aid to Pan Am as there was on aid to Lockheed. That passed the Senate by a margin of a single vote.

The practical question, it seems to me, is the danger in using government funds to compensate for mistakes by management.

Pan Am has a splendid record. It did put the American flag around the world in the first truly world airline. It calls itself, with much reason, "the world's most experienced airline." It has an excellent safety record. And throughout most of its history it made money.

But of late it also made some whopping mistakes, including buying a lot of jumbo jets just before international air travel started downhill.

The classic punishment for bad management is bankruptcy. Anyone who has flown Pan Am would be sad to see it disappear.

But at a time when the new president is looking around for ways and means of balancing the federal budget, the salvaging of an ailing corporation at $10 million a month would seem to be more of a luxury than a necessity.

Travelers could find plenty of seats on other airlines.

Influence Of Holdovers Seen In Ford's Pardon Of Nixon

WASHINGTON — It would be hard to imagine any way in which the whole Watergate horror could have been given more new life than by President Gerald Ford's precipitous blanket pardon of former President Richard Nixon.

The country had been happy to accept Ford as ushering in a new era of reconciliation when, contrary to previous statements, one given at his first press conference, he jumped before even the first steps in the judicial process had been taken.

His aides say he acted in the belief that by a quick, decisive move he would put the whole thing in the past. After a flurry of controversy it would be seen that his compassionate pardon was the only way to clear the air and relegate the whole matter to history.

IF THIS WAS his motive, he made a serious miscalculation. As he said nearly a year ago when asked about total absolution, "The public wouldn't stand for it." Nothing has happened in the intervening months to change that opinion. In fact the whole cycle of jail sentences, upcoming trials, and the drama of Nixon's self-righteous resignation has strengthened that view.

One may question Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's expressed opinion that the pardon will not influence the outcome of the Sept. 30 trial of the principal Nixon lieutenants. That Jaworski learned of the pardon only when it was publicly announced is a sad commentary on the status of the prosecutor.

This has overtones of the "Saturday night massacre" which saw the firing of Archibald Cox and the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson.

Comparison with the fate of former Vice President Spiro Agnew is inevitable. Agnew pleaded no contest in open court to a charge of tax evasion while the judge had before him a memorandum of 38 criminal offenses alleged against the vice president as prepared by the Department of Justice. Agnew lost his pension. He was disbarred.

The suspended sentence and the small fine meted out to him produced cynicism and distrust. Was this equal justice under law or were men in high places immune from the penalties suffered by lesser figures? This will be the reaction to the Nixon pardon that came with such unexpected speed.

THE EXTENT to which Nixon aides still in the White House were responsible for the decision is still conjecture. How much the former president himself supplied the motivation is also speculation.

Nixon is again the role player, as he has been throughout his career.

Through calculated leaks out of the fastness of San Clemente comes the picture of a lonely exile suffering in silence. Hamlet walking the beach, to be or not to be, that was the role he assumed. It resembles in kind, if not in degree, the self-martyrdom that has repeatedly been at the core of his role playing.

To separate the man from the role seems to have been more than even his one-time psychiatrist could manage in the Nixon vice presidential years.

How great the damage and how long the recovery, no one can yet say. The resignation of Ford's press secretary, Gerald ter Horst, was a blow.

A GROWING CRITICISM of Ford was for his failure to move quickly to eliminate the carryovers from an administration that had come down in disgrace. Until the pardon, this had seemed to me unfair. After all, he did need time to make an orderly transition.

But if the pardon was a consequence of the influence of the men of the past, then it is proof that he has waited too long.He is surrounded by conservative ideologues, and nowhere is this more evident than on the approach to inflation and the economy, who tell him that even jawboning or something as innocuous as wage-price guidelines can imperil the free enterprise system.

The new president must prove that he is his own man. But if the precipitous pardon is an example of that new man, then we are in for trouble.

Politics, Rivalries Stall Asian Road

By ALAN CHALKLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

HONG KONG — The Asian Highay, whose engineers dreamed of driving from Singapore clear through to Western Europe, has ended up as a gigantic cul-de-sac — for the time being, at least.

ESCAP, the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific, has abolished the permanent coordinating committee through which participating countries consulted ôn plans for the mammoth road scheme. This means simply that the project has been placed in a "pending" file.

At first sight, the move ove seems shortsighted. The goal of being able to drive (and ship goods) by road all the way from Western Europe to Singapore and Saigon and back is a good one.

The expensive nature of air freight and the dilatory and monopolistic nature of sea freight, with the bulk-breaking required in both these methods, suggest a complete road system would have provided healthy competition.

When the idea got off the ground in 1959, the highway was designed to run from Turkey through Iran, Pakistan (with spurs to Afghanistan), India (spurs to Sri Lanka), Bangladesh, Burma, Thailand (spurs to Vientiane, Phnom Penh, and Saigon), Malaysia, and Singapore. Ferries would carry motor transport across to the southern tip of Sumatra and on to Java.

The most successful participants have been the West Asian nations of Iran, Pakistan, and Afghanistan, where the road system is almost complete. India's sections are within striking distance of completion. The roads from Thailand down to Singapore and up to Vientiane, in Laos, are in good shape.

But two bad gaps remain. One is Burma, where the highways are only dotted lines on a map, drawn as promises. There has been almost no development — and Burma does not attend ESCAP meetings. The other gap is across the battle-scarred plans and hills and mighty rivers of Cambodia and South Vietnam.

The road engineers face a challenge (but not an impossible one) across the mountain-ribbed terrain of Burma. One planned route runs uncomfortably close to the tangle of tribal and political tensions in the Golden Triangle, near China. And in Indochina, the problem is that Hanoi would resist any main transport routes that ran east-west — the North Vietnamese strategy being to build north-south roads through Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam.

There are also problems on the West Asian side. Between Iran and Pakistan lie the rebellious Pathan peoples who look to Afghanistan (and therefore to Russia) for help in attaining independence. Iran's western border looks into Iraq (which is Moscow-oriented).

The Soviet Union would very much like to have good roads, and friendly police and customs posts, running from Afghanistan into India and so into the Indian Ocean, both for trade and for stragetic purposes. Afghanistan alone would like its own clear way to the Iranian coast for foreign trade (via an independent Pushtunistan, for instance).

In this situation, which may not be peacefully compromised for decades, none of these countries will feel comfortable about good road communications; each will place serious obstacles in the way of free trade along these routes..

The building of four-lane highways merely for busloads of tourists is not the name of the game. In fact, one of the objections to the Asian Highway has been that it would bring a flood of hippies.

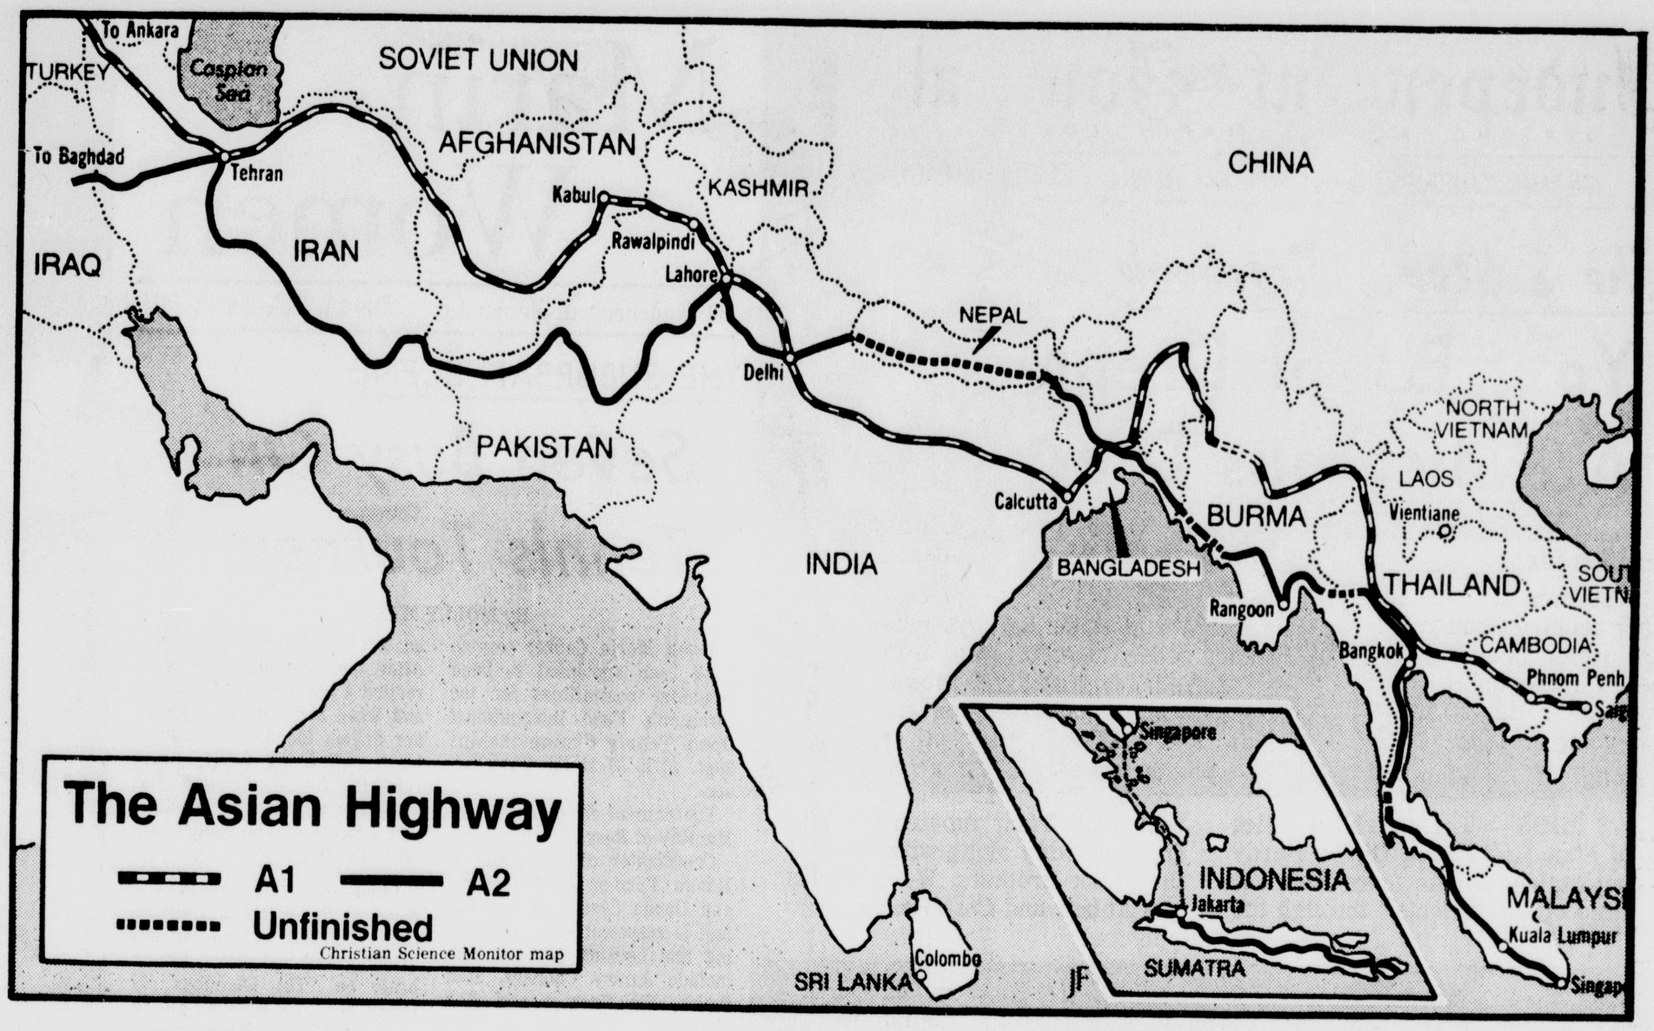

The name of the game is bringing goods back and forth from door to door, instead of via the cumbersome shipping lanes or by expensive air freight.

It was a well-run campaign in its day. The ESCAP (then called ECAFE) coordinating committee was in the hands of skilled public relations men who produced some beautiful maps backed by good promotion material — the "joining of friendly hands across the continents!"

And if the plans had been played out as visualized, the highway would have been completed and roaring with traffic by now.

In a world of politics and racial rivalry, it would have been wasteful to plan and finance the project at that time. But the vehicle is still there when interested parties are ready.

INFLATION

It Nibbles Away At Two Salaries

By LUCRETIA STEIGER
Copley News Service

Inflation is playing strange tricks on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nasher.

"I've kind of backed off on extra work," says the 28-year-old pharmacist. "I'd say that inflation has destroyed some of my incentive to hustle."

"And I'd say that while we both feel that we live within our means," adds Mrs. Nasher, also 28 and an airline reservations agent, "we wish we could learn to live below our means. We'd save more and make more investments if we could."

The Nashers (this is not their real name), have a "combined annual income in the low thirties, say $32,000 or $33,000 before taxes, and in the low twenties after taxes," Chuck says.

The Nashers, both working in Southern California, and with no children, represent a growing segment of America's population: the young working couple with double-wage income. According to a 1974 Labor Department survey, while "a typical American city family of four requires $12,600 annually to maintain a moderate standard of living, the same family can live at an austere level for $8,200 or at a level allowing some luxuries for $18,200."

Until a few months or even weeks ago, Nasher says, they knew what they were doing and where they were going.

Nasher said inflation has changed his thinking "on housing and investment in real estate and income property and land and all of it."

"Both Ann and I have begun to question the money we spend," he said. "We're just not getting anywhere now."

"And it's funny," she said, "but when Chuck first finished school, we had a lot less money and a lot more buying power."

Two years ago, the Nashers bought their three-bedroom, two-bath house for $34,250, excluding carpeting and drapes. Although the home is "worth about $50,000 — at least that's what they're asking around here now," he says, the Nashers aren't thinking of selling "because we never could afford to buy the house we'd really like to have."

"This house was worth about $10,000 more on paper before we moved in. It's a good investment. We got in at the right time for us."

For the house, the Nashers pay $319 per month, including principal, interest, taxes, fire and homeowners' insurance. Utilities average about $40 per month for gas and electricity, $20 for telephone and $12 for water. Ann pays the bills every two weeks by check "in a loose budget system," she explains.

She shops for food about every three weeks, buying "more canned goods now because I think they are better bargains," Ann says, and spending about $75, excluding meat. Soon after the meat shortage began, the Nashers explain, they invested in more than 100 pounds of prime beef which they are slowing using from their refrigerator-freezer at home. Meat costs average about $40 per month, they figure.

Hours at home are hectic for the working couple, but with Ann's chance to "bid" on new hours at her work every four months, they're gradually getting better.

He works from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and she works from 4 p.m. to midnight. Both have Mondays and Tuesdays off. She prepares casseroles ("we eat a lot of hamburger") and roasts on her days off to help out through the week. She eats dinner at the company-run cafeteria and he either broils a steak at home or eats out. Both Nashers skip breakfast and he sends out for a lunch sandwich at work.

Ann drives to work in the couple's one current installment purchase, 1970 Porsche 911T, whie he drives a sleek 1969 Jaguar XKE.

"It seems flamboyant to have two luxury sports cars, but that's just the way we ended up and we're happy with them," she says. For the cars, including a three-year loan on the Porsche, maintenance, gas and oil, the Nashers pay about $230-$250 per month, and "$1 a day for insurance," Chuck says.

Life insurance for both husband and wife average $160 per year and entertainment is figured at about $125-$130 per month. This money goes for cable television reception, including a special channel featuring late movies, dinners out and membership in a private swim and tennis club.

The Nashers "don't do a whole lot of small traveling," as she says, but did take a trip to the Caribbean last year and to Canada this summer. In addition, they often fly or drive to Arizona to visit her family.

Chuck occasionally does some cleaning or clothes washing.

Both Nashers say they're "bargain conscious and shop all around" before making any appliance or cash-outlay purchases. Although they carry both national and international charge cards, these are seldom used, the Nashers say. Current "doubts about the stability of governments all over the world," she says, are leading them "to hang onto the money we have."

"We're not going to make any major purchases; we're not going to finish the patio right now or do the wallpapering we had planned to do," he says.

"We don't have to do those things," adds Ann, "so we're going to let it wait awhile and see what happens."

Their last purchase, hand electronic calculator, was something Nasher "kept an eye on for a long time."

"The price kept going down, from about $200 to $30 or $40, so I waited," he says.

Before borrowing money, as the Nashers did for the Porsche, ("better to tie up their money than ours," she says), they "shop intensively."

Someday, in the not too distant future, they'd like to have "two children fairly close together," she says, "and then I'd like to stay home with them while they're babies. Maybe I'd go back to part-time work when they were a little older though."

Behind The News

Second Environmental Battle Is Shaping Up

By MONTY HOYT
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON — A second major court battle is looming between the Environmental Protection Agency and conservation groups that want to preserve the air quality in the country's clean-air regions.

Ordered by the federal courts more than two years ago "to protect significant deteriortion of exisiting air quality in any portion of any state," EPA has proposed to let the states decide in what areas air quality will be protected and where industrial development will be allowed.

The Sierra Club said EPA's new proposal was "in defiance of the courts." Sierra Club attorney Bruce Perris said he expected to take EPA to court "as soon as the regulations are promulgated. We are writing the brief now," he declared.

The Sierra Club successfully has challenged EPA's enforcemtn of the 1970 Clean Air Act in the federal district court, winning a decision which was later upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Under the Clean Air Act, EPA has established national air quality standards which set numerical limits on air pollutants that would be harmful to human health. Primarily, this mandates the clean-up of air emissions to urban and industrial areas where pollution exceeds this level.

However, EPA did not address itself to protecting the vast stretches of rural and nonindustrial land where air quality is cleaner than that allowed by the national standards.

The Sierra Club has argued there is nothing to prevent polluting industries, forced to clean up or close up in a dirty air region, from picking up their smokestacks and moving where the air is cleaner, thus causing the air quality to deteriorate — and violating the intent of the 1970 act.

The new EPA regulations, a modification of one of four alternative plans offered a year ago, would set up a three-tiered classification system for all regions of the U.S.

When the rules are promulgated (in about 90 days), the entire country would be classified in the second category, which allows "moderate change" in the air quality.

States then would be free to reclassify areas within the state upward to Class I ("almost no change from current air'quality patterns") or downward to Class III ("areas where major industrial or other growth is desired") after holding a public hearing.

"The ball is back on the side of the court of the states," said EPA Deputy Administrator John R. Quarles Jr. "The intent is not to restrict or prohibit economic growth, but rather to ensure that desirable growth is planned and managed in a manner which will minimize adverse impacts on the environment."

MORE SMOKE — Smoke which pours from this smokestack could pour into rural areas of some states under a proposal made by the Environmental Protection Agency.

The new Class II category would allow "a moderate degree of industrial development provided that the new industrial facilities are equipped with good pollution control systems," he stated.

For example, new 1,000-megawatt coal-fired power plants, coal gasification facilities, oil-shale processing plants, and petroleum refineries, individually, would not likely exceed pollution increases allowable under Class II.

Japan In Peruvian Oil Plans

Copley News Service

LIMA — Construction on South America's third trans-Andean oil line is to begin shortly financed by the first ever development loan Japan has granted a Latin American petroleum company.

The oil-hungry Japanese agreed to loan the Peruvian state petroleum enterprise, Petro-Peru, $330 million on extremely favorable terms, including low interest rates and a four-year grace period before repayment begins.

The money is to be used to finance new exploration in Peru's eastern jungles and to help pay for a 600-mile pipeline that will carry the jungle oil over the Andes Mountains to the northern Pacific port of Bayovar.

In return for the loan, the Japanese Petroleum Development Corp. has been given 10-year options on forward supplies of Peruvian oil beginning in 1978 when the pipeline should be completed.

The options cover both crude and refined products. Japan originally had insisted that the loan be repaid entirely in crude but, under the final agreement, crude shipments will total 153.3 million barrels while other products will add up to over 102 million barrels. Price will be set on the basis of biannual adjustments reflecting the international situation.

While Peru's Amazon rain forests have yet to produce the fabulous wealth earlier predicted by the country's military government, discoveries and contract terms have been sufficiently attractive to cause a mini-stampede to the eastern jungles. The Japanese have been at the head of the line of potential customers ever since Petro-Peru spudded its first well in 1971.

What with discoveries in similar jungle areas of Colombia and Ecuador, oilmen figured Peru's rain forests would be a continuation of the same geological formation. When the government offered reasonably attractive (for these days) exploration terms, 17 U.S. companies prepared to try their luck in the jungle.

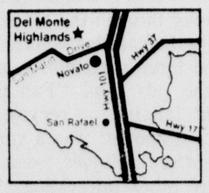

In recent years, some 400 million barrels in proved reserves have been discovered, much by Occidental Petroleum working for Petro-Peru.

Seven Busy On Tennis Tourney

By MOLLY MARIN

Seven Marin County women have been appointed to head volunteer committees for the Fireman's Fund International Open Tennis Championships Sept. 23 to 30 at the Cow Palace.

Tournament director is Barry MacKay of Ross.

Coordinator of volunteers is Marge Farmer of Belvedere, and Donna Casella of San Rafael is responsible for welcoming and housing players, who include Jimmy Connors, Stan Smith, Ilie Nastase and Roy Emerson.

Others who have committee assignments are Eloise Rauscher of Belvedere, player lounge; Marilyn Stevens and Ann Heavy, both of Mill Valley, tournament desk; Shirley Rude of Belvedere, messengers and maintenance; and Marci Tyler of Belvedere, tournament director liaison.

ENTERTAINER, SONG writer Michael Jarrett and his bride, the former Sally Kirkland, are living in the Southern California ashram where they were married on Aug. 31.

The ceremony was performed in the Italian baroque palazzo built by the Guasti wine family in 1912 and is the home of the Movement of Spiritual Inner Awareness.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian V. Jarrett of Forest Knolls, and Sally's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kirkland of New York. The bridegroom, who attended Sir Francis Drake High School, is the sister of Dorothy Stephens of Nicasio and Douglas Jarrett of Nevada City.

Vows were exchanged under an arched bower of flowers. After the ceremony the bride recited a poem she had written, and when she faltered midway her drama teacher, Lee Strasberg, called out softly, "Just read the line, my dear." The bride has appeared in "Cinderella Liberty," "The Sting" and "Bite the Bullet."

Then the bridegroom sat down at the piano to sing the songs he had written for the wedding and was joined by the bride on "The Blessings Already Are," his wedding gift to Sally, which he will soon record for Playboy Records.

TO MAKR the 85th year of Florence Crittenton Services in San Francisco the board of directors will have a cocktail party Wednesday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor in San Francisco.

Rona Elbert of Tiburon, president of the board of directors is planning to attend, as is Colleen Silcox, also of Tiburon, president of the Marin auxiliary.

Originally founded in 1889 as the Pacific Rescue Mission, near the Barbary Coast, Crittenton has changed its program to fit community needs from a traditional maternity home for unwed mothers to a service for troubled women who are either pregnant or have babies.

MR. AND MRS. Robert Scott Thomas have returned home to San Rafael following a cruise to Alaska on the Royal Star Viking.

They were accompanied by their children, Robert Jr. and Heidi.

BICENTENNIAL BADGE — Girl scouts Diane Poush of Novato, Gwendolyn Cribbs of Greenbrae and Ulrike Seinbach of Strawberry work on posters representing Bicentennial badges while leader Michele Gonzales of San Rafael (left) looks on. Scouts throughout Marin will be seeking to earn Bicentennial badges this year by identifying women past and present who have been important to the Marin Community and deciding on ways to pay tribute to them. In tribute to scouting's long history, Mrs. Gonzales wears a 1917 girl scout camp uniform.

Four Regional Girl Scout Rallies Are Being Planned

Four regional rallies for girls and families interested in girl scouting will be held in Marin this month.

They are designed for formation of troops and recruitment of girls and leaders, according to Vikki Gough, Marin press representative for the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council.

Opening rally will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Novato High School girls gym for girls and families living in the Novato-Hamilton Air Force Base area.

FOR THOSE in the San Rafael area (north to Lucas Valley), a rally will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Interested persons in Corte Madera, Greenbrae, Kentfield, Ross, San Anselmo, Fairfax and the area to the coast, a rally will be held at Drake High School boys gym on Sept. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

Mill Valley, Strawberry, Belvedere, Tiburon, Sausalito and Marin City girls and families are invited to a rally at the Park School auditorium in Mill Valley on Sept. 24 at 7:30 p.m.

HANDLING THE RALLIES are Barbara Kent in Novato; Ginny Gill and Dotty Brown in San Rafael; Robin Robinson in Ross Valley, and Jan Smith in Mill Valley.

The rallies will include showing of the film, "The Difference Is You," a film on girl scouting. Staff members will explain the role of volunteer leaders before interested girls and prospective leaders break up into small groups for troop organization and signups.

Girl scout troop formation in the past was done piecemeal, Mrs. Gough said. The rallies are designed to match interested girls with available leadership and to acquaint tentatively interested persons with the programs available.

DOROTHY THURMAN, Marin's field coordinator for the bay council, said girl scouting plays an important role in providing girls with opportunities to explore new areas of interest and to direct themselves in such explorations. "The extras which schools have been offering in recent years are being cut back in many cases because of the constraints of (school finance bill) SB 90. In many cases Scouting offers girls their best chance to learn many home and craft skills and to have a variety of outdoor camping experiences."

There are currently five divisions of scouting: 6-to-8-year-olds are Brownies; 9-to-11 year olds (fourth through sixth grades) are junior girl scouts; 12-to-14-year-olds (grades seven through nine) are cadette girl scouts; girls 15 to 17 (grades 10 through 14), senior girl scouts; men and women over 18 are adult scouts.

APPROXIMATELY 3,700 girls and 515 adults are organized into 169 troops in Marin County.

Mrs. Gough said Marin membership in scouting has declined in the past 10 years, following the general population downcurve for the Scouting age group.

She also blamed the lack of volunteer leaders for the downtrend.

The decline in Marin, however, has been slight compared to far larger drops in other segments of the Bay Area council. She expects Scouting to grow stronger in the next few years as new emphasis is put on self-directing and goal-setting for the girls.

IN ADDITION to community service work, badge work and special intercultural and international exchanges, girl scouting offers a variety of camp experiences: in Marin there is a horsemanship camp, with wilderness and waterfront skills camps available out-of-county through the bay council.

A SPIRIT OF OPTIMISM

Speaking Of Old Films, What's Wrong With A Happy Ending?

By KAREN PETERSON

American movies, throughout their brief history, have reflected the eras in which they were made.

With a whole nation harking back to the fashions, music and art of the '50s and earlier, is it any wonder old movies are currently enjoying new popularity?

"In the '30s, the economy was at the bottom. Great corporations were disintegegrating. But still there was a great optimism in the country, and the movies reflected it," says Richard Marshall, member of Marin's Lyric Photoplay Society and a walking encyclopedia of Hollywood.

SOCIETY IS facing its own crises today, said Marshall, and it may be that the popularity of pre-'50s movies indicates "that we can again regenerate that optimism."

Whatever the reason, old movies are certainly having their day — again. Witness the great success of retrospective "film festivals" at College of Marin, and the public response when TV reruns a vintage musical.

Rescuing and preserving films of the silent era (and sponsoring weekend vintage movie showings) are the main business of the Lyric Society, but the history of the industry is an ongoing course of study for Marshall, chief engineer at KTIM Radio in San Rafael.

NEXT SATURDAY the society will open its fall season with the showing of the original "Mark of Zorro" of 1920 beginning at 8 p.m. at the Port, 393 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

"It's not a matter of nostalgia," said another member and organist for the showings, Bob Vaughn, "We're trying to recreate a form of entertainment, of life."

The mood's the thing, Marshall reiterated, going back to his discussion of '30s movies. Despite the tragedies of the Depression, there was a "radiant aura behind that black cloud, and people were singing 'around the corner there's a rainbow'."

The movies were full of glamorous settings and music and actors did things with a "be-damn-to-you" attitude, said Marshall. Every movie had a trauma, but everything turned out "happily ever after."

"WHAT'S WRONG with happy endings?" asked Marshall, "Maybe that's why people are looking back."

The movies were the major form of amusement for Americans from 1915 until the coming of television, said Marshall. "That was our entertainment; the movie was the big thing."

Movies, to begin with, were great Americanizers for immigrants, Marshall said as he recounted the history and impact of the movie business.

From 1905 to 1925, the nickelodeons were "showing immigrants much more of American life than (they could find) in their own little enclave."

By 1914, the industry had entered the era of the full-blown feature with the film, "Birth of a Nation," said Marshall, "It (the business) blossomed from crude to very sophisticated (with) motion pictures of feature length."

In the mid-20's, movies were nearing their adult stage, ranging all the way from "brightly sophisticated sex triangle comedies through great, sweeping spectacles like 'Ben Hur'," recounted Marshall. "In the late 20's began the gangster dramas, rum-run and tough guy films."

BUT THE 20'S also marked the beginning of censorship, that among other things, required that movies would have "happy endings" — the good guys always won.

There were a series of "scandals" concerning movie stars in that decade, Marshall said; one died of drug withdrawal symptoms and two were murdered. "With all of these things happening," he said, "the Bible Belt came down on Babylon. As a consequence the threat of censorship was raised all over the country."

The movie industry created the Motion Picture and Directors Association as an arbiter "of moral standards," headed by a "rather dull, flatland prude," said Marshall.

The industry was afraid, too, that "grimly realistic movies would be box office poison."

THE "TALKIES" made their debut in the 30's, and until the new technique was refined, "sound imposed some restrictions," said Marshall. These restrictions spawned the growth of teacup dramas where it "seemed like people sat around telling people what happened."

In a short time, sound was conquered and movies were filled with singing and dancing. The "Golddiggers of 1933" began an era of the big spectacle dance, and screwball comedies were born.

Then came intimate drama, said Marshall, and a revival of gangster films such as "Public Enemy Number One" and "Litle Caesar."

The war years ushered in the era of formula films. "Theaters were crammed to overflowing," remembered Marshall, and to accommodate this turnout, the industry had to produce quantity.

"During the wartime period, I don't recall a single film that was outstanding," he said. The films were "patriotic, determined and low key optimistic."

"CASABLANCA" was the exception. "It's a classic from beginning to end. A crackling dialogue played by the right people," he said, adding, however, that the plot was really quite trite. "That genre, that certain rightness," he said, started with the "Maltese Falcon."

It was also a time when people liked to identify with movie stars, when publicity pictures, for instance, showed Claudette Colbert "dressed to the teeth" in her huge kitchen. The picture tried to say she was "just a simple girl. We knew it was fake, but it was fun," he said.

Movies, he said, such as "Imitation of Life," "Back Street" and "Stella Dallas" were measured for success by the "number of hankies" in the audience. "Women did in a sense identify with the emotional crisis" in the movies. And men looked to Clark Gable. "Gable came on as being very likeable in a kind of refined, woodsy, tweedy all-men" way, he added.

Although Marshall is unimpressed with many of the 40's productions, he does believe that movies of this decade and even before, were "closer to reality" than movies of today.

"I think in 1945 there were a lot more people in America like the Hardy family than there are like 'Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice'."

Women's Fellowship Picks New Officers

The new president of Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary Women's Fellowship is Lillie Broadfoot of Mill Valley, whose interest is singing.

Mrs. Broadfoot said that the fellowship's theme this year is "With a Song in Our Hearts," and each month's program will center around a popular song title such as "Getting to Know You," "Whistle While You Work," and "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head."

She sings in both the oratorical and seminary choirs at the seminary in Mill Valley and at the First Missionary Baptist Church of Marin City.

A native of Columbus, Miss., Mrs. Broadfoot is a graduate of Vashon High School in St. Louis, Mo., and attended Hubbard Business College in St. Louis, Anchorage Community College in Anchorage, Alaska, and Merced College in Merced.

She is the mother of Beverly, 20; Bernie, 19, and Timothy Broadfoot, 9.

When the Broadfoots moved to Marin three years ago, Mrs. Broadfoot joined the women's Fellowship and served as program chairman last year.

The group is for wives of seminary students, staff, faculty and all women enrolled or employed by the seminary. Its purpose is to stimulate a Christian fellowship among members through devotion, training, study of problems and social life.

Yard, Garage Sales And The Like Becoming A Way Of Life

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Garage, yard, estate and moving sales are being held more and more throughout Marin and Southern Sonoma counties.

Going through the classified ads which ran in the Independent-Journal last weekend we found three particularly interesting ads. One of the ads read "Fantastic Garage Sale; Fight Inflation — recycle furniture and lots more." Another was a yard sale where were advertised antiques, some new and old, and many other interesting items. Haven't decided what a new antique is.

"Divorced, everything must go", which included such items as boating equipment, was another ad. Well, there are all kinds of reasons for a garage sale.

Who are the people that hold the sales and those who attend?

High School Nutrition And Job Hunting Courses Suggested

DEAR RAP:

It wasn't untill reached my last year in college that I took two courses that might have made things much easier — and healthier — for me back in high school or even junior high school days.

And I only got these courses by chance — because I needed a couple of "fillers."

The first was nutrition — all about foods, vitamins,calories, minerals, what the body needs to stay healthy and strong. The second was part of a business class — "How to Find and Hold a Job." This instructed us on making out applications, applying for work, organizing our time, facing oral interviews, getting along with a tough boss, etc.

In my nutrition class I became aware of how much junk I ate. We kept charts of our food intake for a week, and that shocked me into changing my eating pattern. I also learned how little most young people (including new mothers) really know about healthy food habits.

My pitch: Why don't public school systems make "Food and Nutrition" and "Job Training" required courses in high school? And I mean intensive classes — not just a couple of days squeezed into a P.E. or typing class?

Everybody needs this kind of training, but most kids don't realize it, and so it would have to be required in the same way English and arithmetic are.

What are your thoughts? — COLLEGE STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT:

Right on! I too took my first real nutrition course in college — and it opened my eyes. . .Not that my mother hadn't tried to teach me proper eating habits, but that's lumped under "Eat your vegetables, honey," and (excuse it, Mom) to be ignored if possible.

Secondly:

Most kids are looking for jobs in high school. So why should training in how to make out applications, approach future bosses, etc. be limited to business courses?

Thanks for your good suggestions — let's hope they're read by school administrators everywhere! — SUE

DEAR STUDENT:

I'm with you all the way — and I think nutrition, at least, should be taught intensively in junior high school or before. With all the junk and convenience foods available now, kids need to learn — in a way they'll accept — which has the proper nutrients and which holds only empty calories. Since many parents aren't aware of good eating habits, these newly taught children might bring home ideas that would make the whole family healthier.

About "How to Get a Job" training, I'm sure business persons everywhere will agree this should be a required high school subject! — HELEN

RAP:

I've got a terrible fear of flying airplanes. I'm engaged to a guy who has to travel a lot, and he wants me to come with him. But he flies and I can't. Otherwise we're just perfect for each other — we think.

If I stay home will I lose him? Actually I'd love to see Europe and the other places he goes, but I'm — WINGLESS WINGLESS:

For Pete's sake — don't give in to your fear! Think of all the great trips you'll miss, and consider the loneliness — perhaps loss — your phobia will bring. Then take a short plane flight with your fiance. With his support, you'll make it. (And if you need something more, I'd suggest a discussion with a psychiatrist.) — HELEN

WED 50 YEARS — Mr. and Mrs. William A. Welch of Novato celebrated their 50th anniversary at a buffet supper at the home of their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. William E. Welch in Loma Verde. The senior Welches live in Novato.

Novatans Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Welch of Novato celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Aug. 30. They were married at Fergus Falls, Minn., and came to the West Coast 35 years ago.

The former Elsie Prill was born in Germany and, with her parents, moved to Wadena, Minn. She moved to Spokane, Wash., and spent the summers in Minnesota, where she met her husband, who was born in Madison, Wis.

Welch worked for many years for the Marin County Furniture Store, now Casa Marin Home Furnishers. He retired 12 years ago. He now does gardening and has customers, mostly in Larkspur, whom he has served during his 12 years of retirement.

The Welches have lived in Larkspur, San Anselmo, Bayside Acres, three homes in San Rafael and now live in a mobile home park in Novato.

Welch has kept the family table supplied with vegetables such as beans, carrots, tomatoes, and lots of flowers during the summer season. Mrs. Welch keeps busy with oil painting and crocheting. They both help the neighbors, when they are away, with watering around the mobile homes. Welch also enjoys riding a bicycle and swimming. They are both members of Trinity Lutheran Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Welch said the way they have gotten along during their 50 years of marriage was because of "fighting the way we do. We never fought about money, and it doesn't seem very long." (since they were married)

She also added that in their families, "when you are married, you're married."

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Welch, honored them at a buffet supper at their home in Loma Verde. Mr. and Mrs. Welch also have a daughter, Bettye Allen of Hillsborough; a son, Michael Welch of Bolinas, and six grandchildren.

LAST WORD

In calling a few homemakers in Novato we found that Mrs. Sam Phillip has a garage sale at least once a year. This year, eight other people placed their merchandise with hers in the driveway and garage.

People coming to her sale look mainly for baby clothes, dressers, lots of glass and dishes and containers to be used as planters in the backyard.

She opened her sale on Thursday, and continued through Monday, but before she could even get set up people were waiting to look through the items. She uses the proceeds to buy things for her daughter, toys for her grandchildren, clothes, stamps and some groceries. Her daughter is taking karate lessons this fall with profits from the garage sale.

A lot of work goes into getting merchandise ready for the sale. It takes three or four days to prepare for it to post prices and set up tables. Of the more than 60 people who came to the sale each day, half didn't buy anything and as many bought items.

Another Novatan has garage sales to rid herself of items for which she no longer has any use. She also goes to other people's garage sales where she might pick up good furniture as her husband likes to refinish it. He has also worked on radios and televisions to sell at their own garage sales.

So the next time you see all those cars parked on the street and men, women and children stopping at your neighbor's garage, you might take a look. You might find a treasure.

Blazer Suggested As Good Project For Sewing Class

By EUNICE FARMER
(Distributed by Register and Tribune Syndicate)

DEAR EUNICE,

I intend to take a class in tailoring this fall and am wondering just what you would suggest I make. I live a very conservative life and want to spend my time and money on a project that I will be able to wear for a long time without going out of style. — MARY K.

DEAR MARY K.,

If you have watched fashion pages, both in the newspapers and the magazines, you'll see that the blazer is the most important part of a wardrobe this fall. Blazers are so versatile and can be worn with dresses, skirts both long and short, and pants. Choose your fabric carefully and you'll find that a blazer will be a sharp part of your wardrobe from morning to night.

Be sure your fabric choice is right for you. By this I mean, a blazer is a very tailored garment and unless you are a feminine looking woman, it could turn out to be too mannish for you. Some suggestions would be velveteen, gabardine, beautiful tweeds, corduroy and flannel, as well as the polyesters.

This season's feminine touch to add to your blazer to soften the look, is a blouse, rather than a shirt look. This means a blouse with a tie at the neck, an ascot or a long bias scarf, and could be made from chiffon, soft jerseys, vyella or challis. Combine interesting fabrics and your time will be well spent.

Lastly, remember that you will be spending many hours on this project. By all means purchase the nicest fabric you can afford so you will be rewarded with your beautiful completed garment.

Other suggestions for your tailoring class would be a Chanel type suit if you are more of a beginner. You'll avoid lapels and collars altogether. Probably a new coat is also on the list for all of us, you'll want one that will complement the new skirts we'll be wearing. So you see, you have a very wide range of choices.

I always tell my students to absolutely love the fabric they choose because when you have to look at it for two months, rip occasionally, and work on it for hours, you'll still enjoy it when it's finished. In contrast, if you simply choose any fabric without thought for your project, you'll probably become bored and won't be stimulated enough to do your best.

DEAR EUNICE,

I'm attempting a beautiful plaid jacket for fall but the plaid of the lapels doesn't seem to want to line up with the edge of the lapel. I have always admired the way men's suits look. The edge of the lapel always follows a straight line of the plaid and the lapel looks so sharp. Why aren't women's patterns cut this way? — VIRGINIA S.

DEAR VIRGINIA,

You are very observant and correct. The outer edge of men's suits do follow a straight line, and this is especially attractive and noticeable on plaids. There is a good reason for this. The outer edges of men's jackets are cut almost perfectly straight. Women's clothes need to be softened, therefore most blazer jackets are cut with a curve at the outer edge of the lapel.

You will find some jackets for women that are actually cut straight like men's. You can check this out before you buy the pattern by taking out the sheet with the cutting instructions and checking the sketch of the jacket front.

I honestly don't feel this is as important as you think it is, the important thing when working with plaids is to have them match horizontally all around the jacket. This includes the upper sleeve as well.

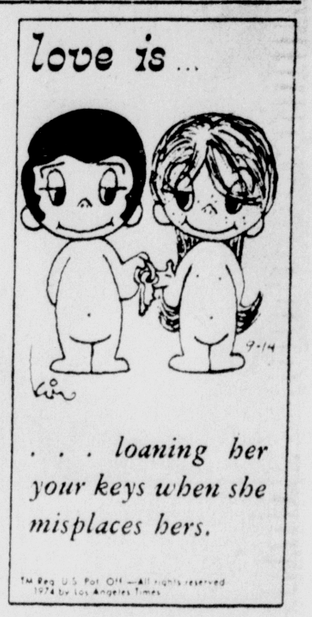

DEAR EUNICE,

I am making a very dressy dress that has only one shoulder; the other is bare. The dress doesn't have much fitting. The zipper is on the one side seam. My problem is the side without the shoulder support sags down and no matter how tight I make the dress at the top, it still slides down eventually. How can I remedy this? — MRS. TERRY M.

DEAR MRS. T.M.,

There is a simple answer for you. Don't over-fit your gown because it won't solve your problem. I suggest you use feather-boning in a package. It is dry cleanable as well as washable. Place it over the opened seam of your garment, ending it at the waistline. It is covered with a cotton tape and can be hand whipped on both sides to the seam allowances of your garment.

On the side of your dress with the zipper, you can place the feather-boning on either side of the zipper, or perhaps both sides are necessary. I think you will find that this works perfectly with strapless dresses, halter dresses, and any area where there is not enough shoulder support to keep up on the shoulders.

A Retired Engineer Heads For Priesthood

The retired English civil engineer says there is nothing extraordinary about it and that some even older men are studying for the pristhood. The college they go to is the Beda in Rome, which specializes in training older vocations. Beda students must be at least 24-25 years old and they normally have had other careers.

Bourne chatted between sessions of the convention here of Serra, the Chicago-based international organization of Roman Catholic laity that fosters recruiting for the priesthood. Bourne was ordained a deacon at the closing session. He hopes to be ordained a priest in Rome next Easter Monday.

He has had four children who have given him 18 grandchildren. A much-traveled man, he has worked in Malaysia, Singapore and Borneo on construction projects and was in Spain during the Civil War before World War II. He speaks fluent Spanish.

He lost his wife nine years ago when he was 58. He worked for two more years and then retired. He said:

"I had been doing voluntary work for Serra and I started to think I might recruit myself. I thought 'I have the experience which can be useful in helping people to try to get through this world.' Bishop Charles Grant of Northampton agreed to take me on. After my final ordination I will be assistant to a priest, who will certainly be younger than me. After that I hope to get a country parish for my old age. I have sold my flat in London and I will go where the Church sends me."

Bourne has spent three years at the Beda College, founded in 1852, and he will stay there until next Easter. Older men have to cram into four years the six-year course which is the minimum for young aspirants to the priesthood. The first two years they study philosophy and theology and the last two theology only. These subjects embrace liturgy, which is the form of worship; dogmatic theology, which is what theologians find out in their research and which is based on biblical studies; and homiletics, how to preach.

The Serra organization, founded in Seattle, Wash., in 1934 by a group of businessmen, is named after the Franciscan missionary from Majorca, Father Junipero Serra, who travelled to Mexico with Spanish troops in 1769 and evangelized California. Serra today has 330 clubs in 32 countries.

RELIGION IN AMERICA

A Solution To Church's Strife

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

Dr. Oliver Harms, former president of the 2.8 million member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, has proposed a novel approach for resolving the theological dispute tearing the denomination apart.

Harms, in an address to the second assembly of Evangelical Lutherans in Mission (ELIM), the moderate wing of the church, proposed the calling of a "theological council" involving professors, clergy and laity of the synod.

At the heart of such a council would be a "theological confrontation" to determine whether or not the so-called historical-critical method of Scripture study could exist side-by-side with the literal method of Biblical interpretation.

It is exactly at that point that the denomination is so badly split —an issue that transcends the personalities and ecclesiastical politics.

Such a council, moderates reason, would bring together representatives of both factions within the synod and remove the stigma attached to the only forum so far presented for an airing of the issue —a hearing on false doctrine charges brought against Dr. John Tietjen, suspended president of Concordia Seminary.

Tietjen refused to attend the hearing, on the grounds that it would be a "charade" and would "offer no possibility of a fair and impartial judgment."

In its most simplistic formulation, the question dividing the church is whether the Bible can be interpreted symbolically or only literally.

Moderates within the synod, including a large majority of the former faculty of the church's prestigious Concordia Seminary, generally believe the former.

That is, they accept some aspects of the historical-critical method of Bible study which says that historians attempting to interpret the Bible must take seriously the so-called "human side" of its origins, and use, in part, the same scholarly tools an historian would use on other historical phenomenon.

The moderates hotly deny, however, that their acceptance of such methods in any way involves them in denying the Scripture as God's Word or that it separates them from the traditional Lutheran confession that the Bible is the cornerstone of faith.

"We need to be conscious of God's wrath over against the proud sins of all of us, in which we are intolerant of others and arrogant in our approach to God and his Word," Rev. Samuel J. Roth, ELIM president told the 1,400 moderates who gathered for the ELIM assembly.

Harms, who was defeated in an election for the synod presidency in 1969 by Dr. J.A.O. Preus, current president and leader of the conservative majority within the church, said the present situation in the church is so serious that such an action as the council was necessary if peace and reconciliation were ever to come to the church.

One possible input for the theological debate could be the church's Commission on Theology and Church Relations' comparative study on "varying contemporary approaches to Biblical interpretation" put together more than a year ago.

Moderates might not agree with the commission's description of the "radical" and "mediating" positions of the historical-critical view put together by the Commission. But if both sides come, as Harms suggested "with forgiveness in their hearts and Bibles in their hands," it might make such a debate reasonable rather than rancorous.

Dinner Theme

"A Russian Harvest" is the theme for a dinner-social next Saturday sponsored by the Serenity Spiritualist Church at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion Log Cabin in San Anselmo.

College Sets A Course On Religion

A course examining the relation of religious, psychical and mystical experiences will be offered at Dominican College, San Rafael, starting Sept. 25.

Instructor Pascal Kaplan has selected a large number of written considerations of the subject for the course called "An Introduction to Higher States of Consciousness." It will compare Eastern and Western thought.

Material will be taken from St. Augustine and William James to ancient and Oriental mystics.

There is one unit of credit for the course. The meetings will be from 9:30 to noon each Wednesday until Nov. 13. Further information may be had by calling Dr. Steven Padover at Dominican College.

Picnic Outing On Angel Island

A worship-picnic-fun day will be held by the members of the First Congregational Church of San Rafael tomorrow on Angel Island.

The congregation will leave on the 9:30 a.m. ferry at Tiburon.

The worship service will be held on a hillside and that will be followed by a picnic lunch.

After that families may hike or bicycle around the island for a day of fun, according to the pastor, Rev. Louis H. Riley.

Secretary Named For Novato Church

Mary Hickman has been named secretary of the Episcopal parish of St. Francis of Assisi in Novato.

She will be in the office from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Thursday. She replaced Ellen Fusso as parish secretary, who resigned.

Jogging In Good Health For The Research Cause

By DON KEOWN

Health and medical research programs in this country have concentrated upon the ailing, and upon aiding the sick in surviving and recovering from their maladies.

But there is one program, with bases in Marin, that has a different slant.

Called "Health Watch," it is an Institute of Health Research-directed program that focusses upon the healthy, and which is concerned with the maintenance of their good health.

In Marin, you can see participants jogging about the tracks at College of Marin, Kentfield, and Tamalpais High School, Mill Valley, five days a week in the early morning hours.

THE PROGRAM IS two-pronged:

It is concerned with the role of aerobic exercise in the maintenance of good health — particularly cardiovascular fitness. And it maintains an on-going, regularly updated "health profile" of the participants through scientific tests, and using computers, thus building up a body of information that has been absent from the health picture in the past.

The program is largely the result of the theories of two men who have broken new and controversial ground in health thinking in this country. They are:

DR. KENNETH H. Cooper, physiologist, the developer of the "aerobics" physical fitness program that has won world-wide popularity and has been adopted as the official physical fitness regimens for the U.S. Air Force, the U.S. Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force. Dr. Cooper's definition of aerobics: "A variety of exercises that stimulate heart and lung activity for a time period sufficiently long to produce beneficial changes in the body." His program has been outlined in a series of best-selling books.

Dr. George Zur Williams, pathologist, who for 17 years was director of clinical pathology for the National Institutes of Health and who there led a team of scientists in discovering and proving the individuality of the biochemical make-up of each human being: "The finer characteristics of your biochemical and physiological state are as unique to you as your fingerprint."

In 1969 Dr. Williams founded the nonprofit Institute of Health Research, centered in San Francisco and with National Institutes of Health funding, with the intention of exploring just how these individual health profiles of man and woman can be defined and then used for the sustaining of good health.

ALREADY CONVINCED of the authenticity of Dr. Cooper's aerobics program (as a consultant he had recommended its adoption by the Air Force), Dr. Williams decided it should be closely correlated with his own ideas in the Institute of Health Research program.

He had his own private example to help persuade him.

A personal program of jogging in which he now runs two miles each morning, commutes to work by foot and ferry (entailing six-mile walks) and jogs five miles daily on weekends, had instilled in him a new feeling of vigor and a plunge in his cholesterol level from 250 to between 185 and 200.

At 21, the lithe blonde says, she smoked a pack of cigarettes a day and maintained a resting pulse of 80.

At age 30, following graduation from Harvard Medical School and the birth of two children, she took up running. Starting with a difficult one mile a day, she increased her range until she now, at 33, runs the 26 mile, 385 marathon course in three hours and 13 minutes.

Recognized as one of the top marathon running women in the country, she placed 13th among her sex in this year's Boston Marathon despite running with an injury, and three weeks later won the Avenue of the Giants Marathon in Humboldt County. She has won the famed Pikes Peak Marathon.

Currently she is in Germany as a member of America's national AAU women's marathon team.

SINCE THE AEROBICS program was initiated in September, 1972, she has supervised hundreds of voluntary joggers, cyclists and swimmers in the closely monitored activity and check-up program.

Each week day, at noon and again after work, groups assemble in Golden Gate Park to jog around Stow Lake under her direction.

In the meantime her own pulse has dropped to a resting reading of 45, and her dress size has gone down from 14 to 10. The smoking habit is long gone.

In the spring of 1973 Health Watch was expanded into Marin County.

IN CHARGE OF the Marin portion of Health Watch now is Kees Tuinzing, 27, born in Holland but a U.S. resident since age 7. His family moved to Mill Valley when he was 9 after a visit to an uncle living in Marin County had convinced them that the Bay Area was the place for them. The father, still living in Mill Valley, works for a manufacturing concern.

Kees attended Tamalpais High School, College of Marin and the University of California where part of his studies were taken at the Monterey Language School for a major in the Russian language.

"That was during the Sputnik era," he explains, "and everyone was thinking about Russia, Russians and the Russian language."

CONSEQUENTLY, YOUNG Tuinzing found the Russian-speaking field overloaded, "particularly around here where there is such a big Russian colony," and switched to physical education for his master's degree.

From an athletic family, he had participated in wrestling and tennis at Tamalpais High, engaged in weight training

"The time is appropriate for a different approach — that is the study of human health as the dynamic and integrated physical, physiological, chemical and psychological expression of the total man in his individual reaction to his unique environment. Only this basis can we understand the influences which are damaging and develop menthods for maintaining health." — Dr. George Z. Williams.

By MARIA WOODWARD

They do not look at all harmonious.

The ladies come in assorted sizes and shapes and their ages differ as widely as do their backgrounds and educations. But put them all together in a group doing the one thing they enjoy best and all outward differences disappear. They blend into a single unit, and the sound you hear is the sweetest music this side of the Marin County lines.

They are the Sweet Adelines, immortalized in song by the dashing lotharios of the Gay Nineties who used to harmonize on the good old tunes around a striped barber pole.

IN A FEMININE follow-up to that charming male custom, it is now the Adelines who cheerfully sound the pitch pipe, flex their vocal chords and launch into a lively rendition of "I'm Just Wild About Harry," or another favorite appropriately entitled, "If They Could See Me Now!" The ladies have indeed blazed a trail and no one could be more surprised than the founding fathers of male harmony, an organization known as The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America Inc."

The urge to blend voices in four-part harmony has spawned women's singing clubs throughout the country, dedicated to the cause of promoting barbershop style music.

The society was founded in Tulsa, Okla., by a group of women who felt that "barbershopping," a traditional form of musical expression once exercised exclusively by the American male, could be equally enjoyable and just as melodious when sung by female voices. The idea struck an immediate responsive chord as women from all parts of the country rallied to the musical cause. Quartet groups and choruses sprang up like mushrooms adopting clever and imaginative names appropriate to each region: the Chi-Larks from Chicago, the Sea-Adelines from Seattle, the Jazzabelles from San Francisco, and a fair weather group from Arizona also chimed in to call themselves the Sun-Cronizers.

TODAY, WITH CHAPTERS in 27 states and Canada, the Sweet Adelines claim international status and comprise an organization whose enthusiastic participants number well over 50,000 individual members from an original 40. If some casual male quartet out of the 1890s were to serenade today's Sweet Adeline, it would trigger a responsive chorus of monumental vibrations that would be felt from New Jersey to Pasadena.

The Marin Chapter of the Sweet Adelines, organized in May of 1955, seems to typify the spirit of friendliness and goodwill that has remained the trademark of every Sweet Adeline unit across the country.

"In this type of singing you conduct words rather than beats," says Martin Frick, director of Marin's Sweet Adelines. "The movement of sound should be horizontal and vertical rather than flowing."

Members of the local chapter meet each Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. for socializing and chorus rehearsal at St. Paul's Episcopal Church located at the corner of Mission and Court streets in San Rafael.

AS MEMBERS GATHER, the mood is easy and relaxed, but it soon becomes apparent that a serious purpose underlies the merely social aspects of the meeting. This purpose becomes clear when director Martin Frick takes over. It is his job to achieve that perfect balance of harmony and tone accuracy that produces the true barbershop sound.

The goal — a regional championship at the annual Sweet Adelines chorus competition where the group will be competing against similar choruses from all over Northern California, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Hawaii. It is a performance that will be judged not merely on the basis of singing quality but also on voice expression, harmony accuracy, song arrangement and stage presence.

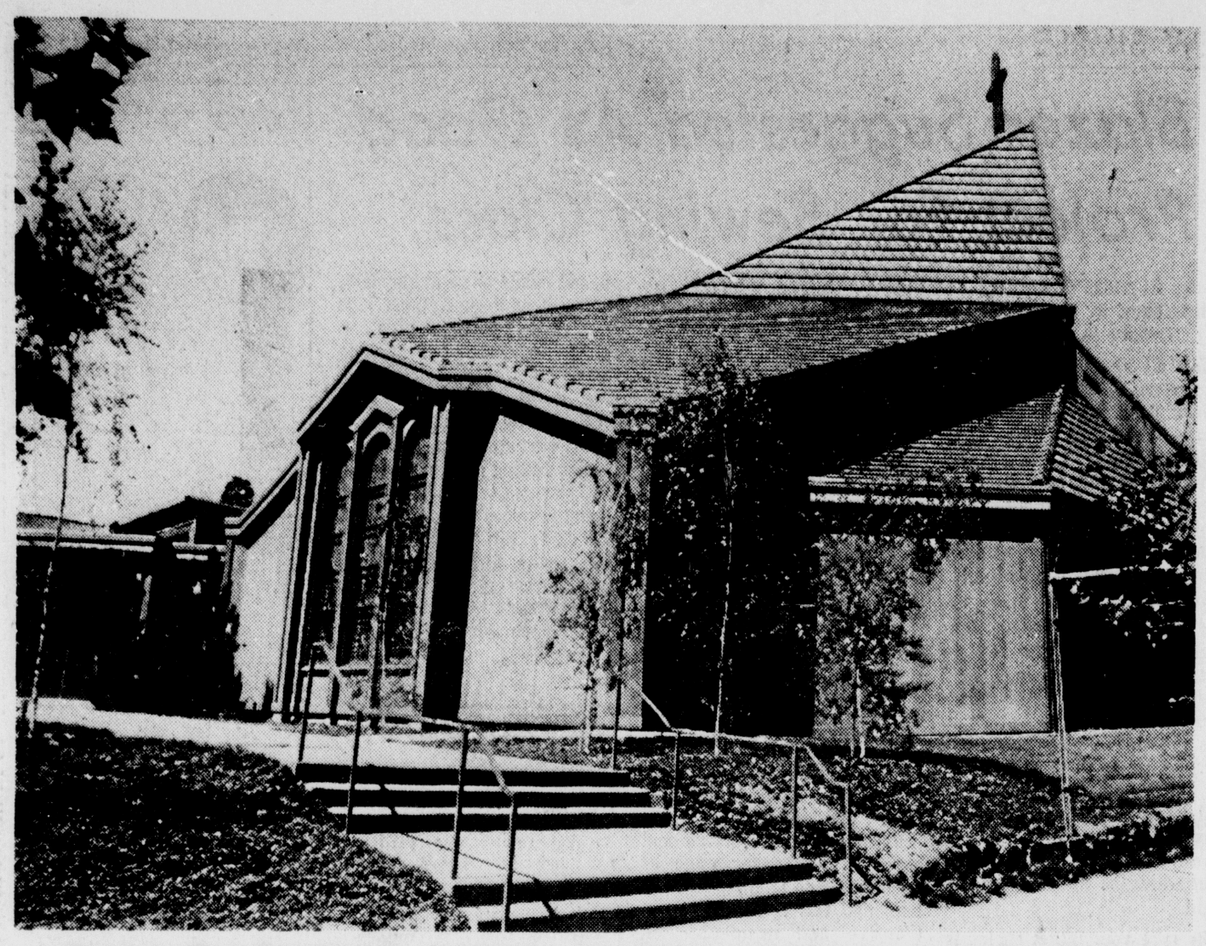

To this task director Frick brings a unique combination of talents ideally suited to the challenge.

HE HOLDS A bachelor of arts degree from Concordia College in Indiana where he sang lead in a male quartet that performed classical as well as barbershop harmony. His interests led him into

SAN RAFAEL'S FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

This modern wooden building now houses the congregation of The First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. The new building replaces the century-old church of native stone which was demolished because of earthquake danger. The Capt. Robert Dollar windows from the original church, installed in the 1930s were refurbished by the women of the church and installed in the present building.

RELIGION IN AMERICA

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

Dr. Oliver Harms, former president of the 2.8 million member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, has proposed a novel approach for resolving the theological dispute tearing the denomination apart.

Harms, in an address to the second assembly of Evangelical Lutherans in Mission (ELIM), the moderate wing of the church, proposed the calling of a "theological council" involving professors, clergy and laity of the synod.

At the heart of such a council would be a "theological confrontation" to determine whether or not the so-called historical-critical method of Scripture study could exist side-by-side with the literal method of Biblical interpretation.

It is exactly at that point that the denomination is so badly split —an issue that transcends the personalities and ecclesiastical politics.

Such a council, moderates reason, would bring together representatives of both factions within the synod and remove the stigma attached to the only forum so far presented for an airing of the issue —a hearing on false doctrine charges brought against Dr. John Tietjen, suspended president of Concordia Seminary.

Tietjen refused to attend the hearing, on the grounds that it would be a "charade" and would "offer no possibility of a fair and impartial judgment."

In its most simplistic formulation, the question dividing the church is whether the Bible can be interpreted symbolically or only literally.

Moderates within the synod, including a large majority of the former faculty of the church's prestigious Concordia Seminary, generally believe the former.

That is, they accept some aspects of the historical-critical method of Bible study which says that historians attempting to interpret the Bible must take seriously the so-called "human side" of its origins, and use, in part, the same scholarly tools an historian would use on other historical phenomenon.

The moderates hotly deny, however, that their acceptance of such methods in any way involves them in denying the Scripture as God's Word or that it separates them from the traditional Lutheran confession that the Bible is the cornerstone of faith.

"We need to be conscious of God's wrath over against the proud sins of all of us, in which we are intolerant of others and arrogant in our approach to God and his Word," Rev. Samuel J. Roth, ELIM president told the 1,400 moderates who gathered for the ELIM assembly.

Harms, who was defeated in an election for the synod presidency in 1969 by Dr. J.A.O. Preus, current president and leader of the conservative majority within the church, said the present situation in the church is so serious that such an action as the council was necessary if peace and reconciliation were ever to come to the church.

One possible input for the theological debate could be the church's Commission on Theology and Church Relations' comparative study on "varying contemporary approaches to Biblical interpretation" put together more than a year ago.

Moderates might not agree with the commission's description of the "radical" and "mediating" positions of the historical-critical view put together by the Commission. But if both sides come, as Harms suggested "with forgiveness in their hearts and Bibles in their hands," it might make such a debate reasonable rather than rancorous.

A Retired Engineer Heads For Priesthood

The retired English civil engineer says there is nothing extraordinary about it and that some even older men are studying for the pristhood. The college they go to is the Beda in Rome, which specializes in training older vocations. Beda students must be at least 24-25 years old and they normally have had other careers.

Bourne chatted between sessions of the convention here of Serra, the Chicago-based international organization of Roman Catholic laity that fosters recruiting for the priesthood. Bourne was ordained a deacon at the closing session. He hopes to be ordained a priest in Rome next Easter Monday.

He has had four children who have given him 18 grandchildren. A much-traveled man, he has worked in Malaysia, Singapore and Borneo on construction projects and was in Spain during the Civil War before World War II. He speaks fluent Spanish.

He lost his wife nine years ago when he was 58. He worked for two more years and then retired. He said:

"I had been doing voluntary work for Serra and I started to think I might recruit myself. I thought 'I have the experience which can be useful in helping people to try to get through this world.' Bishop Charles Grant of Northampton agreed to take me on. After my final ordination I will be assistant to a priest, who will certainly be younger than me. After that I hope to get a country parish for my old age. I have sold my flat in London and I will go where the Church sends me."

Bourne has spent three years at the Beda College, founded in 1852, and he will stay there until next Easter. Older men have to cram into four years the six-year course which is the minimum for young aspirants to the priesthood. The first two years they study philosophy and theology and the last two theology only. These subjects embrace liturgy, which is the form of worship; dogmatic theology, which is what theologians find out in their research and which is based on biblical studies; and homiletics, how to preach.

The Serra organization, founded in Seattle, Wash., in 1934 by a group of businessmen, is named after the Franciscan missionary from Majorca, Father Junipero Serra, who travelled to Mexico with Spanish troops in 1769 and evangelized California. Serra today has 330 clubs in 32 countries.

Jogging In Good Health For The Research Cause

By DON KEOWN

Health and medical research programs in this country have concentrated upon the ailing, and upon aiding the sick in surviving and recovering from their maladies.

But there is one program, with bases in Marin, that has a different slant.

Called "Health Watch," it is an Institute of Health Research-directed program that focusses upon the healthy, and which is concerned with the maintenance of their good health.

In Marin, you can see participants jogging about the tracks at College of Marin, Kentfield, and Tamalpais High School, Mill Valley, five days a week in the early morning hours.

THE PROGRAM IS two-pronged:

It is concerned with the role of aerobic exercise in the maintenance of good health — particularly cardiovascular fitness. And it maintains an on-going, regularly updated "health profile" of the participants through scientific tests, and using computers, thus building up a body of information that has been absent from the health picture in the past.

The program is largely the result of the theories of two men who have broken new and controversial ground in health thinking in this country. They are:

DR. KENNETH H. Cooper, physiologist, the developer of the "aerobics" physical fitness program that has won world-wide popularity and has been adopted as the official physical fitness regimens for the U.S. Air Force, the U.S. Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force. Dr. Cooper's definition of aerobics: "A variety of exercises that stimulate heart and lung activity for a time period sufficiently long to produce beneficial changes in the body." His program has been outlined in a series of best-selling books.

Dr. George Zur Williams, pathologist, who for 17 years was director of clinical pathology for the National Institutes of Health and who there led a team of scientists in discovering and proving the individuality of the biochemical make-up of each human being: "The finer characteristics of your biochemical and physiological state are as unique to you as your fingerprint."

In 1969 Dr. Williams founded the nonprofit Institute of Health Research, centered in San Francisco and with National Institutes of Health funding, with the intention of exploring just how these individual health profiles of man and woman can be defined and then used for the sustaining of good health.

ALREADY CONVINCED of the authenticity of Dr. Cooper's aerobics program (as a consultant he had recommended its adoption by the Air Force), Dr. Williams decided it should be closely correlated with his own ideas in the Institute of Health Research program.

He had his own private example to help persuade him.

A personal program of jogging in which he now runs two miles each morning, commutes to work by foot and ferry (entailing six-mile walks) and jogs five miles daily on weekends, had instilled in him a new feeling of vigor and a plunge in his cholesterol level from 250 to between 185 and 200.

At 21, the lithe blonde says, she smoked a pack of cigarettes a day and maintained a resting pulse of 80.

At age 30, following graduation from Harvard Medical School and the birth of two children, she took up running. Starting with a difficult one mile a day, she increased her range until she now, at 33, runs the 26 mile, 385 marathon course in three hours and 13 minutes.

Recognized as one of the top marathon running women in the country, she placed 13th among her sex in this year's Boston Marathon despite running with an injury, and three weeks later won the Avenue of the Giants Marathon in Humboldt County. She has won the famed Pikes Peak Marathon.

Currently she is in Germany as a member of America's national AAU women's marathon team.

SINCE THE AEROBICS program was initiated in September, 1972, she has supervised hundreds of voluntary joggers, cyclists and swimmers in the closely monitored activity and check-up program.

Each week day, at noon and again after work, groups assemble in Golden Gate Park to jog around Stow Lake under her direction.

In the meantime her own pulse has dropped to a resting reading of 45, and her dress size has gone down from 14 to 10. The smoking habit is long gone.

In the spring of 1973 Health Watch was expanded into Marin County.

IN CHARGE OF the Marin portion of Health Watch now is Kees Tuinzing, 27, born in Holland but a U.S. resident since age 7. His family moved to Mill Valley when he was 9 after a visit to an uncle living in Marin County had convinced them that the Bay Area was the place for them. The father, still living in Mill Valley, works for a manufacturing concern.

Kees attended Tamalpais High School, College of Marin and the University of California where part of his studies were taken at the Monterey Language School for a major in the Russian language.

"That was during the Sputnik era," he explains, "and everyone was thinking about Russia, Russians and the Russian language."

CONSEQUENTLY, YOUNG Tuinzing found the Russian-speaking field overloaded, "particularly around here where there is such a big Russian colony," and switched to physical education for his master's degree.

From an athletic family, he had participated in wrestling and tennis at Tamalpais High, engaged in weight training

"The time is appropriate for a different approach — that is the study of human health as the dynamic and integrated physical, physiological, chemical and psychological expression of the total man in his individual reaction to his unique environment. Only this basis can we understand the influences which are damaging and develop menthods for maintaining health." — Dr. George Z. Williams.

By MARIA WOODWARD

They do not look at all harmonious.

The ladies come in assorted sizes and shapes and their ages differ as widely as do their backgrounds and educations. But put them all together in a group doing the one thing they enjoy best and all outward differences disappear. They blend into a single unit, and the sound you hear is the sweetest music this side of the Marin County lines.

They are the Sweet Adelines, immortalized in song by the dashing lotharios of the Gay Nineties who used to harmonize on the good old tunes around a striped barber pole.

IN A FEMININE follow-up to that charming male custom, it is now the Adelines who cheerfully sound the pitch pipe, flex their vocal chords and launch into a lively rendition of "I'm Just Wild About Harry," or another favorite appropriately entitled, "If They Could See Me Now!" The ladies have indeed blazed a trail and no one could be more surprised than the founding fathers of male harmony, an organization known as The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America Inc."

The urge to blend voices in four-part harmony has spawned women's singing clubs throughout the country, dedicated to the cause of promoting barbershop style music.

The society was founded in Tulsa, Okla., by a group of women who felt that "barbershopping," a traditional form of musical expression once exercised exclusively by the American male, could be equally enjoyable and just as melodious when sung by female voices. The idea struck an immediate responsive chord as women from all parts of the country rallied to the musical cause. Quartet groups and choruses sprang up like mushrooms adopting clever and imaginative names appropriate to each region: the Chi-Larks from Chicago, the Sea-Adelines from Seattle, the Jazzabelles from San Francisco, and a fair weather group from Arizona also chimed in to call themselves the Sun-Cronizers.

TODAY, WITH CHAPTERS in 27 states and Canada, the Sweet Adelines claim international status and comprise an organization whose enthusiastic participants number well over 50,000 individual members from an original 40. If some casual male quartet out of the 1890s were to serenade today's Sweet Adeline, it would trigger a responsive chorus of monumental vibrations that would be felt from New Jersey to Pasadena.

The Marin Chapter of the Sweet Adelines, organized in May of 1955, seems to typify the spirit of friendliness and goodwill that has remained the trademark of every Sweet Adeline unit across the country.

"In this type of singing you conduct words rather than beats," says Martin Frick, director of Marin's Sweet Adelines. "The movement of sound should be horizontal and vertical rather than flowing."

Members of the local chapter meet each Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. for socializing and chorus rehearsal at St. Paul's Episcopal Church located at the corner of Mission and Court streets in San Rafael.

AS MEMBERS GATHER, the mood is easy and relaxed, but it soon becomes apparent that a serious purpose underlies the merely social aspects of the meeting. This purpose becomes clear when director Martin Frick takes over. It is his job to achieve that perfect balance of harmony and tone accuracy that produces the true barbershop sound.

The goal — a regional championship at the annual Sweet Adelines chorus competition where the group will be competing against similar choruses from all over Northern California, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Hawaii. It is a performance that will be judged not merely on the basis of singing quality but also on voice expression, harmony accuracy, song arrangement and stage presence.

To this task director Frick brings a unique combination of talents ideally suited to the challenge.

HE HOLDS A bachelor of arts degree from Concordia College in Indiana where he sang lead in a male quartet that performed classical as well as barbershop harmony. His interests led him into

Research Program Concentrates Upon Healthy, And Keeping Them That Way

Now, emerging in June of last year with his master's, he seized the opportunity to join Dr. Ullyot in the aerobics portion of the Institute of Health Research program supported by the National Institutes of Health.

TUINZING SUPERVISES groups that meet and jog at the College of Marin track from 6:30 to 8 a.m. and at the Tamalpais High School track from 8:30 to 10 a.m., using facilities contributed by the schools. He then travels to San Francisco and Golden Gate Park where he assists Dr. Ullyot with her noon hour and her 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. groups.

Finally, there is an evening group, starting at 7 o'clock, at Pacifica.

"I put in a full day," Tuinzing admits.

There are, he says, usually from 10 to 20 participants at a session, "although we could easily accommodate 100." Thus there is a need for more enrollees in the research program. Registrants can begin their participation either by reporting at the college or Tamalpais High School athletic fields to Tuinzing at one of the sessions, or checking in at the Institute of Health Research headquarters at 2472 Clay Street, Institute of Medical Sciences, Pacific Medical Center, San Francisco.

The mailing address is Post Office Box 7999.

ALONG WITH THE federal support via the National Institutes of Health, a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare agency, the program receives financial assistance from foundations and from private donors. There is no fee charged the participants, but they sometimes choose to make contributions.

To be eligible for the program a participant must be 18 or older, feeling well, with no chronic disease and taking no medication, without a drug or alcohol problem and with no physical or blood chemistry abnormalities. And not under a physician's care for any reason.

"It is a research, not a rehabilitation, program," Tuinzing emphasizes.

"The finer characteristics of your biochemical and physiological state are as unique to you as your fingerprint. This 'Body-Print' is formed by your specific genetic inheritance, environment and life style. If a number of Body-Prints are precisely measured over a period of good health, a profile of your unique health characteristics is formed. This will serve as your personal guideline for detecting unhealthy trends in any future test results." — Institute of Health Research.

With the first contact, a blood sample is taken and a health history form is filled out. The applicant is then given an appointment with an Institute of Health Research staff doctor for a physical examination.

Included in that examination is an electrocardiogram reading as well as cholesterol level, pulse rate and blood pressure readings.

If the personal or staff physician so recommends, both a resting and a stress (on treadmill) EKG reading is taken.

ONCE THE PERSON passes this screening program and has proven his or her good physical and cardiovascular health, there is the matter of establishing his or her health profile. This is done through a series of blood samples, six in all, taken twice a week over a three week period. Some wait until the completion of the series to begin their aerobic workouts, others start jogging during the three weeks.

At the end of 10 weeks of jogging, the man or woman submits to blood pressure and pulse readings and to another series of blood samples.

This, Tuinzing says, is because the 10-week period has been determined to be the time necessary for significant biochemical changes — hopefully, and as it has been almost invariably, for the better.

ONCE DURING THIS 10-week period Tuinzing conducts the Cooper-developed mile and a half run fitness test to determine the participant's pulse and blood pressure recovery rates.

A second such test is part of the end-of-the-10-weeks check-up. These tests provide a measurement of the body's ability to process oxygen under stress.

After this, the participant is encouraged to continue with a regular aerobic exercise program, but the check-ups come less frequently — generally once or twice a year, depending upon age and other factors.

Kees Tuinzing points out that the jogging does not necessarily have to be done with the College of Marin or Tamalpais High School groups. The Health Watch participant can choose his or her own place to jog, as long as he or she is willing to commit himself or herself to regular exercise, and to report for the tests regularly. Tuinzing's own wife, Sandra, prefers to jog on Mount Tamalpais' trails.

ALSO ELIGIBLE are exponents of other aerobic exercises such as cyclists and swimmers.

Tuinzing has been working with the Marin Cyclists Club in testing the results of their endurance rides.

He eyes eagerly Marin's several swim clubs as a possible source of valuable information, although noting that the 18-year age limit would no doubt exclude the bulk of the competitive swimmers in the county.

AT THE JOGGING tracks Tuinzing says his duties break down into two principal components:

1. To offer guidance and advice to beginning joggers. "After they have had some experience, they can pretty well be their own coaches."
2. And to supervise the testing.

SOME OF HIS advice for beginning joggers:

1. For both information and inspiration, read the books "Beginning Running" and "The New Aerobics" by Dr. Kenneth Cooper, both of which the Institute has available.
2. "Get yourself a pair of good running shoes such as Addidas SL-72, Addidas Country, Nike Cortez, Puma 9190 or Montreal '76. A good distance running shoe should have good arch support, heel cup and adequate heel cushioning. Tennis shoes make poor running shoes for they offer no support."
3. Don't wear tight, binding clothing. And don't wear any rubberized clothing that will prevent evaporation of perspiration.
4. Don't eat an hour or two prior to jogging.
5. Begin your jogging program with a one-mile distance, even if you find it necessary to walk periodically. Run as fast as you can while talking. This helps to prevent overstrain during early training and is a reason why it is best to run with groups or friends, so as to provide an opportunity to converse.
6. Run in a heel-to-toe or relatively flat-footed style — not on your toes.
7. Learn abdominal breathing while jogging in a relaxed manner.
8. Emphasize distance, not speed, and be consistent — jog four or five days a week.
9. In your jogging, stretching is important for keeping running muscles loose because the activity can reduce flexibility. Flexibility exercises, such as yoga, can aid in reducing the chances of injury and stiffness.
10. Think in terms of weeks and months, and don't rush things. Give your feet, legs and "wind" time to become conditioned. And don't compare your progress to others. "Everyone progresses at a different rate."
11. If you feel fatigued on a particular day, jog less than usual. "Listen to your body."

THOSE, AND OTHER tips which he gives novice joggers, are based upon his own experience and observations, and upon his work with Dr. Ullyot and others involved in the Health Watch program, as well as his studies of the Cooper books, Tuinzing says.

His relatively brief involvement in jogging has brought Tuinzing, like Dr. Ullyot, into marathon running, and has caused some major physical changes of his own.

He covered the Boston Marathon course this year in three hours and 10 minutes for 869th place in a field of more than 2,000.

The weight on his five-foot, 11-inch frame has dropped from 195 pounds to a trim, muscular 175 pounds.

"EVERY MAN I'VE had in our jogging programs has lost 10 to 20 pounds," he sayd. "In addition, their pulse rates and their blood pressure have both dropped."

A lowering of cholesterol level is another consistent result of a regular aerobics program, he adds.

For those who might be somewhat overweight, and ask for dietary advice to go along with the exercise program, Tuinzing suggests a diet that eliminates "the junk food" and focuses upon balanced menus with a reduction in size of the portions.

"We don't believe in the Atkins diet," he says. And adds: "Our principle is that one should eat to live, not live to eat."

THE KEY POINT in the Health Watch program, Tuinzing says, is that in the past for most men and women samples and tests were taken at best on a once-a-year annual physical examination basis. And the results were compared to a broad spectrum of the "none-sick" population from whose performances averages were obtained and designated as "normal." But very often these "non-sick" are for from being in an optimum state of fitness.

Dr. George Z. Williams, age 67, pulse 56, says: "The medical profession says a resting pulse between 70 and 90 is normal. But we're looking for a more vigorous definition of health."

Adds Dr. Ullyot: "If anyone has a pulse over 60 I say you may be healthy, but you're not fit."

And Dr. Cooper: "A conditioned man, who exercises regularly,will have a resting heart rate of about 60 beats per minute or less. A de-conditioned man who does not exercise may have a rate of about 80 ore more . . . Anyone with a pulse in the 55 to 70 range is safe."

BUT THE IMPORTANCE of the Health Profile for the individual as built up by the periodic, regular testing of the Health Watch program is that it will enable physicians to detect deviations from the individual's own personal range — be it pulse, cholesterol level, calcium content, weight, blood pressure, body fat, etc. — rather than measuring him against a "norm" that may or may not be applicable to this individual, based as those figures are upon the data obtained from others.

"The medical profession thinks a cholesterol count of 250 is acceptable," Dr. Williams notes, by way of another example. "But we're finding the healthiest people have cholesterol counts below 200."

The commonly-held dislief that wide "normal ranges" based on the general population's chemical values are sufficiently accurate to determine an individual's state of vitality has been proven invalid, Health Watch contends.

AND ADDS: "NOW personal health patterns can be precisely defined and monitored so that trends foreshadowing the first stages of poor health can be detected and often reversed before any detrimental changes become permanent or lead to diagnosable disease."

That, and the relationship of aerobic exercise, carefully applied so as not to exceed the capabilities of the individual, are the exciting prospects that the Institute of Health Research and its Health Watch program hold forth.

Already it can cite such "success stories" as podiatrist Dr. Harry Hlavac who began the program at age 30 weighing 195 pounds and with a resting pulse of 76 and a blood pressure of 140/110 and found the running of a mile an exhausting effort. In months he was running 15 to 20 miles a week, weighing 170 pounds, with a resting pulse between 45 and 60 and a blood pressure of 126/90.

"I HAVE SO much more energy during the day," he said. "I'm not a smoker, but jogging has cut down my consumption of food and alcohol."

Health Watch officials also point to such studies as a three-year survey by Health Insurance Plan of New York, covering 110,000 people, and showing that physically active men had only half the number of heart attacks of inactive men. And that the most active men had only one-eighth the number of deaths from heart attacks of the sedentary.

They tell of men who have lowered their blood pressure by jogging and have thus been able to give up medication they formerly took for that purpose.

AND, SAYS DR. Ullyot, "most of our runners give up smoking. They don't need it anymore. Smoking is a physical addiction framed on psychological need. Running minimizes both of these. It gives you the same surge of adrenalin you get from cigarets. It's a way of releasing tension."

They are aware that some doctors disagree vehemently with the advisability of jogging and other taxing exercise, particularly for men and women past 35.

But Dr. Cooper in reply to those who cite instances of men who have suffered fatal heart attacks while jogging says: "I found they are usually over 40, in their first six weeks of jogging, and with no medical clearance before starting to exercise."

CAREFUL MEDICAL screening and a sensible supervision of the jogging habits of beginners eliminate the hazard, or at least reduce it to a far less dangerous factor than the alternative of inactivity, Health Watch claims.

Dr. Ullyot stresses: "Running should not put pressure on you. It should be a way of relaxing. Concentrating upon the time syndrome — how fast you're going — leads to anxiety, boredom, excessive competitiveness."

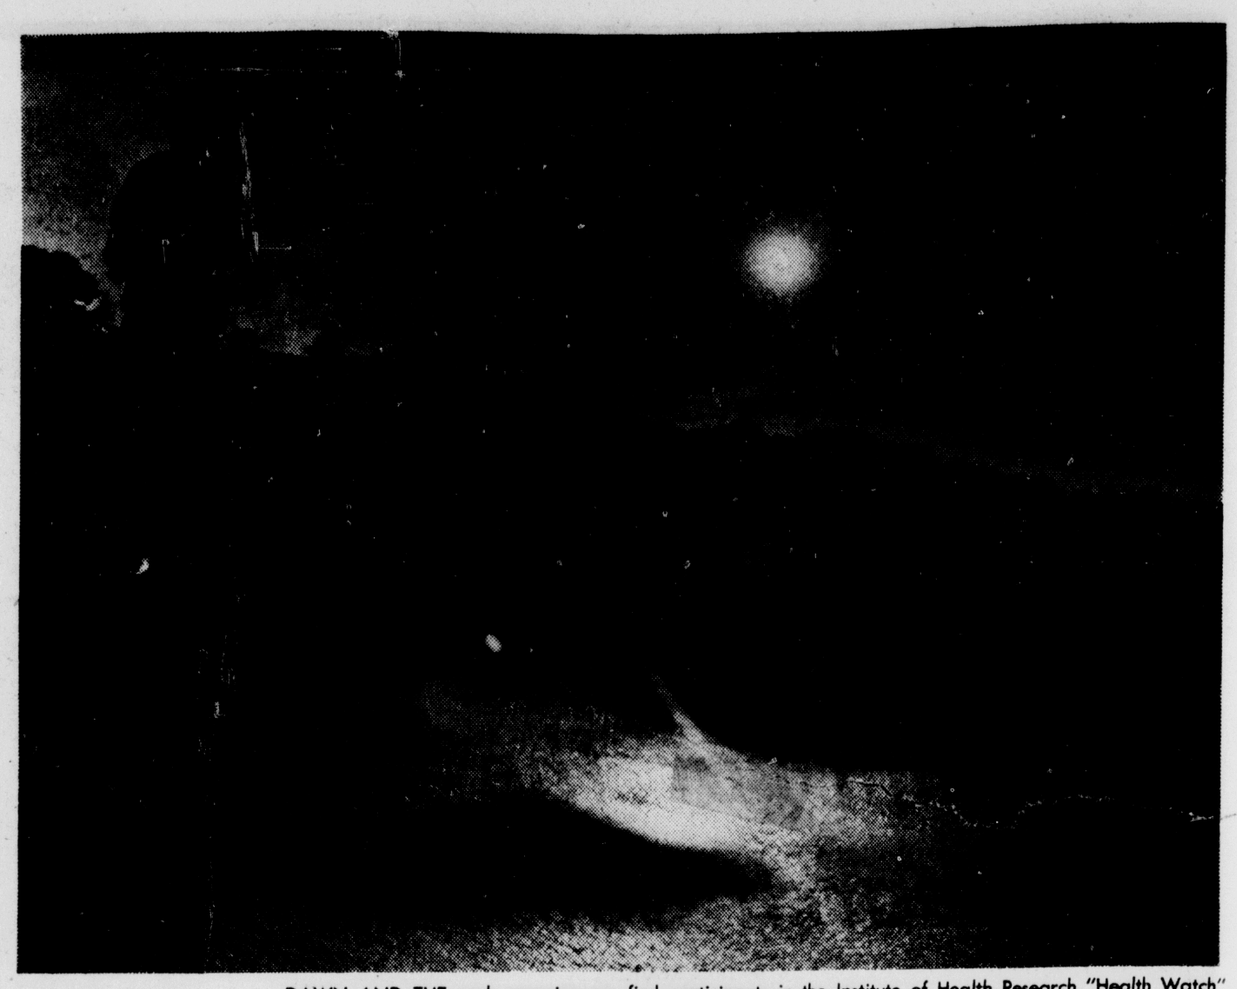

Beginners should build up their aerobic activity at a gradual and reasonable rate.

But, insist the Health Watch leadership corps, everyone can benefit from a degree of aerobic exercise within his or her capability.

"THERE IS NO question about it, but that the Swedes are the world leaders in exercise physiology research," says Kees Tuinzing. "We are only starting, and we are at least two to five years behind them."

But Health Watch represents a very good start, he believes.

And if participation continues to grow, Americans may yet someday rank near the top in the vital matter of cardiovascular health. The doors are wide open, providing you are healthy and capable of mustering the discipline and energy.

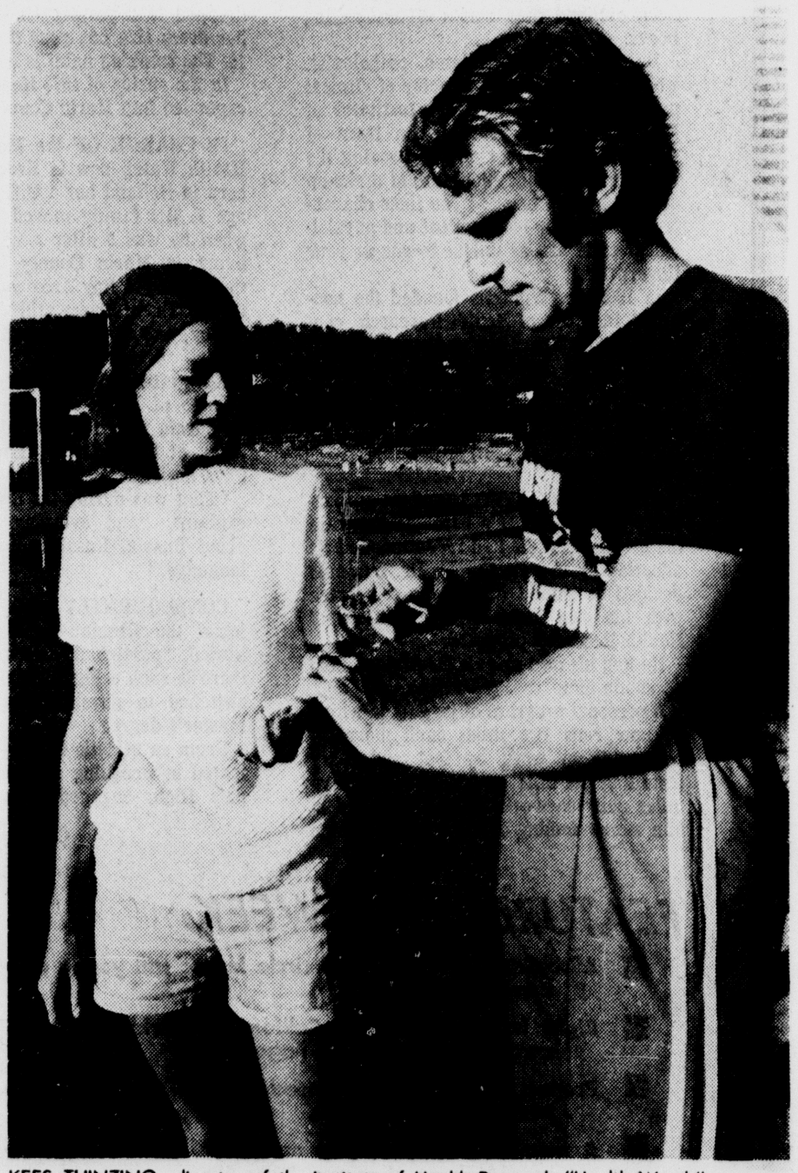

DAWN AND THE early morning sun find participants in the Institute of Health Research "Health Watch" program of aerobic exercises and health profile analysis already jogging on the College of Marin track at Kentfield. The program, for which the college donates its facilities as a public service, begins five days a week at 6:30 a.m. Then director Kees Tuinzing moves on to Miil Valley and the Tamalpais High School athletic field where another jogging session starts at 8:30 a.m.

(Photos by Ty Barbour)

NOW THE SUN IS shining strongly overhead, and the pace of "Health Watch" activity on the College of Marin track has picked up. Steven Zager rounds a curve on the track, while two other jogger-runners approach the bend. Turnouts for the daily sessions generally number between 10 and 20, and there is plenty of room for additional participants, providing they can meet the strict "good health" standards that have been set for the pioneering research program.

KEES TUINZING, director of the Institute of Health Research "Health Watch" program in Marin County, takes the pulse of Susie Buck after she has completed a one-mile jog. At the outset, it took Susie 19 minutes and 12 seconds to complete a mile. She now covers the distance in 11 minutes 15 seconds, without over-exertion.

"IT DOESN'T HURT me at all," brave little Kriste Johnson, 4, seems to be saying as she watches Institute of Health Research nurse Helen Labrie draw a blood sample from the arm of her mother, Bea Johnson. It is part of the strict screening process applicants must undergo before they are admitted to the "Health Watch" program of aerobics and close cardiovascular monitoring.

PROFILE OF A MARINITE

Alice Stuart Has Learned To Believe

"Yeah, I'm hyper," admits dynamic Alice Stuart. "It's my Gemini nature. I always like to be doing several things at a time. And I understand myself a lot more since I started reading serious books about astrology. It's really helped me."

By GEORGE NEVIN

I was just giving
So I might receive.
Now it's all changing
I've learned to believe.
Believe in someone
Who holds the key.
I believe in my someone
Who's in love with me.

("Believe in Someone," Copyright 1970, Alice Stuart and Fantasy Records.)

In the beginning, back in grade school in tiny Chelan, Wash., there was Alice Stuart — a little plump, a little introverted and as self-conscious as could be.

"I always felt like I had spinach in my teeth," says Alice. "For years I never believed people when they said they liked me.

"I was very plain. If I walked up to someone and said I did something, they wouldn't believe me."

ALICE IS SPRAWLED on a low couch in the cluttered living room of her Woodacre home, reflecting on the succession of events that has brought her to Marin and the brink of rock and roll stardom.

And she's poking around on the edges of the dominant theme in her life — a see-saw battle between inner self-doubt and self-assuredness.

The self-doubt and the need for reinforcement from others comes across loud and clear in "Believe in Someone," the title cut from her most recent album, "Believing."

HER CHAOTIC CHILDHOOD was spent in an emotional maelstrom, at the mercy of the powerful winds of self-doubt.

Those winds have been getting weaker of late, ever since Alice discovered rock and roll, moved to Marin and let her songwriting talent fly.

A gentle breeze of uncertainty still comes up once in a while, but it's never strong enough to push her off her steady course upward through the musical ranks.

The only thing wrong in her early life, she now thinks, "was who I was brought up with — my aunt."

A PSYCHIATRIC PATIENT at 7, she was put on a steady diet of depressants.

"I lost about four or five emotional years through all those downers."

In those confusing years, Alice had no one to turn to, nothing to treasure — except her music.

As she tells it, "I was harmonizing before I could talk. I insisted on taking piano lessons at 5 and I was writing songs before I was 13, and playing classical piano and drums."

THERE WAS NEVER a doubt in her head, in those early years, but that she would become a musician one day.

Well, world, Alice Stuart — all 95 pounds and five feet, five inches of her — is here to tell you she's made it.

If all a musician had to do was get rave reviews and rest on her laurels, Alice could retire right now.

"She has the advantage of being incomparable," says Andrew Means in Melody Maker.

PHILIP ELWOOD OF the San Francisco Examiner agrees: "Alice's voice is now the best in the Bay Area folk-rock field."

Flattering words, certainly, and from the heart. But Alice has no intention of coasting on the wheels of her three albums and some enamored critics.

From her Woodacre digs, the frizzy-haired rock and roll singer has been making almost nightly forays to Bay Area music clubs.

OFTEN WORKING FIVE nights a week and sometimes seven, the Alice Stuart Band — which includes Karl Sevareid on bass, Larry Martin on drums and Jon Detherage on keyboard — is in a holding pattern, between recording contracts.

In a paradoxical way Alice's now-terminated affiliation with Fantasy Records of Berkeley has been both her big break and very nearly her professional demise.

Alice Stuart was very much a folksinger when, in 1969, somebody from Fantasy caught her act and called her in for an audition.

TO UNDERSTAND WHAT happened next, Alice harks us back to the days right after her high school graduation in Chelan, when her mother gave her a baritone ukelele and thus introduced her to the mysteries of stringed instruments.

She drifted to Seattle and the coffee-house scene — "The beatnik era, y'know, black turtlenecks" — but when the cool crowd laughed at her ukelele, she switched to a "very, very, very cheap guitar, about a $20 guitar."

She even cut a folk record — "All the Good Times."

So when the Fantasy representative heard her, it was a folk artist he heard.

"They heard me doing other people's songs but they said, 'No, we want you to do your own numbers.' "

SO SHE DUSTED off the old songs and went hunting for a band to help her play them

"I had been trying to get an electric band together for a few years, but this (recording contract) came along, and that's when a direction really became apparent."

Her first Fantasy album, "Full Time Woman," took a year to make, and in that year Alice made the transition from folkie to folk-rocker.

Soon she was discovering what she suspected all along but needed reinforcement for — that her songs were good.

BUT IF THE Fantasy experience gave her ego — which was about as frail as her now-skinny body — a crucial boost, it also worked against her at the same time.

For some reason, Fantasy had the notion that it didn't have to promote Alice.

She has a ready explanation: "Before Creedence Clearwater Revival (Fantasy's hottest-ever group), Fantasy just had jazz artists.

"Jazz is a steady seller. It doesn't need to be promoted. And Creedence just took off without any help from Fantasy."

SO THE THOUGHT of promoting a softer talent like Alice apparently never entered the corporate consciousness of the Berkeley company.

This oversight was completely consistent with a series of goofs by Fantasy, which turned down such greats as Johnny Mathis, Joan Baez and the Byrds when they were just getting started.

"One of my problems was that my records were never available," she says.

"We would go on tour, but people who liked what they heard would go to their local record stores and my records wouldn't be stocked."

AFTER HER THIRD and latest album, "Believing," Alice won release from Fantasy. She has a lot of new material but none of it will see a recording studio until she signs with another company.

Meanwhile, frequent gigs in the Bay Area have kept the bill collectors from the door, and the incorporation of Alice Stuart Productions has given Alice and her three sidemen a tax break and some financial breathing room.

And she's still writing songs.

"I've always been good at writing ballads," she confesses, "but it's also getting easier to write funk tunes, because I'm starting to understand them better."

COUNTRY FUNK, IN fact, might be a good description of the modern Alice Stuart.

"I love country music and I could have gone into it completely. As it is, everything I do has country running through it."

Her voice has been variously described as haunting, piercing, clear and sexy.

It's all of that, but what's more, it changes from song to song and day to day.

IT'S NEVER RAUNCHY, but it can be raw and biting. Mostly, though, it's pure and without waver, a sort of little girl's voice.

Early on in her folk career, she says, seeing people stare at her while she sang made her tongue freeze in her mouth.

FOR TWO YEARS in the mid-1960s, says Alice, she had to stop performing because all those listeners without anything else to do with their eyes made her "extremely nervous and weirded out."

But when she switched to an electric sound and rock songs, the people stopped looking and started dancing.

ALICE IS AN easy person to talk to — for those who find it easy to follow the action in a tennis match.

"Yeah, I'm hyper," she admits as she jumps up to tend a pot of tea on the stove.

It's her Gemini nature, she yells from the kitchen. "I always like to be doing several things at a time."

Alice confesses that she is an avid follower of astrology.

"I UNDERSTAND MYSELF a lot more since I started reading serious books about astrology. It's really helped me," she says on her return with the teapot.

To her Gemini nature she also attributes the fact that she never paused to reaize how unique it is to be a woman fronting an otherwise all-male band, and playing lead guitar to boot.

"It never occurred to me there was anything weird about it," she says. "But a lot of people mention it, so they must think so."

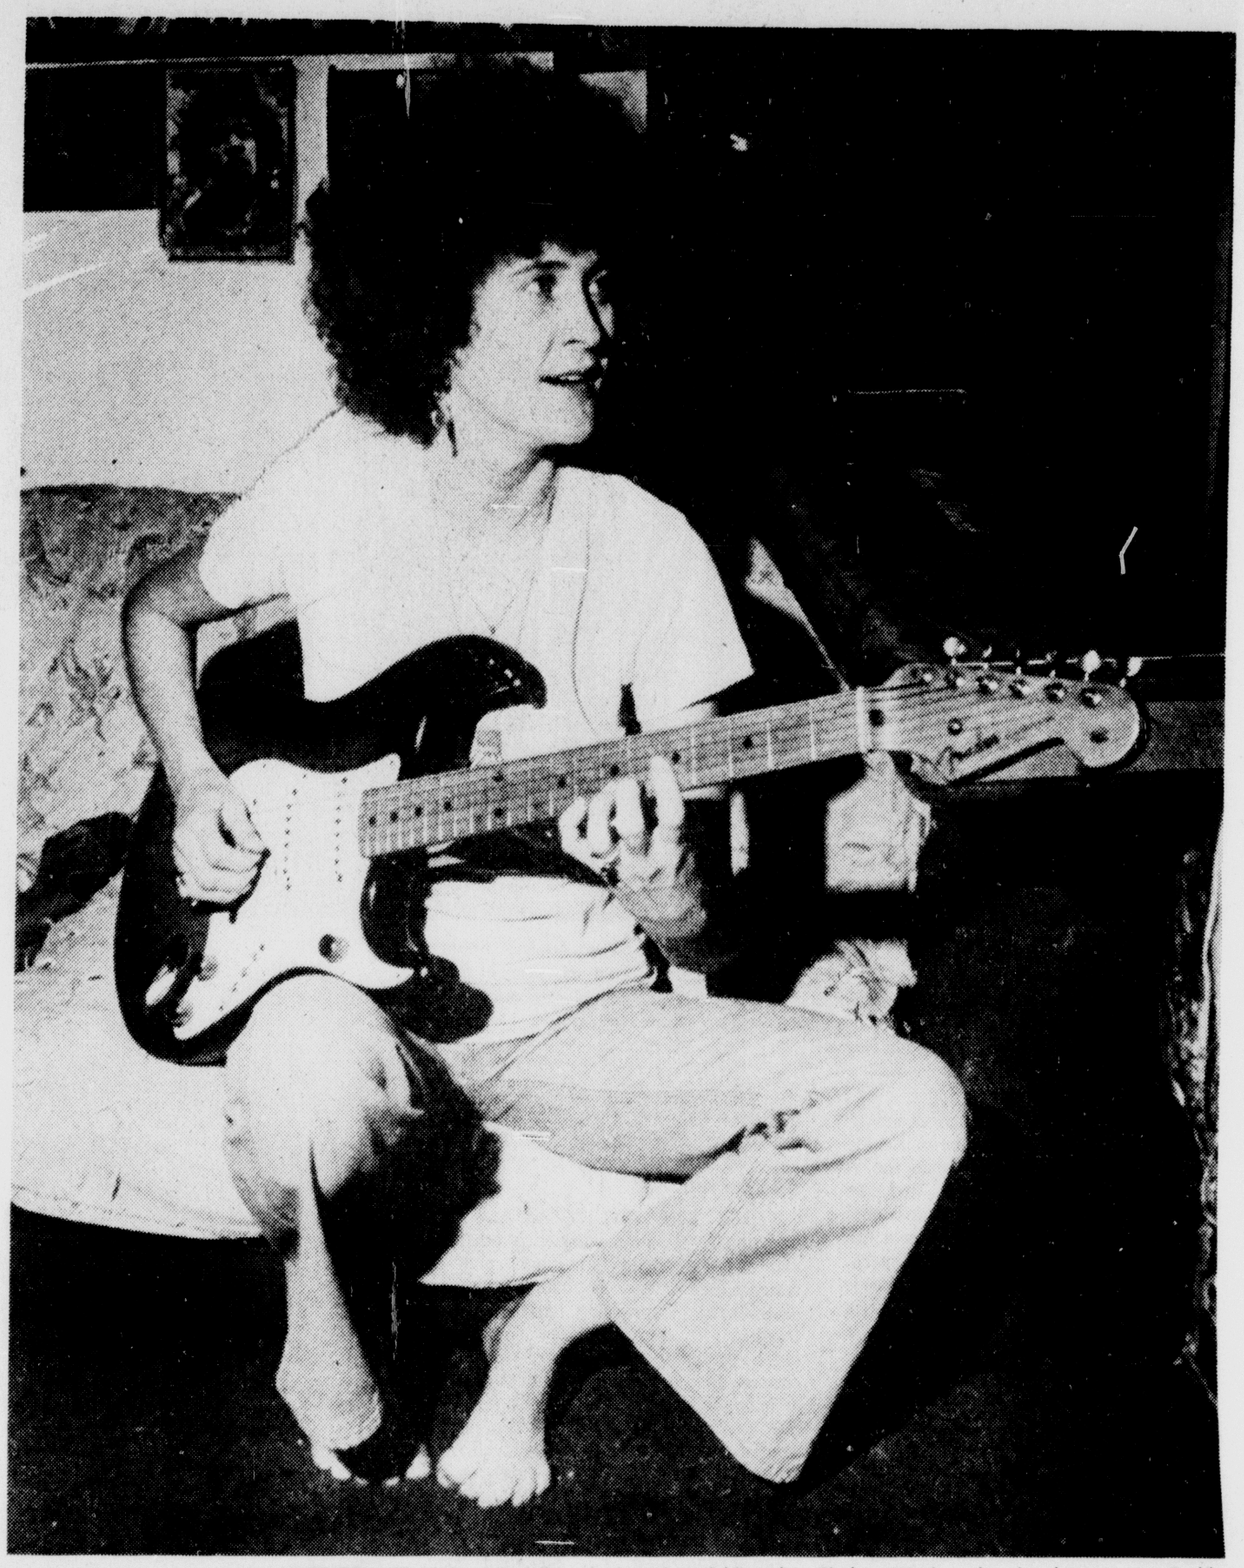

THOUGH ALICE HAS received a lot of recognition locally, the accolades don't seem to be going to her head.

"I'm not a music elitist. I hate people who are on that trip."

She also doesn't appreciate people "who try to tell me how to do things they don't know anything about. You'd be surprised how many folks will tell you all about why you're not making it."

Making it, as it turns out, isn't Alice Stuart's worry. She's sure success, in a big way, isn't far off. And with that success, she hopes, will come financial security — and more more thing.

"I need a wife — or at least, someone to do the things a wife would do — cook, keep house and organize things while I work."

ALICE STUART HAS come full circle from her childhood in Chelan, Wash., when her heroes were Buddy Holly and Chuck Berry and where she wrote pop songs. After years as a folk singer, Alice has re-entered the pop world, now matured to rock and roll, and is making the rounds of small Bay Area clubs.

Wine Pressings

by ALFRED LOVI

In 1917, Anna Held made national headlines when she visited the Paul Masson Vineyards in Saratoga, California and reportedly asked for a bath in Champagne.

Anna Held was a wasp-waisted Ziegfeld actress who normally bathed in milk, (or so she said), but apparently she preferred Champagne if it was available.

Some writers have suggested that the incident was merely the figment of a publicity agent's imagination, but an old Frenchman who used to work at the winery was interviewed some years back and he claimed that he had witnessed the entire event. He did say, however, that the bath did not involve a whole tub full of Champagne.

He recalled that Monsieur Masson had asked him to put a jeroboam of Champagne in the sun and that when time for the bath arrived, Monsieur Masson shook the bottle well, pulled the cork and held his finger over the top of the bottle as the sparkling liquid squirted all over Miss Held.

With typical Victorian modesty, he did not relate in what state of dress or undress the lady was at the time of the occurence. With typical French elan, his single comment was "Magnifique!"

Whether it is used for bathing or drinking, Champagne has always had a reputation for being the most romantic of all wines. The next time you want to add a touch of romance to your life, why not pick up a bottle of Champagne at THE VILLA WINE CELLAR? We are located in San Rafael at 2138 Fourth Street. 456-0566.

Marin's Sweet Adelines Show 'Barbershopping' Isn't Exclusively Male

the dramatic arts and a trip to Europe provided the opportunity to study pantomime under the tutelage of the Polish mime Henryk Tomaszewski. Dramatic training with the Toronto Actor's Studio resulted in acting and singing assignments on CBC radio in Canada and television shows in New York and the Midwest.

Locally Frick has directed numerous choral groups in Marin County and has staged operas for the Opera Workshop at Dominican College in San Rafael where he recently completed studies toward a master's degree in music performance.

As music director of the Sweet Adelines, he brings the full scope of his directorial talents into play and strives for a unity and professionalism that is not unlike the developing of a full-scale production. Drawing heavily on his dramatic training and acting experience, he stresses the importance of expressive diction and precision in executing "attacks" and "releases," which are barbershop language for starting and ending phrases.

"IN THIS TYPE of singing you conduct words rather than beats," he explains. "The movement of sound should be horizontal and vertical rather than flowing."

Barbershop harmony is produced by four voices: tenor, lead, baritone and bass, with the bass forming the foundation to the chord structure. The voices perform without musical accompaniment and the melody must be sung below the tenor harmony part.

There is at least one harmonizing chord on each note of the melody. Sometimes there are several chords on each melody note and these are called "swipes." The freedom to use various swipes for a single word utilizing half tones or "barbershop sevenths" makes the style of singing unique and produces the beautiful close harmony that is like no other.

Like so many other technicians, Frick occasionally runs into shortages that complicate his work.

"GOOD TENOR VOICES are hard to find," he says. "The ideal tenor tone should be light and thin. It is the highest voice in barbershop harmony and it should be pure without overpowering the lead which carries the melody."

For women who associate bass singers and baritones with their male counterparts, it should be pointed out that the ladies sing these parts in a range an octave higher than that written for the deeper male voice. But technical complexities need not concern those who simply enjoy gathering around a piano for an evening of song and good fellowship.

As director Frick points out: "The fun of barbershopping is that it requires no professional training. Anyone with an average singing voice is always welcome. I prefer an untrained voice because it has a better blending quality.

"Badly trained voices sometimes develop a low tremolo that can ruin a good chorus."

THIS FRIENDLY CALL for amiable ladies of average singing ability and a capacity for enjoying good social fun is an invitation that has attracted women from all walks of life. One of these is Jan Vass, president of the Marin chapter.

Jan, a pretty, working mother of three, is an executive secretary for a real estate and property management firm. But her heart belongs to the Sweet Adelines and she is wholly dedicated to promoting what she considers to be "just about the greatest bunch of gals there is."

When travel takes her to a new city, one of her first moves is to contact the local Sweet Adelines chapter. The result — instant friendship and a warm welcome.

ANOTHER MEMBER OF the group is Sister Colleen Kern, former principal of St. Anselm's School in San Anselmo, who finds a special kind of relaxation that offsets the daily demands of parochial school education and administrative duties.

"I've always enjoyed harmonizing," says Sister Colleen, who also plays the guitar. "As a girl, I sang with my family around the piano each evening, and so I felt immediately at home with this warm, friendly group."

Chris Erickson, long-time member and past president of the group, is a vivacious brunette and veteran of many Sweet Adeline musical shows in which she starred with KGO's Karna Small, a former harmony queen. Chris is the daughter of a yachting family, but admits she gets more satisfaction from "ringing a chord" than snagging a salmon from aboard the family's fishing boat.

EACH YEAR THE Marin chapter selects from its ranks the member whose individual efforts have done the most to promote the spirit of harmony and goodwill for the group as a whole. This year's Sweet Adeline of the Year is a curvaceous "baritone" by the name of Lucille Steele, a lady who looks as if she is having the time of her life, and she usually is. One of the few professional singers in the group, Lucille has a full mellow voice that was trained for opera. However, she chose a show business career and starred in a nightclub act in which she was billed as The Girl of a Thousand Voices.

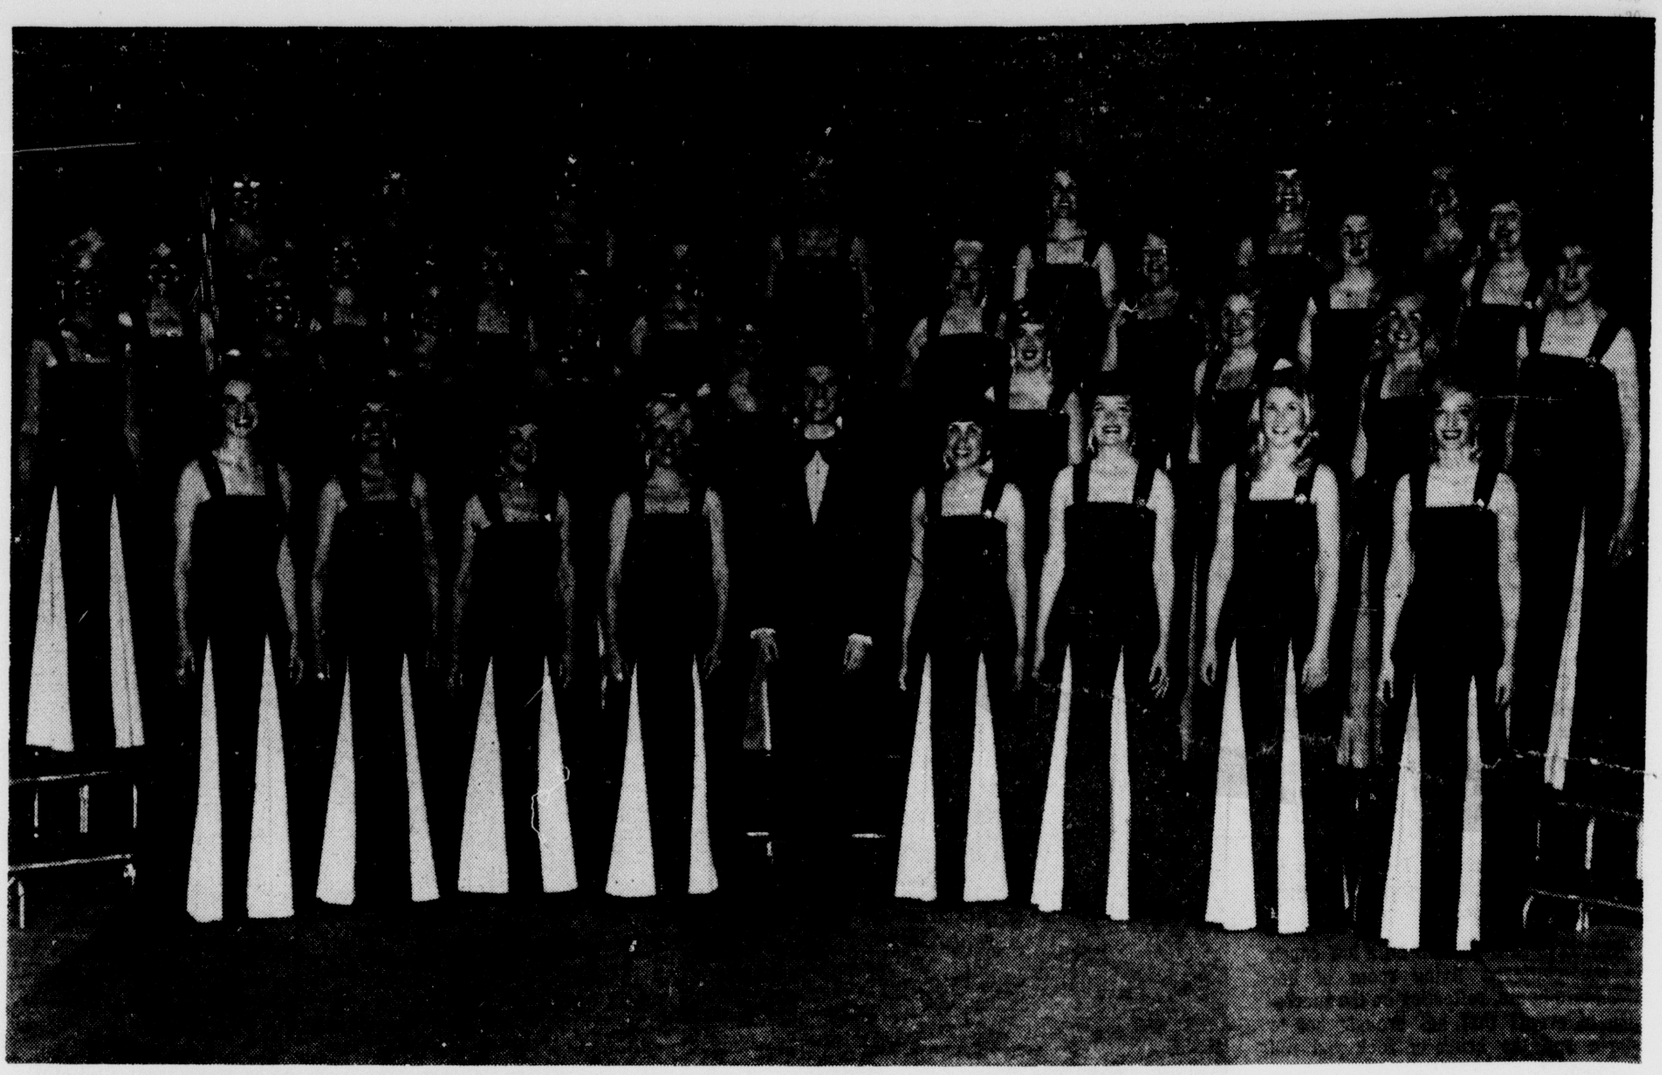

Today she is content to perform as a single voice that blends with others to form an integral part of a four-part chord.

For Lucille Steele, as for other members of the group, there is a special appeal in getting a show together with the colorful costumes and the kind of music that lends itself best to barbershop harmony and the oldtime spirit of fun. In the parade that highlighted San Rafael's centennial celebration earlier this year, the Marin Chapter of the Sweet Adelines was represented by a charming hay wagon pulled by two mules and topped off with a singing chorus garbed in turn of the century costumes. As the contingent passed the reviewing stand at Courthouse Square, the feminine barbershoppers struck up a medley of old time songs for the parade judges who promptly awarded them the second prize from over 200 local entrants.

WHILE THE SWEET Adelines are undoubtedly in tune with each other, it can also be added that their spirit of concordance extends beyond their immediate family, expressing itself in a long tradition of community service. Some extra-curricular activities of the local chapter include providing entertainment at hospitals, service clubs and homes for the aged; in short, wherever smiles are needed and wherever music is loved. The group is also available to entertain at meetings and special club events. Interested women are invited to contact the secretary, Marilyn A. Barner.

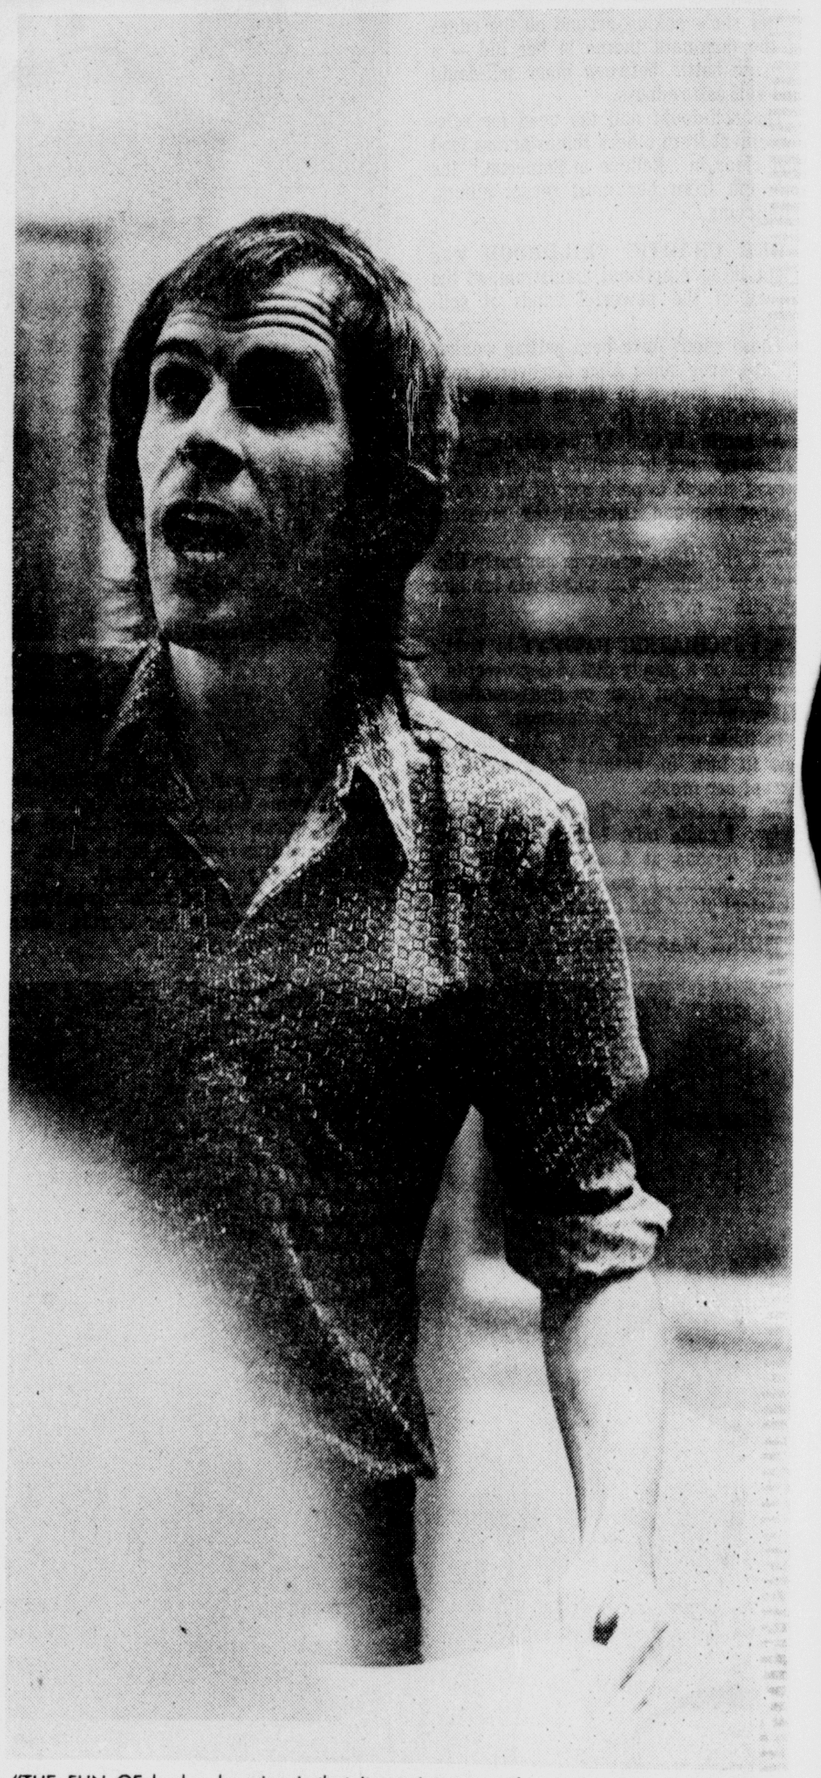

The organization has an open door policy that welcomes all women of good character who enjoy music and have a desire for training and participation in four-part harmony, barbershop style.

If the complex problems of living can be reduced to simple solutions, the answer may lie in the slogan of the Sweet Adelines of Marin who describe their far reaching goal in three simple words: "Harmonize The World."

GOWNED AND SMILING, the chorus of Marin's chapter of the Sweet Adelines posed for an official photograph at the 1974 regional championships, held this year in San Jose. Surrounded by his singers is director Martin Frick. At the annual regional event the Marin women compete against Adeline choruses from throughout Northern California, Utah, Idaho, Nevada and Hawaii.

"THE FUN OF barbershopping is that it requires no professional training," says Martin Frick, musical director of the Marin Chapter of the Sweet Adelines. "Anyone with an average singing voice is always welcome." Frick brings to his work with the Adelines a rich background in music and the theater.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

It often happens
On a Saturday afternoon —
The return to childhood.

The sun is shining,
A wind bends the branches
And I am all alone
Save for a single thought
That this same moment
Just occurred yesterday.

Nothing really changes —
The wonder
That I had as a child;
Yet how do I know
That the sun and wind
Will still be here tomorrow?

Where lingering echoes wail
Of past births and deaths,
That seem to whisper:

Tomorrow may never come."

A Sordid Record Of Abuse Of Power By The Sensual Superstar Of Rock

BOOKS AND RECORDS

MICK JAGGER, EVERYBODY'S LUCIFER by Tony Scaduto; McKay, 375 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Paul Liberatore.

Although it seems an unlikely parallel, Tony Scaduto's book on Mick Jagger and the Rolling Stones stirs the same juices of contempt and resentment that bubbled to the skin with each new revelation of criminal activity among those in high political office.

Like the disturbing tale of the President's men, Jagger's story is one of collosal ego, hypocrisy and abuse. Abuse of power, influence, wealth and of the masses who consider rock and roll their music, and its superstars their heroes.

Scaduto's second book about a musician (his first was a biography of Bob Dylan) begins with a glacier-paced account of Jagger's early fascination with Black American rhythm and blues and the formative years of the seminal Rolling Stones.

A normal, middle-class teen-ager enrolled at the London School of Economics, Jagger is so dully conservative in his aspirations for a successful business career and cozy suburban future that he keeps up his studies even after the other members of the band have dedicated themselves full-time to their music.

At this point, there are only suggestions of the electrifying showmanship and sensual attraction that would later be manifest in Jagger, making him the quintessential rock and roll insect: androgynous in his full drag costumes, mascara and glitter; evil in his stage portrayals of sadism and violence, the fantasy rapist reviling Western society with songs about drugs, sex and bourgeoise-romantic visions of revolution.

As Jagger's sexual attraction and ability to manipulate youthful audiences with the raunchy music of the Stones becomes evident, there develops a power struggle over leadership of the group with Brian Jones, who founded the band and was its most accomplished musician and first star.

Driven from the Stones' inner circle, a desperately insecure Jones starts along the path to self destruction by indulging in hard drugs and self pity.

Jagger can help his colleague recover, his woman friend at the time, Marianne Faithfull, points out, but can't quite bring himself to it. "The only trait noticed by all who know Jagger is his ability to sidestep personal problems and postpone facing up to them by pretending the unpleasant will go away if ignored long enough," Scaduto writes.

Physically and emotionally unable to perform or record, Jones is fired from the band. A few weeks later, he drowns at the bottom of his swimming pool.

Jagger's public self and private self are a study in hypocrisy. Condemming marriage in interviews, he begs a lady friend to marry him. Denouncing English society and its class system, he marches in the street with student revolutionaries, then retires to the luxury of his townhouse on the Thames, which he demands his woman run as smoothly and properly as any blueblood's household. Saving money doesn't matter, he learns the financial ins and outs and helps turn the Stones organization into one of the wealthiest and most ruthless in the music business.

The most dramatic example of Jagger's abuse of his position comes at Altamont, the 1969 Bay Area concert that has gone down in rock and roll infamy.

Some local names crop up here, in the Scaduto version of that debacle, Jerry Garcia of the Grateful Dead suggests the Stones do a free concert around San Francisco to cap their U.S. tour and that the Hell's Angels provide security. Sam Cutler, who later joins the Dead organization but is at the time the Stones' tour manager, gives the Angels instructions to keep back the Altamont crowds with any methods.

Jagger's enthusiasm for the idea comes not from any desire to create another Woodstock, spreading peace and love, but to provide dramatic footage for a film being made of the tour.

He insists the concert go on although there is less than 24 hours to prepare the site for the thousands of young people who will flock there to see "the greatest rock and roll band in the world."

He leaves his audience shivering in the cold wasteland of Altamont until after dark, when the lighting will be most dramatic for his entrance as Lucifer in his orange and black cape.

Meanwhile, the open-ended instructions to the Hell's Angels result in them administering savage beatings with pool cues and heavy boots to anyone trying to approach the stage.

MICK JAGGER
A colossal ego who ignores the unpleasant

While Jagger minces about singing "Sympathy for the Devil," a pack of Angels slaughters a young black man hardly 25 feet away.

The youngster's crushed body is carried to the medical tent, where doctors discover there is no emergency helicopter, as was promised, although Jagger was flown to the site in one. The young man dies in the doctor's arms.

Scaduto best sums up Jagger in a description of him on stage while the Altamont audience teeters on the brink of riot. "Now, he seems a small, frail and vulnerable little boy in Halloween costume, stripped of his sensual aura, vulnerable to a sudden knife thrust, a bullet, a pool cue to shatter his skull." The book should have ended there.

Ancient Astronauts On Earth? Van Daniken Persists In His Theory

IN SEARCH OF ANCIENT GODS by Erich von Daniken; Putnam, 249 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

In a series of books, lecture tours and television appearances Switzerland's Erich von Daniken has advanced a theory about man's development that has put him at odds with the scientific establishment.

In this, his newest book, he restates that theory:

"In my world alien astronauts lived on our planet thousands of years ago and our ancestors looked on them as 'gods.' They dictated the whole truth to earthly scribes and commanded them to hand on this truth unadulterated to future generations. The human failing of 'knowing better' distorted the truth. Religions came into being. Knowledge and truth were replaced by belief. The great majority of mankind still believes in a truth that is no truth. That is why I take the minor liberty of trying, with my theories and speculations, with the results of my researches and with my awkward questions, to bore through the blinkers which, forgive my saying so, most of us are still wearing."

This idea that centuries before Christ space travelers from some distant star visited the earth, bringing with them an advanced civilization, and shared their knowledge with the humanoids they found upon this planet, thus enabling them to rise from the muck, is precisely the premise that Von Daniken proposed in such earlier books as "Chariots of the Gods?" and "Gods from Outer Space."

It has brought upon him the criticism and ridicule not only of more formally trained and more orthodox scientists but also of many theologians. Still, Von Daniken has persisted, and has won himself a following.

To support his theory Von Daniken cites the many relics from ancient times that, to him at least, seem to depict astronauts in flight or in their "traveling" gear. He points to evidences of great technological and cultural achievements in a period when earthlings were still primitive and incapable of such feats. He notes geographic markings that "might" have been huge landing fields constructed to accommodate these airships.

In this book he emphasizes portions of the Old Testament, Book of Ezekiel, in which that prophet seems to have described in detail one of the spaceships. And claims the lost Book of Enoch holds further evidence to support his theory.

In short, "In Search of Ancient Gods" is a reassertion by Von Daniken of his theory challenging the accepted thesis of how man developed on this earth into the complicated creature that he is. It is certainly an interesting theory. And even a persuasive, if not convincing, one.

But regardless of your feelings concerning Von Daniken's controversial ideas, "In Search of Ancient Gods" is likely to fascinate you with its amazing collection of photographs of bizarre places and mysterious treasures from the far corners of the earth.

There are 374 such illustrations, some in color. Some are photographs taken by the much-traveled Von Daniken himself. Others he has obtained from a variety of sources in his seemingly tireless quest for the fragments and the monuments that have survived the batterings of time and which, to Von Daniken at least, support his theory that a superior race from a star afar once infused weaker earthlings with their wisdom, and perhaps even with their blood. The photographs, in themselves, will justify the $8.95 cost of the book for anyone curious about the strange and unexplained. Even for those who quarrel with Von Daniken's interpretations and assumptions — and frequently he does seem to choose deliberately a least likely among the alternatives — will still have to agree that these astounding pictures do demonstrate that man and his sciences are still a long ways from coming up with all the answers about his own past.

TV's Little Giant Of The Talk Shows

CAVETT by Dick Cavett and Christopher Porterfield; Harcourt Brace Jovanovich Inc., 373 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Jim Williams.

"Cavett" is a candid look at one of television's most noted television personalities — the "little giant" of talks shows, Dick Cavett.

There's hardly a dull moment with Cavett taking the guest's chair and Christopher Porterfield, who joined Cavett's staff this year, popping questions at the Nebraskan-born, Yale-educated personality.

Two segments depart from Cavett's television formula when Porterfield, an experienced journalist, gives the reader a little more insight into a very bright and articulate man who is not afraid to tackle the likes of literary giant Norman Mailer or to reach out for a rare taped interview with such a notable, hard-to-approach actress as Katharine Hepburn.

The book tells it all — Cavett's childhood in Nebraska, breaking into show business, the trials of working with Jack Paar, the times he didn't hold his tongue during air time, and one of the most important episodes — the censorship struggles with the network.

The book is just as refreshing as any Cavett show and well worth the $8.95 price of admission.

Len Deighton's Back With A New Thriller

SPY STORY by Len Deighton; Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc., 224 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

With John LeCarre riding high on the best-seller charts with his "Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy," it was a certainty that his chief challenger for the title of Britain's master of the espionage thriller, Len Deighton, would not be far behind with a novel of his own.

This is it from the author of "Funeral in Berlin" and "The Ipcress File."

And you can bet that "Spy Story" is due, too, for a long run on the best-seller list. It is certain to please Deighton fans. And they are many.

In this, Deighton's bespectacled, individualistic English agent is back in the deep waters of international intrigue. This time, for some reason, he bears the name Patrick, not Harry Palmer. But the character is the same. And so is the game. It's a cynical world in which nations willingly feed their lower echelon civil servants to the enemy in return for some small advantage in the contest that is espionage. Patrick is well aware of this, and of the backbiting and double-crossing that goes on inside the ranks at all levels. Still, he does his duty as best he can while striving to save his neck.

"Spy Story" is built around a Strategic War Game Studies Center operated jointly by the British and the U.S. Patrick is serving there as personal assistant to the tough, crude American Marine colonel who heads the program. His work leads him eventually into an assignment aboard a nuclear submarine in Russian waters, his target supposedly a potential and valuable Soviet detector.

But in a Deighton or a LeCarre yarn, things are seldom what they seem. And in "Spy Story" the waters are even more muddied than usual, with plots and counter-plots, and good men dying or risking death for the sake of the ambitious of men who are not so good.

Deighton's narration continues to be highly elliptical and sometimes downright indistinct and confusing. That's been the hallmark of the Deighton-LeCarre school of spy fiction ever since they succeeded the late Ian Fleming with his flamboyance and brought a new strain of hard realism to the genre. At first, this writing style seemed to go well with the new approach, helping to make the break a decisive one. But now it is beginning to seem a bit pretentious and wearisome to this reader.

For this round, LeCarre seems to have outpointed his rival, "Tinkler, Tailor . . ." having less of this murky quality than "Spy Story." But you will find them both well up in the best-seller rankings for the next several weeks or month. That was a certainty when the two authors decided to write new novels for audiences that were already there and waiting anxiously.

BROWSING BOOKMAN

"The only complete, one-volume hunter's guide to all North American game birds and animals," claims the jacket for "The Hunter's Field Guide" by Robert Elman.

Ridge Press and Alfred A. Knopf Inc. have jointly published the compact, profusely illustrated guide, priced at $12.50 and quite probably worth that amount and more to the rabid outdoorsman.

Elman has written five earlier books on hunting and the outdoors as well as hundreds of articles for sportsmen's magazines. With this guide he caps his work with a book that covers all the game species from identification through habitat to habits and future prospects. He offers, too, his expertise on hunting equipment and techniques. And Ned Smith has supplemented the many photographs, some of these in color, with wildlife drawings.

Even if the man in the family isn't a hunting enthusiast, but enjoys the outdoors, he will find the Elman book a fount of wildlife information.

Jean Montgomery's Adventure Book For Young Readers

SEARCH THE WILD SHORE by Jean Montgomery; Morrow, 223 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Marinite Jean Montgomery has used the colorful history and geography of our California coast before with success as a setting for her action-packed books for young readers, and she does so again in "Search the Wild Shore."

This time she writes of a Russian boy Zakhar Petrov who comes to the wild, sparsely settled California of 1818 in search of his father. When he fails to find his father as expected at Fort Ross, he ships out on an otter-hunting boat. This puts him first into the clutches of a sadistic New England skipper, and then later into the hands of Spanish captors.

Finally, there is rescue and a return to San Francisco. And then a joyful, concluding reunion.

Miss Montgomery gives her readers a lively story made rich and informative by the wealth of historical fact that she weaves into her narrative. And it is a period of California history that is seldom accorded the attention it deserves, for it was an important time and place to subsequent events, not just for California, but for the entire world.

ON THE STEREO SCENE—

A Germanic Tale Of Magic Bullets On Import Label

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

With "Der Freischutz" (The Free-Shooter), or Carl Maria von Weber married romanticism and nationalism to lay the foundation of German romantic opera.

The overture and certain arias are famous and familiar, yet the whole work is not all that often produced any more in the opera house.

There is an excellent new version on records from Deutsche Grammophon (2709 046-three records), produced in Dresden where Weber wrote the work in 1818-19 and where he presided over the German Opera in the last nine years of his life.

The story is one of those Germanic tales of a shooting competition among hunters for the favor of the prince with a bride as the prize, and of magic bullets cast with the help of the devil.

In the end truth comes from the barrel of a gun.

The orchestra in the present recording is the Dresden Staatskapelle, the orchestra which Wagner described as his "miraculous harp," and the conductor is Carlos Kleiber, making his debut on records although well known as a conductor as his father was before him.

The cast is excellent — Glandula Janowitz and Peter Schreier in the leading roles and in the principal parts, Edith Mathis, Theo Adam, Siegfried Vogel, Bernd Weikl, Franz Crass and Gunter Leib.

As is customary in imports from Europe, the packaging of the albums and accompanying libretto is luxurious and superior.

FREDERICK DELIUS spent a year from 1884 to 1885 trying to grow oranges at Solano Grove, Fla., and from the experience came much of the inspiration for his opera "Koanga," now available on records for the first time (Angel SBLX-3808-two records).

The story is of an African prince and voodoo priest taken as a slave to late 18th century Louisiana and his tragic love there for the beautiful mulatto Palmyra, but the libretto is so weak that not even Delius music can quite sustain it.

What it is is an evocative tone poem with singing parts.

With excellent results, two black artists, baritone Eugene Holmes and soprano Claudia Lindsey, take the same lead roles they did in the last stage production in Washington in 1970.

Sir Charles Groves conducts a coherent and unflagging performance at the head of the London Symphony Orchestra and the Joyn Alldis Choir. Other principal roles are sung by Raimund Herinex, Jean Allister and Simon Estes.

THERE IS NO complete recording in the catalogue of Jacques Fromental Halevy's "La Juive" but there now are the highlights on record with Richard Tucker singing the great role of Eleazar. It will be remembered that Caruso sang Eleazar in his last appearance on stage.

"La Juive," one of the cornerstones of French opera in the 19th century, is infrequently performed in our day. Tucker has sung Eleazar in its most recent revivals in New Orleans and London as he does on this RCA record of Highlights (ARL 1-0447).

OTHERS: Montserrat Caballe and Placido Domingo singing operatic duets (Angel S-36934). Claudia Muzio singing arias in the Odyssey "Legendary Performances" series (Y 32676). Mono.

SLEUTHS & SUSPENSE

THE CRY OF THE HALIDON by Jonathan Ryder; Delacorte Press, 376 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Flushed with the success of his "Trevayne," Jonathan Ryder (a pseudonym) spins another tough novel of adventure, suspense and intrigue.

This time his setting for most of his book is Jamaica. American geologist Alex McAuliff goes there as the head of a survey party with a super-secret assignment from an international business conglomerate. Even before they depart London it is plain that British Intelligence has taken a keen interest in their undertaking. And once in Jamaica, McAuliff and colleagues find themselves caught in a crossfire between warring factions, some of them islanders, some of them intruders. One such faction is comprised of the members of an old African tribe who long ago isolated themselves in the Jamaican interior wilderness, but who have kept in touch with the outside, and who have their own plans for the future that are on a collision course with the aims of McAuliff's mysterious employers.

It all sounds exciting enough, and should be. But Ryder has damaged his story by making it far too long and unnecessarily complicated. The gory detail accorded the brutality that occurs frequently is yet another blemish.

For this reader, at least, "The Cry of the Halidon" took more reading time than it was worth. And some really ingenious ideas, including the island setting, have been wasted for the most part.

Guatemala Beckons To Vacationers

THE TRAVEL PAGE

By INGA RUNDVOLD

Because the American eagle on the devalued U. S. dollar hasn't flown to Europe as frequently as in past years, it just might want to mate with the Guatemala Quetzel (that's the long-tailed wild bird printed or stamped on the money and from which the money gets its name).

This is a bird that wants to get friendlier!

It's gratifying to see how much you get for your money in Guatemala. Besides that, I can understand it . . . one quetzel equals $1 . . . one colone, one quarter.

PRICES ARE ABOUT one-fourth to one-third below what you pay for the same in other vacation areas.

Group transportation is comfortable. Local tour operators work with the various hotels to form the groups. Large groups use comfortable new buses, smaller ones go in limousines or cars.

Transportation anywhere in Guatemala City on the bus line is just a nickel. Admission fees to public buildings, museums, and parks are non-existent.

Taxi fares seem to be about the same as other vacation areas.

BIGGEST BONUS IS the weather. It's like "eternal spring," with an average temperature about 68 degrees. High elevations make it possible to swim and bask in the sun during the day and enjoy a sweater at night.

A five-day visit can give you a good look at Guatemala and still be relaxing . . . and the cost won't disturb you.

Let's start with Guatemala City. A half-day escorted tour is $4 and provides enough time to see the highlights. Most attractions are around the Central Park (Parque Central).

THE NATIONAL PALACE is said to be one of the most beautiful buildings in all of Central and South America. The gracious architecture is a light-green tinged concrete and features beautifully planted courtyards and extravagantly furnished reception and banquet rooms.

Across the street is the Cathedral, sort of dingy inside but which houses a copy of the famous "Black Christ." The original is in Esquipulas, close to the El Salvador border.

Right behind the Cathedral is the City Market — a real shopper's paradise. Bargaining is expected, and most of the merchants understand English. Woven materials, fruits, vegetables, jewelry and carvings fill stall after stall.

IT TAKES ABOUT an hour and a half to drive to Antigua. The going is slow on the mountain roads, but interesting.

Antigua has been destroyed by earthquakes twice — once in 1700 and again in 1773. Now it stands with many scars showing and bustling with tourists and proud people who still live there amid constant restoration.

It's a dear little town — cobblestone streets, colonial homes with red tile roofs, and brilliant flowering vines climbing over the houses and along the garden walls.

Plaza Real, the Central Park, is colorfully planted. In the center is a bandstand set up for marimba and military bands that play apparently when they feel like it.

OLD ST. CARLOS University, now a museum, houses some lovely old paintings and sculptures of the saints with porcelain faces and hands.

Our next stop was the colorful Indian village of Chichicastenango, which should be visited on a Thursday or Sunday, for it is only on these days that thousands of Indians from the surrounding countryside flock to town.

These days are very important socially to the Indians. In fact, I was told that if an Indian with a full load on his back were walking to market at Chichicastenango and you wanted to buy all his wares, he wouldn't sell. Why? His trips to town represent his social life, and he also wants to participate in the most colorful and largest market in the country.

THE 400-YEAR-OLD Cathedral of St. Thomas (Santo Tomas) dominates the scene in the middle of the confusing and noisy market. These soft-spoken people with happy, contented faces are proud to display their customs, heritage and tradition surrounding the cathedral.

Next we went southwest to Lake Atitlan. After climbing narrow roads replete with hairpin turns and deep ravines, we beheld a tremendous lake, a mile high in the mountains and nestled in a triangle of volcano peaks.

Our next trip was from Guatemala City to Tikal to see 3,000-year-old Mayan ruins. It is most advisable to get to the airport early to confirm the 90-minute flight by an old World War II DC-3. Although you might think a confirmed reservation by phone is enough, it seems to be on a first-come, first-serve basis when you get to the airport.

MOST OF THE flight is over dense jungle, until you come upon the ruins emerging out of the trees like gray ghosts. You wonder how and why they chose this spot 800 miles from the coast in the middle of nowhere.

A ground crew organized the tourists, and after viewing some old artifacts in a small museum established by the University of Pennsylvania, we boarded an old orange school bus and headed into the jungle on a dirt road.

The first stop is the ruins of the Grand Plaza, where unbelievable tall pyramids are at each end. Along the sides are long grandstands of smaller temples. In front of the temples are stelae, small carved columns with round stones in front, upon which the Mayans made offerings to their gods.

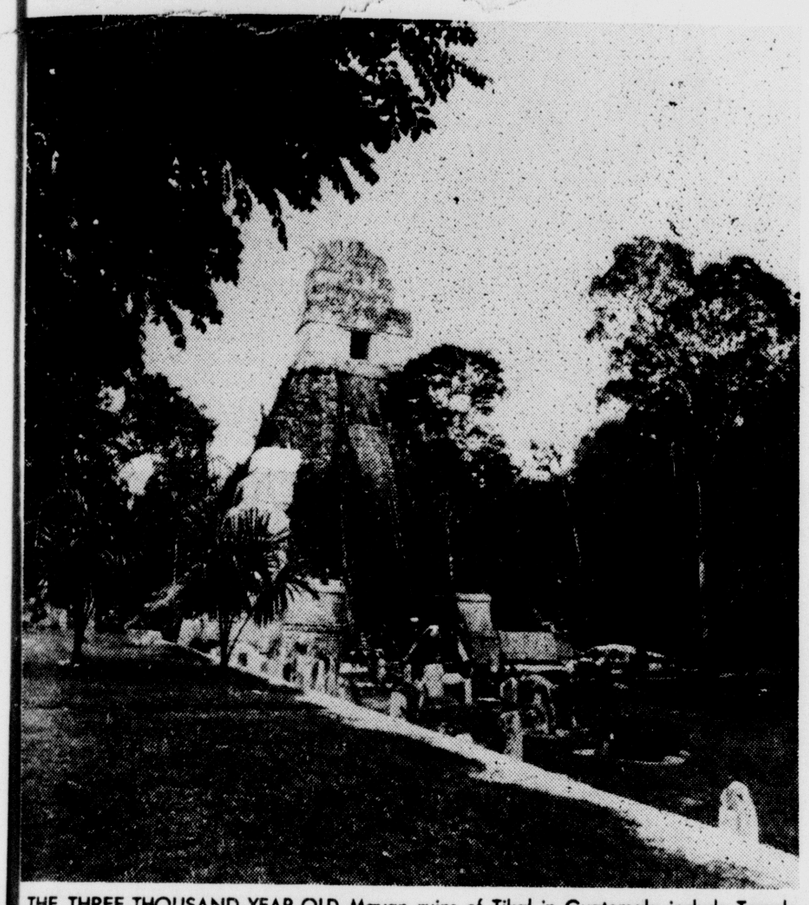

OUR PLANELOAD of people crawled like ants over the ruins. Some reached the top (130 feet) of the highest temple. Others followed the guides around as they explained the history, cultures, and scientific achievements of these ancient people.

Most of the visitors felt a one-day stay was enough unless they were deeply interested in archaeology. The temperature is much warmer here than in Guatemala City, and overnight hotel accommodations are poor.

According to Jorge Senn, director of tourism, "We can hardly handle the visitors we now get, even without advertising campaigns and the promotions with the airlines. The big problem is hotel space, and it will be about five years before we are entirely caught up."

In just two years, tourism has increased 46.8 per cent. Last year the count was 109,000 visitors, with 50 per cent from the United States.

AMERICA'S HISTORIC HOMES THROW OPEN THEIR DOORS

Travelers who like to visit historic places will find some old familiar names, and many surprises, on a just released list of the 22 homes of greatest significance to the United States Bicentennial.

The familiar include George Washington's Mount Vernon, Lincoln's home in Springfield, Ill., and the Tryon Palace, the colonial governor's mansion in New Bern, N.C.

But also on the list are surprises like a pioneer fur trading outpost, a house that was once part of a fort, and the Indiana mansion which was once the capitol of more territory than was then in the United States.

The fur traders home is the Robert Stuart House on Mackinac Island, Mich., while the home that was once part of a fort's blockade is the four-room Gen. Rufus Putnam House in Marietta, Ohio, oldest pioneer residence surviving west of the Ohio River.

The Indiana mansion is Grouseland, in Vincennes, from which "Tippecanoe" Harrison governed the Indiana Territory. For a time, the territory included 16 of the present states — Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and Oklahoma.

The 22 homes were slected by major historical societies in a study sponsored by Ridge Homes, of Conshohocken, Pa., one of the nation's largest home manufacturers, in a program designed to stimulate interest in historic preservation.

Most of the homes are on a 500-mile belt from Virginia to New England.

Starting at Mount Vernon, George Washington's home and burial place, the bicentennial tour would move to Harewood, near Charles Town, W. Va., another Washington family home and the place where James and Dolly Madison were Married; then to Baltimore, to Mount Clare, the Georgian mansion of Revolutionary leader Charles Carroll; then to the George Read home in New Castle, Del., along the historic Strand.

Crossing the Mason-Dixon line, the route moves to Piladelphia and Cliveden, home of the Chew family, the focal point of the Battle of Germantown; across the river to Morristown, N.J., and the Ford Mansion, Washington's headquarters when he issued the orders containing the proclamation of peace in 1783.

The final leg of the bicentennial trip visits New England: Gov. Jonathan Trumbull's house in Lebanon, Conn., from where he drove 300 cattle 100 miles past British lines to Valley Forge; the Providence, R.I., home of Declaration signer Stephen Hopkins; the Adams mansion in Quincy, Mass., the only private residence of two Presidents; the Manchester, N.H., farmhouse of Gen. John Stark, last surviving general of the Revolution; and Constitution House, in Windsor, Vt., where Vermont became an independent republic in 1777.

The more widely separated homes include the Burnham Tavern in Machias, Me., where the Revolution's first naval encounter was planned; Tryon Palace, the colonial governor's mansion in New Bern, N.C.; Miles Brewton House, in Charleston, S.C., where the owner's three daughters lived secretly in the attic for two years during the British occupation; the Hermitage, Andrew Jackson's home near Nashville, Tenn.; Locust Grove, Gen. George Rogers Clark's home in Louisville, Ky., and the Mackay House, in Atlanta, Ga., where 29 wounded Continental soldiers were hung by the British following a four-day battle.

All of the homes are generally open Tuesday through Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Lake Shastina, A Sparkling Jewel In Siskiyou County

Situated in the unspoiled sportsland of Northern California's Siskiyou County is Lake Shastina, often described as a "sparkling jewel" set in the wooded foothills at the base of majestic 14,162-foot Mount Shasta.

The symbol of the versatile, all-season area is the "honker." The north-south flyway for migratory fowl passes over Lake Shastina and each year thousands of Canadian geese, called "honkers," stop and rest at the lake before pushing on to their destination.

Lake Shastina, at an elevation of 2,805 feet, is an 1,800-acre lake that has become a recreational paradise amid a setting of magnificent grandeur — a blue water lake, tall forest pines and wild shrubland under a clear azure sky.

Formerly known as the Dwinnell Reservoir, the watery expanse was dredged, cleaned up and beautified by Shastina Properties Inc. The lake is open to the public for recreational purposes subject to regulation by Lake Shastina Inc. and the Montague Water District.

THE LAKE IS approximately three and a half miles long, a mile and a half wide and has 15 miles of irregular shoreline with interesting coves to explore. It is a fresh water lake fed by nearby Shasta River.

The lake abounds in trout, bass, perch and catfish. The avid fisherman can also try his luck in landing salmon and steelhead in the Klamath River 30 miles away.

FOR THE GOLFER, there are the facilities of the Lake Shastina Golf and Country Club featuring a Robert Trent Jones-designed championship 18-hole course. The course, located in full view of snow-capped Mount Shasta, embraces 7,000 yards of lush fairways that wind in among the forest pines and the blue water lakes.

Comfort is provided in the Bavarian Chalet Village. Each chalet will accommodate a family with four children, each unit being in full view of the lake waters.

For more family fun there are the nearby Juniper Lagoon and its picnic area plus all kinds of trails for hiking.

The campground has all of the facilities for recreational vehicles. All conveniences, including power and sewage disposal, are available.

For family dining and socializing there is the Arrow Lodge at the Spearpoint Townhouse Community. The Whispering Pines restaurant has a fine bill of fare.

VIRTUALLY AT OUR doorstep here in Northern California is Lake Shastina, a body of water in Mount Shasta's shadow in Siskiyou County that abounds with fish and offers ideal opportunities for boating, swimming and water skiing. Camping, picnicking areas and trails make the area an ideal family recreation spot.

EVERY YEAR bulb flower admirers by the tens of thousands throng to Holland's famed Keukenhof Garden at Lisse to admire the profusion of spring bloom. And there they participate in the balloting that annually designates the International Bulb Selections for the year. The honored flowers in 1974 include at left, Beauty of Apeldoorn, a stately representative of the Darwin hybrid tulip class of magenta and golden yellow; above, the Sempre Avanti, the Keukenhof visitors' favorite daffodil, of white petals in an orange cup; and at right, the Ostara hyacinth of varying shades of blue.

Flower-Loving Visitors Pick Their Favorite Holland Bulbs

The enviable task of selecting the favorite bulb flowers for the 1974 International Bulb Selections has been completed by flower-lovers from all over th e world.

The famed Keukenhof Garden in Lisse, Holland, was once again the scene where hundreds of thousands of visitors participated in this annual poll of spring-blooming flowers.

Included among this year's favorites, just announced by the Netherlands Flower-bulb Institute, are seven tulips, a hyacinth, a daffodil (narcissus), and the Iris reticulata. All of these bulbs are available in most parts of the United States, and can be grown here with a minimum of effort.

REPRESENTED AMONG the 10 bulbs selected for 1974 are the unusual and the beautiful.

The unusual category is perfect for the multi-flowered tu lip, Praestans Fusilier, an early-blooming variety of scarlet orange. Popular among bulb fanciers, this old favorite, which produces four to six flowers per stem, has proved that it is not always the "new" flower that catches the eye.

The combination of unusual and beautiful was found in the selection of the Blue Parrot, a tulip of bright violet with bronze outside and purple inside. This exotic tulip, radiating a steel blue color, is the result of Holland's 300-year-old bulb industry's achievements in hybridizing.

It is sure to gain distinction and admiration from gardeners all over the world.

THE EARLY SPRING-flowering Kaufmanniana tulip, Goudstuk, is distinguished by deep carmine edged yellow on the outside, and deep golden yellow inside. It was among those selected, along with the cupshaped Darwin tulip, Landseadel's Supreme, a glowing cherry-red flower with a creamy yellow base.

This latter tulip is a vigorous long-lasting variety and is always a favorite wherever it is grown.

The Darwin hybrids, a class of tulips with the largest and most stately flowers, is represented by the Beauty of Apeldoorn. This variety has a magenta exterior with edges of golden yellow; a black base, and an interior of golden yellow.

An outstanding marble white tulip of the Cottage class, Maureen, was chosen, as was Don Quichotte, which blooms in tyrian-rose, and falls under the Triumph classification.

HYACINTHS INCREASE in popularity each year, and the 1974 selection is Ostara. Its bright blue color with a band of deeper blue down the center of each bell, accompanied by an enchanting fragrance, makes it popular for indoor or outdoor enjoyment.

The favorite daffodil (narcissus) among the Keukenhof Garden visitors was the Sempre Avanti. This member of the large-cupped division of daffodils features an orange colored cup which is approximately one-third the length of the petals which are white.

Iris reticulata, recognized by its purple flowers with orange gold splashes, completes the International Bulb Selections for 1974. This well known dwarf iris blooms quite early, and flourishes easily among rocks.

ANNOUNCING THE 1974 International Holland Bulb Selections would not be complete without some advice to novices pertaining to correct bulb planting, and tips to the veteran gardener:

All spring-flowering bulbs must be planted in the fall. Selection of bulbs should be made according to preference of flowering time, whether it be early spring, mid-season, or late spring. Bulbs can be planted anywhere in the garden, in sun or shade, but the essential thing to remember is that the soil must drain well.

Two approaches to planting may be chosen: dig an area for a cluster of approximately 25 bulbs, or simply dig holes for each bulb. The general rule is to plant larger bulbs at least six inches deep and six inches apart — smaller bulbs, three inches deep and three inches apart. Immediately after planting, water thoroughly.

With just a little care in planning, a mini-Keukenhof can easily be created.

And while more and more of the flower bulbs being planted in California are products of the USA, we shouldn't forget that the Netherlands was where it all began. And where it continues today on a spectacular plane.

ONE OF THE MOST beautiful and most impressive of the 1974 International Bulb Selections is the Praestans Fusilier, a multi-flowered tulip that blooms early and bedazzles the eyes with its scarlet orange color. It is a well-established favorite that produces four to six flowers per stem.

Annuals Put Into Your Garden Now Assure Color And Cheer, Come Winter

Why not continue your garden vacation into fall and winter? You can, you know, if you plant annuals.

Here in California we have springtime beauty in mid-winter with annuals which bloom throughout the winter when transplanted in succession in autumn.

Right now, winter-blooming annuals in flats are available in many colors at nurseries for use in all mild winter areas in the state such as Marin.

SOME OF THE most popular bedding plants are pansies, calendulas, snapdragons, stock and violas. After planting they require little care. Just water and remove fading flowers.

The California Association of Nurserymen says one of the brightest spots in the winter garden belongs to the calendula with its clear bright yellow, golds, persimmon, and pale apricot colors.

Calendulas make ideal cut flowers for indoor decoration because of long stems and long life after being cut.

ANOTHER FAVORITE for indoor decoration is stock. Fragrant, tall, colorful — mathiola incana, is an excellent choice for the garden if cut flowers are your aim.

If you desire a wide range of color in window boxes, containers or as edgings, try violas and pansies. Some pansies measure four and five inches in diameter.

All these annuals should be transplanted into a good soil with a top grade soil amendment added. They should be watered at planting time and kept moist until definitely settled in their new location. After established, violas and pansies will continue to take a more than moderate amount of water. The others need very little.

When you look out to your garden or patio and see winter-blooming annuals, you'll know your garden vacation is still underway through fall and winter.

"Our Business is growing"

Fresh Produce From Backyard Tastes All The Better In Winter

This is the year more people than ever are reaping a harvest of fresh garden vegetables.

You may be taking in your crop now, but don't overlook your opportunity of continuing the harvest into winter by raising cool season vegetables.

Several of the cool season varieties are available now at nurseries in flats, ready to be transplanted. Marin County nurserymen carry plants of broccoli, cauliflower, lettuce, Brussel sprouts and cabbage. In addition, seed of such stand-bys as beets, carrots, radishes and turnips, peas and lettuce can be sown.

THE IDEA OF growing winter vegetables is the same as that of growing winter annuals. The earlier you get them in this month, the more bountiful the harvest. The plants should have plenty of good growing weather to establish themselves before really cold weather sets in.

Just because they are a "cool" season crop doesn't mean they can do without sun. They like the maximum amount, just as all of us do when the weather cools off.

For a family of four, the nurserymen suggest 10 to 12 plants each of broccoli, Brussel sprouts, cabbage and cauliflower. Space them two feet apart in rows.

For lettuce, a 20 foot row, with heading varieties spaced a foot apart, leafing varieties only half that much. Radishes mature in short order and are best picked when first ready, so plant five foot rows of them at one month intervals.

A 30-foot row of carrots spaced two inches apart; a 15-foot row of either beets or turnips spaced the same distance will do the trick.

YOU SAY YOU don't have the room? No problem, plant your cool season vegetables in raised beds, modular containers, hanging baskets or pots.

Pay attention to soil preparation, feeding and proper watering. Check with your nurseryman for his recommendations. Cool season growing conditions vary in different parts of the state, even our county, and he's the man that knows exactly what is right for your locality.

Somehow, fresh produce picked from your garden in the winter, an impossibility in most parts of the country and one of the glories of living in California, seems to taste all the better for its season.

THE WEEKLY CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

✓Set-out plants of stock, snapdragon, calendula, iceland poppy, pansies and violas for winter color. And don't forget the winter vegetables, also available in flats at nurseries.

✓It's nearing the start of bulb planting season and nurseries have those which thrive in our area, and which will provide a spring-time carnival of color in your garden.

✓Azaleas and rhododendrons will want their final feeding of the year. Use a specially-prepared acid food for these spectacular bloomers.

✓Don't prune grapes just because the crop is gone. Pruning should wait until the plants are dormant — during the winter months.

✓Feed lawns regularly to keep them green, healthy and pest and disease resistant. Commercial fertilizers are available which contain insecticides and fungicides. These feed and provide weed and/or insect control at the same time.

✓Keep fallen leaves raked from your lawn. This is especially important, once autumn rains begin. Otherwise the leaves can smother your grass.

THE GREEN THUMBERS AND THEIR PROBLEMS

By JAMES J. MURPHY

Q. Can you tell me what is the matter with our peach tree? About 80 per cent of its leaves are like the enclosed. I have given it iron, nitrogen and sulfate of ammonia. Nothing changes it.

A. Take a one-pound soil sample to your nursery for a laboratory analysis. This will end all guesswork. It can be as simple as too much plant food.

Q. Enclosed is a sprig cut from our lovely holly tree. As you can see, there is some sort of growth forming on the twig, and this causes the leaves to turn brown. This blight, or whatever it is, is spreading to many branches of the tree and total sections are turning brown.

A. Water the plant thoroughly and spray with Malathion at two-week intervals a few times. The sample indicates mealy-bugs are causing this problem. Feed the plant to restore the vitality needed for new growth.

Q. I am a newcomer with a problem; I want a tarragon plant for my herb garden and have not been able to buy one in my area. Twice I bought at a nursery outlet small plants labeled "French tarragon." They looked like tarragon plants but tasted like uninteresting weeds. I would appreciate advice as to where to get the real thing.

A. Wayside Gardens, Mentor, Ohio, 44060, offer Tarragon "Epicure" variety which should solve your problem. Many seeds are not listed in catalogs, so in such cases check the seed racks in your nursery for availability locally.

Taking Toil And Mess Out Of Your Interior Painting Job

By DAVID JORDAN

Painting can be fun and easy or it can be a miserable mess, depending on how it is done.

So before you start slinging paint around your house or apartment, here are some trouble-saving tips many other painters have picked up the hard way:

If you are painting finished furniture or woodwork, nothing beats a good over-all sanding. If you are lazy, sand the parts that get the most wear. Then wash the whole thing with "liquid sander" to take off wax, dirt and grease and soften old paint so the surface is more receptive.

ALWAYS MASK OFF woodwork when you paint walls (or the floor when painting woodwork) with a roll of inexpensive masking paper with one sticky edge. When you mask off a project, remove the tape while the paint is still wet; you'll get a smoother line.

Remove all knobs, hinges, and other hardware in preparation for painting furniture.

Wood knobs are easier to paint if you put the screw back in part way and hold the knob like a popsicle; or set the knob on the neck of a pop bottle and spray paint. You'll save time and do a better job.

If you are painting furniture with legs, drive a short nail in the bottom of each to boost them off the floor, so they won't stick to newspaper or whatever you use to catch drips. Place legless cabinets, chests, and the like on old magazines or wood blocks for the same reason.

WHEN YOU OPEN a can of paint, punch several holes in the groove the lid fits into. The paint slopped into the groove will run back into the can. When you put the lid on, it will seal against the side of the groove.

At the end of a job — before you start tapping the lid on with a hammer — drop an old rag over the can so you won't splash paint all over yourself. Smaller cans seal best if you set them flat on the floor and step on the top.

To keep paint from drying out in storage, invert the can once to seal around the lid.

When painting, submerge your brush bristles only about a third into the paint, and the brush will be easier to clean later.

BUY GOOD QUALITY brushes and take care of them. Don't bother with cheap ones; the bristles come out and they don't carry enough paint from the can to adequately do the job.

Cheap paint thinner or mineral spirits clean as well as turpentine and cost less. Of course, if you are using waterbased paint, plain water or soap and water will probably do the job. It's not necessary to clean your brush between coats of enamel — just put a tablespoon of thinner in plastic bag, stick the brush in, and tape the bag tightly around the brush handle.

Spray paint is handy for small projects, but because it's thin, plan to apply sevral light coats. If you use more than one can, try using only one nozzle so you will have a clean one for the next job. In fact, it pays to hoard clean spray can nozzles — it's nice to hav e spare ones on hand because they clog easily.

MOST COMPETING brand os spray paint aren't compatible, so if you are going to paint something with several colors, buy them all in the same brand. It's disheartening to see paint wrinkle and come off where colors overlap.

Before you start your next project take some time and plan ahead. Painting will go more easily and you will do a better job with fewer hassles.

A SANDY PLACE FOR FUN

REACH BACK INTO your childhood memories, and if you can go all the way to your tyke and toddler years, it is quite likely that a backyard sandbox was one of your most treasured possessions — and retreat from an adult world that didn't always understand the importance of play and having fun. Times have changed. But the sandbox remains a happy place for youngsters. Dad can build the one shown here at little cost and without any great expenditure of time. To begin, send $1 to Easi-Bild Pattern Co., Independent-Journal pattern department, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, and ask for Sandbox Pattern 20. Be sure to include your zip code number. The pattern also provides full-size decorating outlines. So all you have to do is trace the pattern, cut out the parts, assemble and paint according to the color guide for professional results.

The Lighting Problem Has Long Baffled The Home Decorator

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This frustration is likely to be experienced when one wants to light up a particular area — an art wall, a piano, a game table, an entranceway, a work table. To do so properly often has required major wall and ceiling installations which can be expensive.

WITH TRACK LIGHTING — the kind formerly seen mainly at museums, galleries, commercial showrooms and the like — now available for residential use, the task may be made easier, especially for do-it-yourselfers.

Lamp holders can be placed anywhere along a power track so that one can change the lighting in an area at whim. Then, too, the lamps are likely to use only 30, 40 or 50 watts instead of the higher 60 to 150 watts likely to be used in lamps or ceiling light.

Installation of these lighting systems is touted as a simple, do-it-yourself experience, advises one manufacturer.

THE TRACK IS placed against the area one chooses, and the locations of mounting holes are marked. Holes are drilled at the markings, and the track is fastened to the surface. After that, the lampholders — spheres, cylinders, squares — are inserted.

Light should hit the object at about a 30-to 45-degree angle.

In a room with a nine-foot ceiling, the track is set three to three-and-a-half feet away from the wall. If it is an eight-foot ceiling, the distance should be two to two and a half feet from the wall. If there is an outlet nearby, the installation might take only one-half hour.

THE TRACK COMES in two foot, four foot and eight foot kits with outlet boxes and mounting cover.

A good deal of fall decorating will concentrate on entranceways, interior designers predict. People are spending more time at home and the entranceway is their welcome mat.

Many entranceways are being livened up with shiny wall vinyls and other smashing wall coverings. Often it is the one opportunity for an amateur decorator to express herself fully, and if it all goes wrong, it doesn't cost too much to re-do it.

Teakwood-finished cylinder lampholders that blended with the background of dark paneling were used. One of her paintings, a large bird in orange, ochres and greens that captured the natural marks of the wood background, was placed against the paneling. Three sculptures — a standing man, a woman with a mandolin and a head, by her father — were set in a wood base surrounded by bright white Oriental stones.

Lampholders for track lighting come in white, aluminum and wood-grained finishes and can be connected to any electrical outlet, making the installation an easy do-it-yourself experience.

KNOTTY BUT AWFULLY NICE

IF YOU CAN TIE your shoe, then you can macrame, claims Steve Ellingson. He claims it is just that simple to turn out products such as the ones being shown above by attractive Suzanne Rogers of NBC-TV's "Days of Our Lives" series. And to further simplify the craft, Ellingson offers an instructional sheet that shows you not only how to knot the articles in the photograph, but an array of additional projects including a nylon seine dress. There are 150 pictures, drawings and patterns, along with detailed instructions, aimed at the beginner. To introduce yourself to a craft that has been with man and woman for centuries, and which was especially popular with sailors of the 19th century, send $1.75 to Steve Ellingson, Independent-Journal pattern department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409, and ask for Instruction Sheet 547 for Macrame.

That Aggravating Problem— The Door That Won't Close

By ANDY LANG

When a door in the house refuses to close or does so with great reluctance, it's usually because it is sagging.

This condition is often neglected for years, especially when it is possible to close the door by using a little upward pressure on the doorknob.

This nuisance is tolerated even though other repairs around the house may be undertaken without much delay. It can only be assumed that the neglect is the result of a belief that only a professional can solve the problem.

Actually, you can handle the repair in most cases without any special skill if you know what causes sagging.

THE MOST COMMON cause is one or more loose hinges. Since a loosened hinge may not be too noticeable, it often can be detected only if the door is opened and closed several times while the examination is being made. If there is even the tiniest fraction of an inch movement, it means either immediate or future trouble.

A double-check test is to insert a screwdriver blade into each screw and turn it clockwise. If the screw moves the slightest bit, it is not as tight as it should be to insure against sagging.

Re-tightening a screw with a screwdriver is not sufficient. It probably will become loose again after a short time.

The best solution is to remove the screw and fill the hole with wood putty, plastic wood or, for a short-time repair, steel wood. When the putty or plastic wood has dried, reset the screw. If you use steel wool to get a temporary result, the screw can be re-driven immediately.

IF YOU HAVE determined that all the screws and hinges are tightly in place, it may be that the lower hinge leaf on the door jamb may need to be shimmed. Take out the screws that hold the leaf in place. Put a thin piece of wood or cardboard under the leaf and reset the screws, which should go through the shim. If this lifts the door a little and it works better than before, but still not perfectly, try using an extra thickness of shim.

In occasional cases, the upper hinge plate has to be reset. This means deepening the mortised area under the plate, using a sharp chisel and working very carefully. When the plate is returned to position, it will set deeper into the wood.

There is a tendency to sand or plane the door to make it fit properly. Resist this move except as a last resort, since a big gap may result when a change in the weather dries out the wood. But if it must be done, be very certain to varnish or paint the sanded or planed area to prevent the entrance of moisture.

SOMETIMES THE door hasn't sagged at all. Instead, the threshold under the door has loosened and is a fraction of an inch higher than it was when originally installed.

If this is so, look for and remove any loose nails. Use new, preferably threaded, nails to drive the threshold solidly into the floor. Most thresholds are made of hardwood, which means that pilot holes must be driven for the nails to prevent the wood from splitting.

Carpet Industry Forms Panel For Consumers

The Carpet and Rug Industry Consumer Action Panel (CRICAP) was formed last year to assist consumers with their unresolved carpet and rug problems.

Basically, CRICAP is the carpet and rug industry's answer to consumers whose problems were not being processed through normal complaint handling procedures.

The Carpet and Rug Institute, the national trade association representing carpet and rug manufacturers, agreed to sponsor CRICAP and was instrumental in helping the panel develop its procedures for handling complaints.

If you have a carpet or rug complaint, CRICAP recommends that you apply the following procedures:

Read the descriptive literature that came with your carpet or rug to determine if the problem is a characteristic that would be expected to develop with the type of carpet or rug you have purchased.

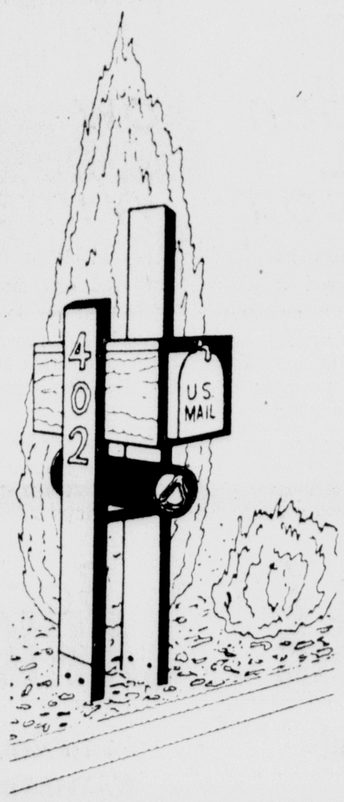

If you are confident that this is not the case, contact the retail firm where the carpet purchase was made. Allow the retail firm to inspect and to service your carpet or rug purchase as may be required.

If you are not completely satisfied, write to the manufacturer. Provide the manufacturer with full details of the problem and allow him sufficient time to investigate and to handle your complaint.

If your complaint is not resolved by the manufacturer, write to CRICAP. The panel will require all the facts and information you have assembled documenting your complaint.

POSTAL POSTS

TWO POSTS OF two-by-six-inch western wood have been slotted to hold this mailbox, protected by a surround of two-by-10s. The installation serves a very important secondary purpose of also displaying plainly at curbside the house number of the home. It's a simple but attractive plan for the home where the mailbox is freestanding.

Your Roofing Can Serve As Signature To House

Graphology — the analysis of handwriting — is at least 2,000 years old, according to a handwriting analyst who says a Roman once described Caesar Augustus as a stingy emperor who "squeezed his words together at the end of a line, rather than start a new one."

While graphology continues to be regarded by skeptics as in the same class with palmistry and reading tea leaves, the press recently reported a scientific study by a pair of University of California researchers who said their investigation of thousands of signatures confirmed that "you are what your signature says you are."

The Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association says that people also put their "signatures" on their homes. They do it in many ways, including exterior color selection, landscaping, roofing and lawn and architectural ornaments such as shutters and cupolas.

Color selection, for example, is as personal as one's handwriting. The association reminds home owners that color selection for the exterior of a home really begins with the roof, which is the home's largest unbroken visual expanse. Sound advice for using color on the roof is to use asphalt shingles in hues you can "live with" for a long time, since the shingles are designed to provide up to 25 years of service.

In addition to the traditional whites, blacks and grays, asphalt shingles today are available in popular new earthtones that are blends of browns, greens, olives and other colors that match well with modern exterior paint colors and also harmonize with the environment.

For a "bold signature" on your roof, the manufacturers association suggests you use one of the new heavy-textured asphalt shingles that create a rugged and rustic three-dimensional appearance. These shingles enable home owners to set their homes apart from those of their neighbors, and at the same time do it in a beautiful and tasteful manner.

In many cases, asphalt shingles can be applied directly over the old roofing, eliminating the cost of a tearoff.

For help in selecting a new roof, and in choosing a contractor to apply it, home owners may send for a newly revised booklet, "A Home Owner's Guide to the Selection of Quality Roofing." To obtain it, send 30 cents to SR&A, Box 3202, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y., 10017.

HERE'S THE ANSWER TO YOUR QUESTION

By ANDY LANG

Q. — I intend to cover our backyard patio with fiberglass roofing. Can you tell me what size wood to use for the rafters of the framework?

A. — Generally, two-by-six rafters, with a two-by-eight rafter support at the lower front where the four-by-four posts are located. But you would be unwise to buy any material until you find out what the local codes are for that type of construction. The codes will even specify how the wood is to be attached. If you take a chance and build the roof without investigating, you might have to take it down at a later date.

Q. — I'd like to use textured paint on one wall of my den. Someone has told me it's not a good idea because the wall can never be made smooth again. Can't it be sanded smooth if I want to change it in a few years?

A. — The advice you received was good. The wall might be made smooth again with an electric sander, but it would be a long, tough job and you'd probably regret you ever started it. Most persons who use textured paint are satisfied with the result.

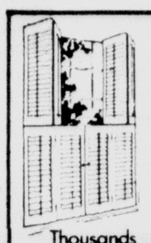

Q. — Can I apply plywood directly over a plaster wall?

A. — Yes, but the wall must be level to get a good result. If it is not level, you will have to put up furring strips first. In the first instance, the plywood is nailed into the studs behind the plaster. In the second, the furring is nailed to the studs, and the plywood nailed or glued to the furring strips.

Q. — Should varnish be heated before being used?

A. — It isn't necessary, but warming it helps it to flow easier. This should be done by placing the can in a pot of warm water. Don't warm it over an open flame.

ABC Is Joining The Craze For Warm, Virtuous People

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC, once highly regarded by violence fans for the gore and gunsmoke of its shows, has joined TV's new craze for warm, virtuous families. I have reference to ABC's "The New Land" series.

The show is about a sturdy Scandinavian clan which, seeing no fjord in its future, settles on the Minnesota prairie in 1858. The clan is well ahead of NBC's "Little House on the Prairie" mob; that crew got on TV first, but didn't move to rural Minnesota until 1878.

Despite the age difference, "The New Land," which premiered last Saturday night, apparently shares not only the land but also the same miseries as the family on the NBC show.

Those who saw the "Little House" opening will recall that Charles Ingalls almost lost his yoke of oxen to a hard-hearted merchant. "The New Land"

'The New Land' Draws Real Tough Time Slot

By JOSEPH THESKEN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — What do you put up against "All in the Family?" That's the annual quandary faced by the rival networks.

ABC-TV has had a succession of shows that perished in the face of Archie Bunker and his sometimes laughable prejudices. Last year the victim was "The Partridge Family."

This fall the heat is on a new series, "The New Land," the story of an immigrant Scandinavian family who settle in the territory that became Minnesota. Scott Thomas is cast as the husband, Christian Larsen, and Bonnie Bedelia as his wife, Anna.

I asked Bonnie if she were concerned about the time slot.

She gave a philosophical answer: "No, we are like a cork in water. Whatever happens, happens." Sounds a little like Doris Day's "Que Sera Sera."

But Bonnie is young and optimistic. She has had reasonable success as an actress, starting at 12 when she had a running part in the daytime soaper "Love of Life."

She co-starred on Broadway in the two-character play "My Sweet Charlie," a performance which won her the Theater World Award.

"The Immigrants" is her first TV series and she thinks it has a chance.

"I loved the film 'The Immigrants'," she said. "'The New Land' was a sequel, and I like that one, too.

"I feel the success of 'The Waltons' helped pave the way for this series."

Bonnie didn't mention it, but she and Thomas have double trouble in the 8 to 9 p.m. time slot on Saturdays.

In addition to "All in the Family," they will be up against CBS-TV's new comedy series with Paul Sand.

'The New Land' Draws Real Tough Time Slot

He plays a bass player with the Boston Symphony in the series.

I saw the pilot of "Paul Sand's Friends and Lovers" and found it top-notch comedy. The situations in which he can be involved are unlimited.

Neither Scott nor Bonnie is Scandinavian, but they pass because of their blond hair. Each had to have a dye job.

"I'm Irish, German, French and Swiss, that sort of thing," Bonnie explained. "Scott is Scotch and English."

Thomas, who was present for the interview, said he thinks part of the series' appeal will be the showing of America when the environment was uncluttered.

"It's nice to look back to the time in our history when the land was beautiful, when the streams were clear so you could drink from them, and when the air was crisp and unpolluted."

It is this back-to-nature approach of "The New Land" that may help it survive a clobbering by "All in the Family" and "Paul Sand's Friends and Lovers."

took the yoke one step further.

Lightning struck the barm of settlers Christian and Anna Larsen, set it ablaze and in no time at all the barn and the two oxen within were burnt down.

This was bad news for Christian, who needed the oxen to haul lumber to a freight company with which he had a contract. A proud man, he rejected a charity offer of new oxen from a neighbor, Johanson.

Then he met a Mormom family possessed of more oxen than it needed. He made a deal to give the Mormons a piece of land in exchange for the animals. Then Johanson told a town meeting of Scandinavians the Mormons would have to leave, as they were of the wrong heritage and would ruin the neighborhood. But it all ended happily. Ja, Ja, diss vass as bad as it sounded and ja, ve are vithholding de names of cast members to protect de innocent. And dey all are.

In tires, it's not the price you pay. It's how often you pay it.

This steel belted Radial Tire carries the Michelin Warranty* for 40,000 miles on the original tread. (Many owners get much more.) Puncture resistant Michelins give precise steering control, and smooth driving comfort. So stop in and start saving today.

40,000 MILE WARRANTY

*Michelin's Warranty for X Radial Highway Passenger Tire shown here covers tread life, normal road hazards (excluding repairable punctures) and defects in workmanship and materials for 40,000 miles, when tire is used on passenger vehicles in normal service in continental United States, except Alaska. Credit or refund (at Michelin's option) is equal to current actual selling price multiplied by percentage of warranted mileage not run on tire.

SAVE ON YOUR FUEL COSTS

Because of the lower rolling resistance of Michelin "X" radials over conventional bias-ply tires, you might get as much as 10% savings over your present gas consumption. This means more miles per gallon of gas. It means dollars saved. And it means that less fuel has to come out of the economy to keep your car on the road.

Martha Tilton Will Appear In Television Special Soon

Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — In the late '30s and early '40s, when she was Benny Goodman's girl singer, fans called her "liltin' Martha Tilton."

And she's still a liltin' lady with a lilt to her walk, a lilt to her conversation and the liltin'est smile you ever saw.

She came into the Padrino Room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel the other day to talk about "The Queen of the Stardust Ballroom," a two-hour music drama for CBS in which she's appearing, but she also talked about Goodman, her family and, of course, her biggest hit of all, "And the Angels Sing."

"Ziggy Elman recorded it first," she remembered. "He'd taken it from a Jewish wedding song and had recorded it as an instrumental.

"Benny heard it and liked it and decided to record it as a vocal, so Johnny Mercer wrote lyrics.

"I didn't expect it to be a hit, because Johnny was literally writing the words as we went along. We recorded at Victor, and, after every take, he'd change a line. But the song was a hit right away."

Benny had come to California to make a picture with Dick Powell and Frances Langford when he encountered Martha. She was singing with a group called Three Hits and a Miss and was doing vocal back-up work on Kay Kyser's "Kollege of Musical Knowledge," a radio show, when she was invited to audition for the jazz maestro.

"I don't think Benny really wanted a vocalist," she says, "because he was only interested in instrumental music, but he realized he had to have one.

"On Kay Kyser's show, I worked with a chorus (Jo Stafford was in it, incidentally), but I sang a four-bar solo, and that's what attracted Benny's manager's attention.

"He was the one who suggested the audition.

"Anyway, I auditioned, and during about my third song, Benny walked out. I was heartbroken.

"I went home crying and told my mother I'd had my greatest opportunity and had failed.

"But, in a little while, the manager called, asking, 'Where did you go?'

"I told him that when Mr. Goodman walked out I'd assumed he wasn't interested in me.

"That wasn't the case,' the manager said. 'He'd already heard enough and had told me to hire you. He left because he had another appointment.'

"I was told to be ready to leave with the band in four days, so I rushed out and bought a wardrobe of horrible, cheap clothes, including something called a 'Jap mink' coat. I was as green as grass."

On the strength of her popularity as a singer, Martha made two movies, "Crime, Incorporated" and "Swing Hostess," neither of which did anything to further her career as an actress.

"Queen of the Stardust Ballroom" brings Martha back to television for the first time since she was a regular on The Kurt Massey Show some years ago. In the drama, which stars Maureen Stapleton and Charles Durning, she plays a ballroom singer. It will be aired by CBS sometime during the 1974-75 television season.

Married twice, Martha has three children, two sons by her first marriage and a 20-year-old daughter by her second.

Her first husband was Goodman's manager, and her second, formerly a test pilot for North American, works for Rockwell International.

"My oldest son is with Capitol Records," Martha said, "and my youngest works for the city.

"My sons are bachelors, but I wish they'd get married, because I want grandchildren. I adored my own grandmother. She taught me to swim.

"After my first husband and I were divorced — and, incidentally, he was a very fine man — I didn't marry again for eight years. But then I met my present husband, and Cathy was our little surprise.

"She has the sweetest, prettiest voice, but she's not at all interested in singing professionally.

Beauty Pageant

NBC-TV was the first network to provide color coverage of the annual Miss America Pageant. On Sept. 7, NBC-TV will colorcast this prestigious event from Atlantic City, N.J., for the ninth consecutive year.

TELEVISION SPECIAL — Liltin' Martha Tilton (center), famous for her biggest hit, "And the Angels Sing," will be seen soon on TV in a two-hour music drama "The Queen of the Stardust Ballroom," playing the part of a ballroom singer. Appearing with her will be Maureen Stapleton and Charles Durning.

Spain All Agog Over Television

MADRID (UPI) — Anyone who doubts the impact of television in Spain has only to walk through a major city on a warm evening.

From almost every open window, and with the famous Spanish immunity to noise, emerge the sounds of the latest popular American television series or movie re-run.

And the sounds are in strict unison: In Spain there is only one major channel.

Official statistics confirm television's obvious popularity. When the government-run network first started broadcasting 20 years ago, a television set was a rarity. Now there are 6.5 million of them in Spain, or one receiver for every six Spaniards.

There is limited color transmission on a test basis, and once authorities decide on the system to be used, color television is expected to enjoy a similar acceptance.

But in the opinion of many viewers, Spanish television leaves much to be desired.

"We have the worst of both the commercial and government-run systems," said Horacio Pau, a lawyer who watches his set only a few hours a week. "We have the endless ads of commercial television combined with the government censorship."

Added another "telespectador": "At least in America you can choose which bad show you want to watch."

In an effort to improve the quality, a second UHF channel was instituted severalyears ago as an outlet for ambitious young directors and artists and a cultural refuge for theater and music lovers. But it has met with limited success. Most observers feel its offerings are of uneven quality. It reaches only 35 per cent of the country and its transmission time is half that of the first station.

Among the more popular first channel shows are soccer matches and bullfights. In the evening, prime time is occuped by movies, usually American, and two or three weekly series, also American. The present favorite is "The Protectors," which replaced the very popular "Kung Fu."

The American influence also is felt in the several daily newscasts, which have adopted the format of an "anchor man" assisted by several reporters. In line with a cautious liberalization, they recently presented government ministers explaining policy or mentioned illegal labor strikes, something previously unthinkable.

For the rest, however, it is a steady diet of soap operas, documentaries, cartoons. Each slot is preceded and followed by a stream of short advertisements and, with typical Spanish imprecision, the slots seldom begin or end at the moment programmed. And of course everything closes down for the traditional siesta.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR GEORGE PEPPARD, star of "Banacek"

Do you like doing love scenes with all those pretty girls on screen? What's your feeling about marriage?—M. Adams, Ogden, Utah

● Who could NOT like doing those love scenes? But doing them in front of a bunch of people rather takes the edge off it. I'd prefer to do those scenes in private! As for marriage, I've been married twice, but it hasn't soured me. I'm a one-woman man, that's for sure, but whether it develops into a marital relationship depends on the woman. When "Miss Right" comes along, without any hesitation, I'll make her Mrs. George Peppard.

FOR JEAN NIDETCH, founder of Weight Watchers

What's the most memorable story you can tell about weight loss?—A. S., Little Rock, Ark.

● I'll never forget a priest at a Weight Watchers convention in Madison Square Garden telling 17,000 people that he was prompted to join Weight Watchers because his weight stopped him from bending to kneel as he prayed. He subsequently lost more than 300 pounds. I shall always remember the emotion in his voice as he explained how, when he could finally kneel again, he felt much closer to God.

FOR ELSA LANCHESTER, costar of the movie "Arnold"

How do today's stars compare with those of your generation?—S. Weiss, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● They're too stuck-up! Most of them have enormous egos and feel superior to any other line of work. Also, they don't want this role or that role because it's below their dignity. That's nonsense! We were taught a performer must perform. Also, they're ill-prepared to do any other sort of work.

FOR PAT COOPER, comedian

My mother-in-law, who came from Italy, thinks she may know your relatives there. What town and province do your people come from?—Elinor Filice, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I'm sorry, but I don't really know. I was christened Pasquale Caputo, which is a very common name in Italy and elsewhere—almost like John Smith. But I wish we were related, because I've always wanted to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel—with my family watching and cheering me as I do wonderful tricks like looping-the-loop.

FOR HARVEY KORMAN of "The Carol Burnett Show"

You're such a good comic. Do you ever plan to have a show of your own?—Kate Allen, Bloomington, Ill.

● Sometime in the future, if the right format could be found, I might like to have a show of my own. But the thing I really want to do more of is directing. I tried it a couple of times and I loved it.

FOR PHYLLIS DILLER

● You bet I am. I feel it's my duty to open a chain because my chili cures ulcers. It very quickly eats out your entire stomach, which is a quicker and more enjoyable way of kissing your ulcers good-bye than surgery.

FOR IRVING WALLACE, author

Your new novel, "The Fan Club," is about the kidnapping of a Hollywood sex symbol by four average men. Is that based on a true incident?—F. Leeburg, Memphis, Tenn.

● No, I made it up entirely. However, after the book was well on its way I read a story of four men in the Philippines being condemned to death for the abduction and rape of a popular film actress. Funny how life and art sometimes tell the same stories!

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

● He can't. An IQ is just an indication of his capacity. No one works up to his (or her) capacity; and it's been estimated that we only use ten percent of our capacity. So by continuing to learn, to be interested in the world around him and to make himself open to new ideas, although he (or she) does not raise his IQ, he raises his functioning ability.

FOR DON SHULA, coach of the Miami Dolphins

People say you shouldn't be critical of Larry Csonka for jumping to the World Football League because you jumped from the Baltimore Colts. Agreed?—Jack Stevenson, Canton, Ohio

● There is absolutely no parallel. My position as coach in Baltimore was deteriorating rapidly, and owner Carroll Rosenbloom was quoted as saying he was going to fire me. When I got the offer from Miami, Rosenbloom was traveling out of the country, so I received permission to leave from his son.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

What would you say is the toughest political job in the nation today—excluding the Presidency?—L. K., Los Angeles, Calif.

● It could well be running the Republican party in Democratic little old New York. What makes the job so difficult now is that, in addition to Watergate, which all Republicans must face this year, New York County Democrats out-register Republicans 4-1. Also, this fellow, Vincent F. Albano, Jr., is leader in a city in which only two Republican mayors have ruled in the past half century, and one of them, John V. Lindsay, wound up as a Democrat. The other, Fiorello LaGuardia, only became mayor because he was a Fusion candidate. That's why many politicos feel Albano's job may be the most difficult in the whole world.

By
Robert A. Heinlein

A Famous Author Looks at Patriotism

"A tribe or a nation can lose a high percentage of its men and still pick up the pieces and go on as long as the women and children are saved."

Robert A. Heinlein is one of the foremost science-fiction writers of our time. His novel "Stranger in a Strange Land" has earned him a large following on college campuses—and off them.

Mr. Heinlein delivered the James Forrestal Memorial Lecture on April 5, 1973, to the Brigade of Midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., his alma mater. This is an excerpt from the conclusion of the lecture.

Patriotism—an abstract word used to describe a type of behavior as harshly practical as good brakes and good tires. It means that you place the welfare of your nation ahead of your own even if it costs you your life.

Men who go down to the sea in ships have long had another way of expressing the same moral behavior tagged by the abstract expression "patriotism." Spelled out in simple Anglo-Saxon words, "patriotism" reads "Women and children first!"

And that is the moral result of realizing a self-evident biological fact: Men are expendable; women and children are not. A tribe or a nation can lose a high percentage of its men and still pick up the pieces and go on as long as the women and children are saved. But if you fail to save the women and children, you've had it, you're done, you're through! You join Tyrannosaurus rex, one more breed that bilged its final test.

I must amplify that. I know that women can fight and often have. I have known many a tough old grandmother I would rather have at my side in a tight spot than any number of males who disdain military service. Nevertheless, as a mathematical proposition in the facts of biology, children, and women of childbearing age, are the ultimate treasure that we must save. Every human culture is based on "Women and children first"—and any attempt to do it any other way leads quickly to extinction.

Possibly extinction is the way we are headed. Great nations have died in the past; it can happen to us.

Nor am I certain how good our chances are. To me it seems self-evident that any nation that loses its patriotic fervor is on the skids. Without that indispensable survival factor, the end is only a matter of time. I don't know how deeply the rot has penetrated—but it seems to me that there has been a change for the worse in the last 50 years. Possibly I am misled by the offensive behavior of a noisy but unimportant minority. But it does seem to me that patriotism has lost its grip on a large percentage of our people.

I hope I am wrong, because if my fears are well-grounded, I would not bet two cents on this nation's chance of lasting even to the end of this century.

But there is no way to force patriotism on anyone. Passing a law will not create it, nor can we buy it by appropriating so many billions of dollars.

I said that "patriotism" is a way of saying "Women and children first." And that no one can force a man to feel this way. Instead he must embrace it freely. I want to tell about one such man. He wore no uniform and no one knows his name, nor where he came from; all we know is what he did.

In my hometown 60 years ago, when I was a child, my mother and father used to take me and my brothers and sisters out to Swope Park on Sunday afternoons. It was a wonderful place for kids, with picnic grounds and lakes and a zoo. But a railroad line cut straight through it.

One Sunday afternoon a young married couple were crossing those tracks. She apparently did not watch her step, for she managed to catch her foot in the frog of a switch to a siding and could not pull it free. Her husband stopped to help her.

But try as they might they could not get her foot loose. While they were working at it, a tramp showed up, walking the ties. He joined the husband in trying to pull the young woman's foot loose. No luck.

Out of sight around the curve a train whistled. Perhaps there would have been time to run and flag it down, perhaps not. In any case both men went right ahead trying to pull her free—and the train hit them.

The wife was killed, the husband was mortally injured and died later, the tramp was killed—and testimony showed that neither man made the slightest effort to save himself.

The husband's behavior was heroic, but what we expect of a husband toward his wife: his right and his proud privilege, to die for his woman. But what of the nameless stranger? Up to the very last second he could have jumped clear. He did not. He was still trying to save this woman he had never seen before in his life, right up to the very instant the train killed him. And that's all we'll ever know about him.

The Lazy Man's Way to Riches

'Most People Are Too Busy Earning a Living to Make Any Money'

I used to work hard. The 18-hour days. The 7-day weeks.

For example, this ad took about 2 hours to write. With a little luck, it should earn me 50, maybe a hundred thousand dollars.

What's more, I'm going to ask you to send me 10 dollars for something that'll cost me no more than 50 cents. And I'll try to make it so irresistible that you'd be a darned fool not to do it.

After all, why should you care if I make $9.50 profit if I can show you how to make a lot more.

What if I'm so sure that you will make money my Lazy Man's Way that I'll make you the world's most unusual guarantee?

And here it is: I won't even cash your check or money order for 31 days after I've sent you my material.

If you don't agree that it's worth at least a hundred times what you invested, send it back. Your uncashed check or money order will be put in the return mail.

The only reason I won't send it to you and bill you or send it C.O.D. is because both these methods involve more time and money.

And I'm already going to give you the biggest bargain of your life.

Because I'm going to tell you what it took me 11 years to perfect: How to make money the Lazy Man's Way.

O.K.—now I have to brag a little. I don't mind it. And it's necessary—to prove that sending me the 10 dollars . . . which I'll keep "in escrow" until you're satisfied . . . is the smartest thing you ever did.

I live in a home that's worth $100,000. I know it is, because I turned down an offer for that much. My mortgage is less than half that, and the only reason I haven't paid if off is because my Tax Accountant says I'd be an idiot.

My "office," about a mile and a half from my home, is right on the beach. My view is so breathtaking that most people comment that they don't see how I get any work done. But I do enough. About 6 hours a day, 8 or 9 months a year.

The rest of the time we spend at our mountain "cabin." I paid $30,000 for it—cash.

I have 2 boats and a Cadillac. All paid for.

We have stocks, bonds, investments, cash in the bank. But the most important thing I have is priceless: time with my family.

And I'll show you just how I did it—the Lazy Man's Way—a secret that I've shared with just a few friends 'til now.

It doesn't require "education." I'm a high school graduate.

It doesn't require "capital." When I started out, I was so deep in debt that a lawyer friend advised bankruptcy as the only way out. He was wrong. We paid off our debts and, outside of the mortgage, don't owe a cent to any man.

It doesn't require "luck." I've had more than my share, but I'm not promising you that you'll make as much money as I have. And you may do better; I personally know one man who used these principles, worked hard, and made 11 million dollars in 8 years. But money isn't everything.

It doesn't require "talent." Just enough brains to know what to look for. And I'll tell you that.

It doesn't require "youth." One woman I worked with is over 70. She's travelled the world over, making all the money she needs, doing only what I taught her.

It doesn't require "experience." A widow in Chicago has been averaging $25,000 a year for the past 5 years, using my methods.

What does it require? Belief. Enough to take a chance. Enough to absorb what I'll send you. Enough to put the principles into action. If you do just that—nothing more, nothing less—the results will be hard to believe. Remember—I guarantee it.

You don't have to give up your job. But you may soon be making so much money that you'll be able to. Once again—I guarantee it.

The wisest man I ever knew told me something I never forgot: "Most people are too busy earning a living to make any money."

Don't take as long as I did to find out he was right.

I'll prove it to you, if you'll send in the coupon now. I'm not asking you to "believe" me. Just try it. If I'm wrong, all you've lost is a couple of minutes and a postage stamp. But what if I'm right?

The Franklin Mint announces ~

Norman Rockwell's Medallic Tribute to Robert Frost

12 original works of art by Norman Rockwell capturing the spirit of Robert Frost's poetry in the enduring beauty of solid sterling silver.

Issued in a single limited edition
Available only until September 30, 1974

NORMAN ROCKWELL has been portraying America and its people in his art for most of this century. And Robert Frost, during his lifetime, recorded his devotion to America – in poetic words – with the same warmth and love.

Now, for the Centennial of Robert Frost's birth, the beloved artist Norman Rockwell will pay special tribute to this great American poet.

Rockwell has created twelve original works of art inspired by the beautiful poetry of Robert Frost, and these are being issued exclusively in the form of solid sterling silver art medals.

This collection of twelve fine art medals–"Norman Rockwell's Medallic Tribute to Robert Frost"–will be both unique and rare.

Unique because the art for each medal was created by Norman Rockwell exclusively for this series.

Rare because these medals will be issued only once–in a strictly limited edition–never to be offered again.

Captures the spirit of Frost's poetry

Each sterling silver art medal will interpret one of the most memorable poems of Robert Frost. The Gift Outright, the poem which Frost recited at the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy. Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening, evoking the quiet beauty of a New England winter. Mending Wall. Dust of Snow. Birches. A Time to Talk . . . twelve inspiring poems, each sensitively portrayed by the best-loved artist of our time.

This unique series of art medals is recognized by the estate of Robert Frost as the only official medallic collection honoring the 100th anniversary of the great poet's birth.

Exquisite art medals

Each medal will be struck in solid sterling silver by The Franklin Mint, the world's largest private mint and foremost producer of fine medallic art.

Each medal will measure 44mm (1¾") in diameter and will be minted with the finest proof-quality finish, individually hallmarked, and will bear the famous Norman Rockwell signature. The special dies used to mint each medal will be hand-finished by master engravers, so that the sculptured design area stands out boldly in frosted relief against a brilliant mirror-like background. Truly, the highest achievement of the minter's art.

A strictly limited edition

The total number of sets minted will be exactly equal to the number of valid orders postmarked by September 30, 1974. After the medals have been struck for each subscriber, the dies will be destroyed to guarantee the rarity of the collection.

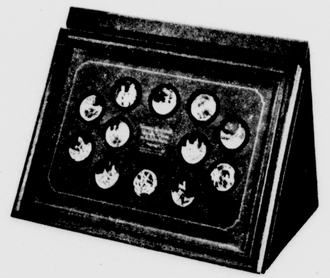

Subscribers may build their collections on a convenient monthly basis. The twelve solid sterling silver proof medals will be issued at the rate of one medal per month at a cost of $25. each. This price will be guaranteed to each subscriber for the entire series, no matter how high the price of silver may rise. In view of recent dramatic increases in the market price of silver, this is an extremely significant guarantee.

To protect and display the complete collection, a deluxe collector's case with hardwood display frame will be provided at no additional charge.

An heirloom collection

Any new work by an artist of the stature of Norman Rockwell is certain to be a prized heirloom. This new collection will be especially treasured. Not only for its beauty, rarity and intrinsic value–but because it is a significant commemoration of a great poet and a great human being.

To acquire this heirloom collection, your subscription must be postmarked by September 30, 1974. Please note that there is a strict limit of one Proof Set per person.

Dishes Your Man Will Love (And Maybe Love To Fix)

Chinese Sweet 'n' Sour Beef

5 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 large onion, cut in thin wedges
1 can (8½ ozs.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
1 green pepper, cut in squares
1 can (13¼ ozs.) pineapple tidbits or chunks, undrained
2 tablespoons ketchup
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons cold water
2 firm, ripe tomatoes, cut in eighths
Hot cooked rice

1. Trim excess fat from beef. Prepare meat, one side at a time, with meat tenderizer as follows: Thoroughly moisten meat with water. Sprinkle tenderizer as evenly as salt over entire meat surface. To insure penetration of tenderizer and retain meat juices, pierce meat deeply with fork at ½-inch intervals.

2. With sharp knife, cut beef diagonally across grain into thin slices.

3. In wok or large skillet heat 3 tablespoons vegetable oil until hot but not smoking.

4. Quickly brown beef over high heat, stirring rapidly 3-4 minutes. Remove meat and pan drippings to platter.

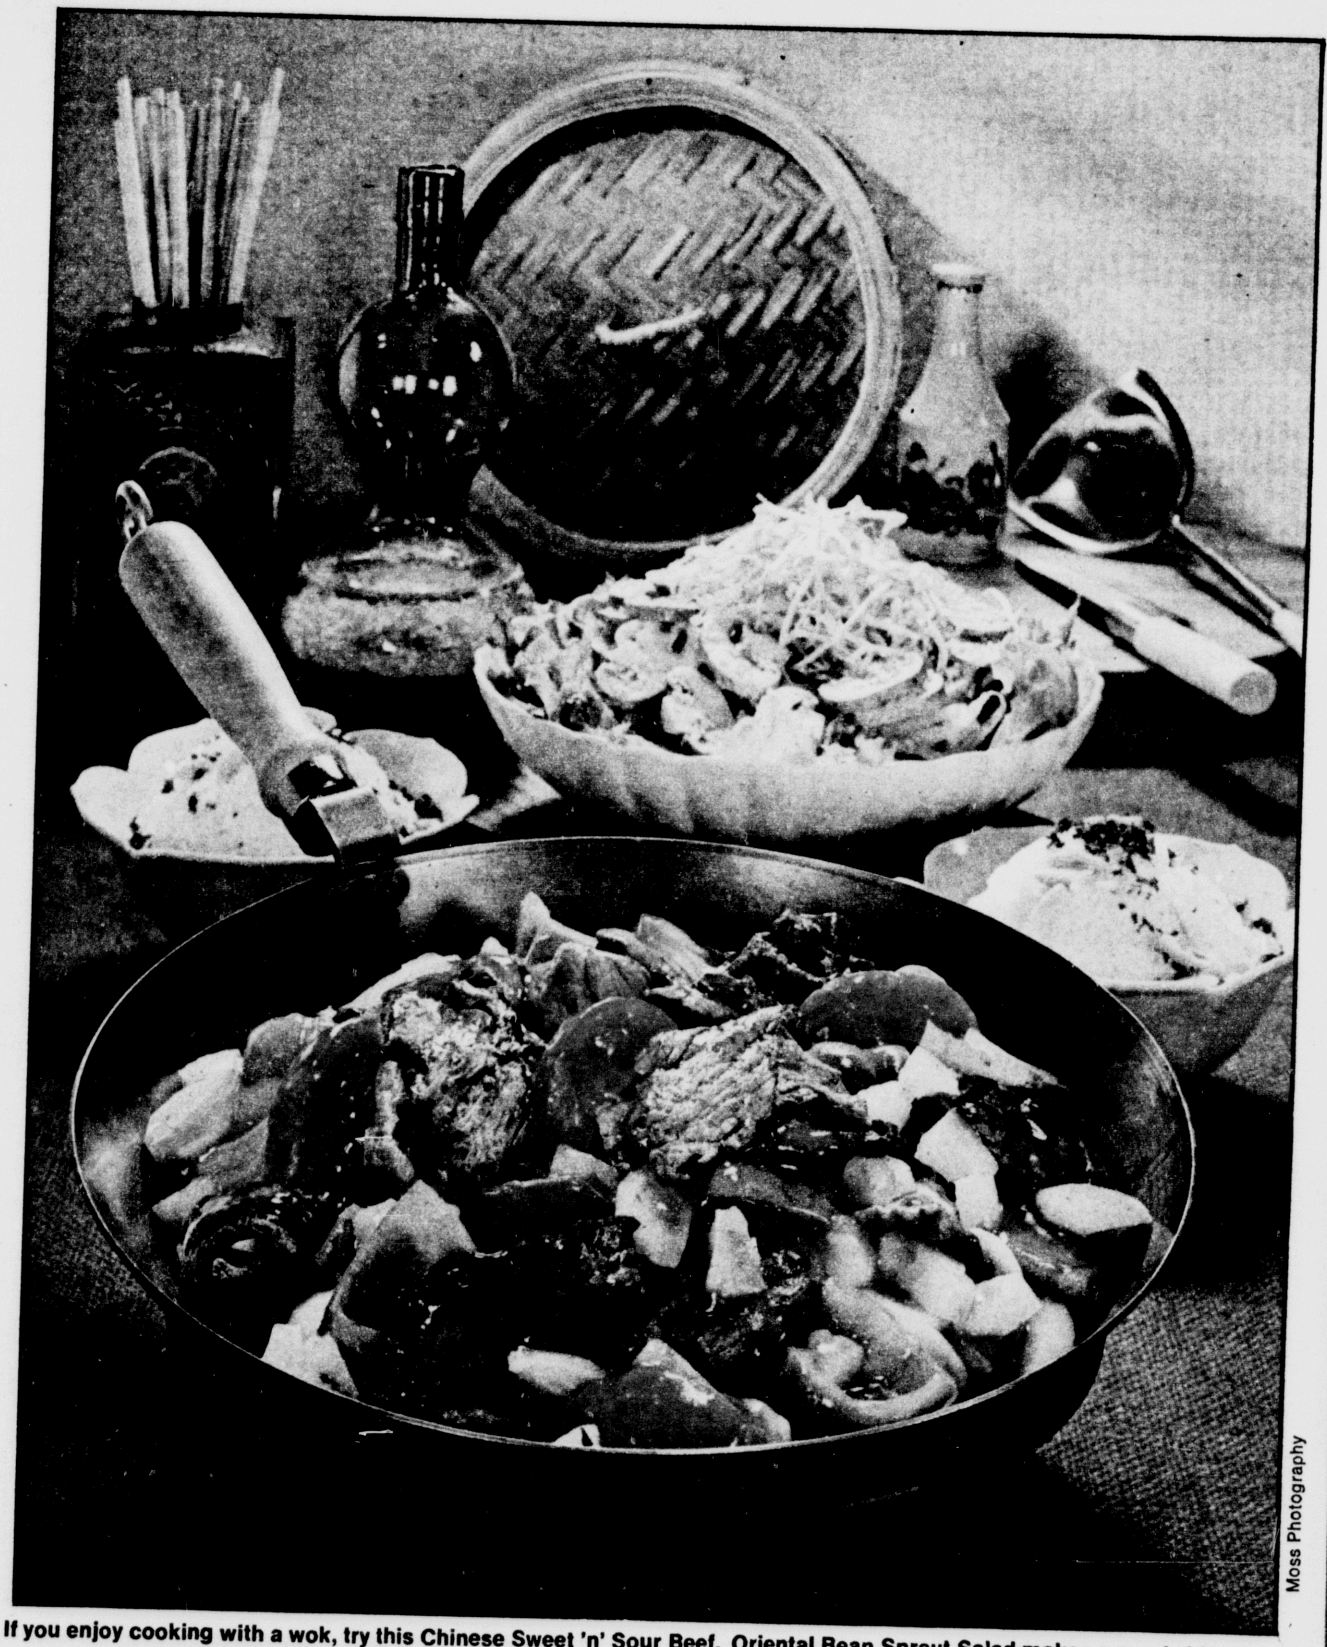

5. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons oil in same skillet. Add onion, water chestnuts and green pepper. Stir-fry until tender-crisp, about 3 minutes.

6. Add undrained pineapple, ketchup, vinegar, soy sauce and sugar. Heat to boiling.

7. Mix cornstarch smoothly with cold water. Add to sauce in skillet and heat, stirring, until sauce clears and thickens.

8. Return meat and drippings to skillet and add tomatoes; heat through. Serve over hot cooked rice. Makes 5-6 servings

A Celebrity Cooks

Gary Collins: "I Miss Italian Food in Kenya!"

Pictorial Parade

Gary Collins with his wife, Mary Ann Mobley, who was Miss America in 1959.

By Gary Collins
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

Gary Collins, who appeared in the series "The Sixth Sense," is now starring for NBC-TV in "Born Free." It is being filmed in Kenya, and he talked with Helen Dorsey from there:

We have had some very good African food here in Kenya, but for the most part, we have European cooking. I miss Italian food particularly because I love to cook. I cook all our meals at home: roast pork, steak, lasagna, spaghetti (Mary Ann is very good with spaghetti sauce) or osso buco. And I make a terrific spinach salad almost every night.

OSSO BUCO

8 pieces veal shank, about 3 inches thick
Seasoned flour
4 tablespoons fine-grade olive oil
1 onion, peeled and chopped
1 clove garlic, pressed
1 teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon oregano
Salt
Pepper
1 cup chopped tomatoes (fresh or canned), drained
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 cup chicken stock
1 cup dry white wine
4 small carrots, peeled and diced
6 pearl onions, peeled
4 potatoes, peeled, cut in quarters
1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
½ teaspoon dried sage
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

1. Dredge veal liberally with seasoned flour. Brown on all sides in olive oil in large skillet or Dutch oven. Remove shanks; set aside.

2. Add onion and garlic to skillet; sauté until onion softens. Return veal to skillet.

3. Add basil, oregano, salt and pepper to taste, tomatoes, lemon juice, chicken stock and wine. Stir lightly. Cover, bring to boil. Simmer 1 hour, or until meat is tender.

4. Add carrots, onions and potatoes; cover, simmer 30 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender.

5. Add parsley, sage and lemon rind; taste to correct seasonings. Serve at once.

Makes 6 servings

SPINACH SALAD SUPREME

4 slices crisp bacon, drained
1 tablespoon bacon drippings
4 tablespoons fine-grade olive oil
3 tablespoons wine vinegar
1 lb. raw spinach, washed and well drained
2 hard-cooked eggs, peeled and sliced
Small white onion, peeled, cut in rings
Freshly ground black pepper
Salt

1. Crumble bacon; drain again on absorbent paper.

2. In small bowl or glass jar, combine bacon drippings, olive oil and vinegar. Mix well; set aside.

3. Place spinach, eggs, onion and bacon crumbles in salad bowl. Season liberally with salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle with dressing, tossing well.

Makes 3 servings

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

What Do We Know About "Worriers"?

True or False: Anxious people, who go through life feeling apprehensive, are the most enthusiastic spreaders of rumor and gossip. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Just as misery loves company, anxiety-ridden people prefer the company of others who are similarly worried and anxious.

2. A worried, anxious state of mind makes you much more subject to motion sickness, whether traveling by land, sea or air.

3. When you get up in the morning oppressed by a feeling of vague worry and free-floating anxiety, you'll feel better if you wear something that's blue or yellow.

4. Anxious people, who go through life feeling apprehensive, are the most enthusiastic spreaders of rumor and gossip.

5. An anxious, apprehensive state of mind makes you much more subject to accident—either as a pedestrian threading your way through traffic or as the driver of an automobile.

ANSWERS

1. False—as shown by the findings of a psychological study that proved that more often than not people who scored high on anxiety tests preferred the company of calm, unruffled people who were as far from anxious as you can get. Despite the saying to the contrary, the investigation showed that "Misery sometimes loves non-miserable company."

2. True—as evidenced by psychological studies at the University of London that evaluated the findings of leading researches on why some people are susceptible to motion sickness. The conclusion: Available evidence strongly suggests that "motion sickness (in its various and sundry forms) is related to a person's general anxiety level."

3. True—according to the findings of a university study assessing people's instinctive psychological responses to color, which showed that blue had a calming effect on subjects and that "yellow produced increased 'positive' feelings [e.g., happiness]."

4. True. In a Temple University study, students' anxiety was measured by a standard anxiety scale. The students were then divided into two groups: the high scorers and those who evinced low anxiety. Rumor transmission was studied by exposing members of high- and low-anxiety groups to various rumors. Results: "High-anxiety groups confronted with a rumor transmitted that rumor throughout the group with a higher frequency than did similar groups of low-anxiety subjects." Moral: If you don't want a rumor to spread, the last thing you should do is confide it to someone who's anxious and worried.

5. True. University studies show that an anxious, apprehensive state of mind makes a person more vulnerable to accident or injury because it interferes with his mental processes, slowing his reaction time significantly and making it more difficult for him to get out of danger's way.

Wimbledon Champ JIMMY CONNORS: Women Trained Him to Beat the Men

Pictorial Parade

Jimmy with bride-to-be Chris Evert.

Jimmy Connors, the 21-year-old southpaw who vaulted to the top of the tennis world with his victory at Wimbledon this year, has had an unusual association with women players. He is the first top tennis pro to have been taught by women—his grandmother and his mother, both former tournament players and teaching pros—and he is engaged to 19-year-old Chris Evert, who won the women's crown at Wimbledon. Jimmy and Chrissie were among the youngest to win this most famous of all net tournaments and represent the only engaged couple to win it. . . . The couple have no truck with the so-called "new morality." They both come from devoted, religiously oriented families and, until their marriage in November, will continue to be chaperoned. Chrissie's mother, Colette, usually accompanies her, and Jimmy is occasionally accompanied by his mother, Gloria Connors. Though both have become wealthy at a young age—each earns well over $100,000 a year in prize money and more via endorsements—they insist they play for the love of the game more than for the financial reward. . . . The two are poles apart in temperament. Chrissie is the polite, well-mannered "Miss Goody Two-Shoes." Jimmy is colorful and temperamental. He alternates between being the clown on court and playing the role of a firebrand who fights with the officials and gets into noisy arguments with opposing players and fans who heckle him. . . . Jimmy was born in St. Louis and then moved across the river with his family to Belleville, Ill. His dad (a non-tennis player) manages the bridge that crosses the Mississippi between Belleville and St. Louis. Jimmy's two female tutors introduced him to tennis when he was three, and by the time he was eight, he was playing—and winning—boys tournaments. "I never had time for any friends," Jimmy recalls. "From the beginning, tennis was my life." . . . When Jimmy began winning from his mother regularly at 17, she decided he was ready for advanced coaching and took him out to California. He was placed under the wing of an old friend of the Connors' family—one-time tennis great Pancho Segura—and developed the blistering drives and pinpoint accuracy necessary to win in the male tournaments. He went to UCLA for a while and won the NCAA tennis championship, but then dropped out to become a full-time net performer. At 5-10 and 155 pounds, he is comparatively small for a professional, but he compensates for this by his tremendous speed and a leaping, lunging style. To maintain his speed and power, he runs two miles every day and does a long rope-jumping session. He became the youngest player ever to win the U.S. professional championship, and won 12 out of 19 tournaments before Wimbledon. When he routed the veteran Ken Rosewall in the finals of the big tourney, Rosewall said of him, "He's just unbelievable. He is without a doubt the finest young player in the world today."

RODNEY IN LONDON
"Home, James!"

Bounding up from the relatively humble but good-paying beginnings of hamburger commercials, Rodney Allen Rippy faced a problem with autograph-seeking fans in England this summer. Like most five-year-olds, he can't write. While he learns the craft of writing, the million-dollar child star is using a rubber stamp with his "signature" on it to satisfy the rushing crowds. Rodney, who enjoyed being called "Mr. Rippy" while in London, convinced the Englishman in our photo that he'd wait a while before trying to drive a Rolls-Royce. Rodney has an upcoming date starring in a new Saturday children's TV series, "The Harlem Globetrotters Popcorn Machine."

New York City's Churchill School offers a new approach to children with learning disabilities. It is named after Winston Churchill, says Director Harry S. Valentine III, "because Sir Winston was a notoriously slow learner." Valentine, an independently wealthy social registerite, had a speech impediment in his youth and still stutters under stress. The school, now going into its second year, combines physiological, psychological and educational training. "We have found that many learning problems stem from neurophysical disorders," says Valentine. The school offers a unique foster-parent plan for children who live outside the city. For more information, write: The Churchill School, 22 E. 95th St., New York, N.Y. 10028.

QUOTE: How to tell what a face-lift would do to you: "Look in the mirror, place your index fingers flat against the temples and pull the skin back toward your ears, to get a slight idea of how lines would be smoothed out by an eye-lift. Put the same fingers on your cheeks and pull away the loose skin around your mouth. Next flatten your palms on both cheeks and pull back the skin a bit on each side of your face to gain an overall impression of what a face-lift might accomplish." From "Doctor, Make Me Beautiful," by James W. Smith, M.D., and Samm Sinclair Baker (Bantam, $1.75). UNQUOTE.

Roger Bannister

Today Roger Bannister jogs to work in a business suit and tie, but 20 years ago his attire was different. On a cold, blustery evening then Bannister ran the first "four-minute mile" – in three minutes and 59 seconds, breaking all previous records. As he celebrated the anniversary of the event, Bannister admitted the years have caught up with him somewhat. Now the chairman of the British Sports Council, Bannister says that he can still run the mile—not in four minutes, perhaps, but in "closer to five minutes than six."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

HOUSE CALLS

If doctors don't make house calls, think
Not of a stopped-up nose but sink.
Imagine if you phoned the plumber
And told him what was on the bummer
And he replied, with firm-set chin,
"You'd better bring your sick sink in,"
Or, lights gone out, the electrician
You asked to make a mercy mission
And he, of whom you'd been admiring
Till now, advised, "Bring in your wiring."
I guess I shouldn't do much grousin':
A house call could be: "Bring your house in."

An ecologist is someone who writes 600-page books asking where all the trees have gone. —Robert Orben

An angler carrying a huge two-foot-long trout met another fisherman whose catch consisted of 12 little bony minnows. "Howdy," said the first man as he laid down his big fish and waited for a comment. The other fisherman stared at it for a moment, then calmly remarked, "Just caught the one, eh?"
—Lucille S. Harper

After our son had been in first grade a week my husband asked him what he learned in school so far. He said, "We learned arithmetic." "Oh," my husband said, "like 1 plus 1?" "No," replied our son, "we haven't gotten that far yet." —Mrs. James Rouscher

Mother: "Just returned from a pleasure trip."
Friend: "Where did you go?"
Mother: "Drove the kids to school."
